rs. Bennett Says She Lost Husband's Love When Prosperity Replaced Poverty.

HE IS IN THE DEATH CELL

or Safety and Companionship Mrs. Evelyn Helms, Facing Similar Charge, Is With Her.

AWYER SCOFFS AT GAME

rouble That Resulted in Salesman's Death Dates Back Far, O'Sullivan Asserts.

Swept by the act of a moment from he comparative luxury of her Ward arkway apartment, Mrs. Myrtle ennett today shares the death cell t the county jail with another wom- n, also charged with the murder of er husband.

Mrs. Bennett, facing a first degree urder charge for the fatal shooting f John G. Bennett over a bridge ame in their home at 902 Ward arkway Sunday night, is prostrated nd hysterical by turns. Her com- orter is Mrs. Evelyn Helms, also fac- ng a first degree murder charge for he slaying of her husband at Ray- own.

Comforter and Guard.

The death cell at the jail is ad- acent to the cells set aside for omen. Mrs. Bennett was placed in he cell because of the fear she would attempt to take her own life. Mrs. Helms was placed with her to console her and to prevent her from injuring herself.

Mrs. Bennett is under the direct charge of Mrs. Irene Guerin, matron. Mrs. Guerin watched her charge all last night and frequently gave her sedatives to ward off hysterical attacks. Officials have made efforts to question Mrs. Bennett, but they have been abandoned temporarily because of their effect. She had difficulty today recalling the names and addresses of relatives.

J. Francis O'Sullivan, lawyer, was a friend of the Bennett family. He and his family were friendly with both Mr. and Mrs. Bennett. He visited the jail today and, when he learned of Mrs. Bennett's condition, sought James R. Page, county prosecutor, in an attempt to arrange bond.

Bond Plea Is Refused.

Mr. Page refused to agree to a bond arrangement in the case for the present. Mr. O'Sullivan may file a motion asking a hearing before a justice of the peace to show that his client does deserve the opportunity at bond allowed on certain grounds in first degree murder charges. If such a motion should be filed the state probably would retaliate with testimony to show that Mrs. Bennett's act forbids the privilege of bond, the same as the acts of other persons accused of first degree murder under conditions in which there is little dispute as to the fact the accused actually performed the slaying.

Bond is not permissible on a first degree murder charge, except by agreement. Mr. O'Sullivan scoffed at the idea the real cause of the shooting was anything that grew out of the bridge game. He said there was a background of trouble.

Couple Happy When Poor.

Mrs. Bennett gave a hint of that to Mrs. Guerin in a calm moment in the night.

"I have been unhappy with my husband several years," Mrs. Guerin quoted her as saying. "I was happy when we were poor. I worked with and for him and we had a happy home. Then he became prosperous and could give me everything I desired, but I lost him. He didn't care for his home or me after he began earning a great deal."

Mr. O'Sullivan said Mrs. Bennett had lost two children in recent years at birth and that following the death of the last she had been melancholy.

"I have been at homes with the Bennetts," he said, "where she suddenly would leave the table without any apparent reason and go away by herself. After holding a handkerchief to her eyes a short time, she would return. I am sure there was much more behind the shooting than any foolish argument that might develop over a hand of bridge."

To View Body of Husband.

Mrs. Bennett today asked Ben Norberg, chief deputy sheriff, for permission to go to the Lindsey chapel and view the body of her husband before it is sent tomorrow to Carmi, Ill., his boyhood home, where funeral services and burial will be held. The request was granted and Mrs. Bennett was to be taken in Mr. O'Sullivan's car, with a deputy sheriff attending, to the chapel late today.

An angle in the case looked upon by officials as peculiar developed today when a Mrs. Webb of New York, a cousin of Bennett, telegraphed to relatives here, urging them to provide bond for Mrs. Bennett and to warn her to "do nothing rash." Mrs. Webb, it was understood, was on the way to Kansas City to aid the self-made widow of her cousin.

THEIR CASES MUCH ALIKE.

Trivial Quarrels Ended in Slayings by Jail Companions.

Mrs. Myrtle Bennett's companion and comforter in the county jail is Mrs. Evelyn Helms, who shot and killed her husband, Frank Helms, in the yard of their home at Raytown last June 15.

Circumstances in the slaying of their husbands by Mrs. Helms and Mrs. Bennett coincide in several particulars. Each killing followed a quarrel in which the husband threatened to leave home immediately and each of the quarrels started over an apparently trivial incident.

Mrs. Bennett became angered and killed her husband following a quarrel over a bridge hand, and Mrs. Helms slew her husband following a quarrel over the husband's announcement that he intended to sell a Shetland pony the couple had used in vaudeville engagements. The shootings both occurred when the quarrels had progressed to the point the husbands threatened to leave home.

Following the fatal shooting of her husband, Mrs. Helms attempted to kill herself, but the shots she had fired at her husband had exhausted the supply of cartridges in the revolver. Following the fatal shooting of John G. Bennett bystanders took the pistol from her to prevent her killing herself.

A HAPPY START IN MEMPHIS.

Friends There Knew the Bennetts as an Infatuated Couple.

(By The Star's Own Service.)

MEMPHIS, Oct. 1.—The killing of John G. Bennett by his wife at Kansas City ended a romance that started in a casual meeting on an Illinois Central Chicago-bound train. Mrs. Bennett's name then was Miss Myrtle Adkins, and she had come from Poinsett County, Arkansas. Bennett was a hustling salesman, a "producer," in the words of one of his associates here.

"Jack showered luxuries upon her," this associate said. "He gave Myrtle diamonds, a large motor car, a handsome apartment, and everything her heart desired. They were infatuated with one another, and the tragedy has astonished all their friends here.

"Mrs. Bennett has a large circle of friends here."

THE PANTAGES TRIAL OPENS.

One of Two Charges Against Theater Man Is Dismissed.

(By the Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Trial of Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, on statutory charges brought by Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, opened in superior court here today. The bailiff barely had called the court to order when Judge Charles Frick ordered the jury panel kept under guard and locked up in all absences from the courtroom.

The court's order was seen as a precaution against possible repetition of the criticism which was directed at the court and jury in the trial of the defendant's wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, who was convicted of manslaughter last week following a fatal motor car collision.

The 54-year-old theater man, who recently sold his chain of playhouses for 15 million dollars, took his place at the counsel table. His face was immobile, but his hands trembled. Otherwise he seemed at ease.

District Attorney Fitts moved for a dismissal of the charge of forcible assault and it was granted. The charge upon which Pantages will be tried is felonious attack.

MAY DELAY LAMAR TRIAL.

Publication of Confessions Made Grounds for Continuance Plea.

(By the Associated Press.)

LAMAR, COL., Oct. 1.—Because the signed confessions of all three defendants were given to the press yesterday, L. W. Cunningham of Colorado Springs, attorney for George J. Abshier, Howard L. Royston and Ralph Fleagle, announced today he would ask for a continuance.

The men are charged with first degree murder in connection with the Lamar bank holdup May 23, 1928.

Defense objection to the release of the evidence is that it is prejudicial to the defendants' case, coming at a time when the defense is unable to combat the evidence, and that it paves the way for a possible reversal by the supreme court.

District Judge A. J. Hollenback, who will sit in the three separate trials, before acting on the defense motion for a change of venue, said he would rule on the application late today.

The Son of a Former Kansas City, Kansas, Executive Is Held by the Police—Couple Was Estranged.

H. A. Mendenhall, jr., son of a former mayor of Kansas City, Kansas, shot and dangerously injured his estranged wife this afternoon at 643 Freeman avenue, Kansas City, Kansas, where she had taken rooms.

Mrs. Mendenhall was shot below the heart. She was taken to Providence hospital, where it was said she probably would die.

Mendenhall and his wife had lived for some time at Welborn, where H. A. Mendenhall, sr., the father, operated a truck farm. About two weeks ago the wife left the truck farm, saying she intended to live with relatives in Kansas City, Kansas.

It was said domestic trouble proceeded her removal from the home at Welborn. Mendenhall had been out of work most of the time, it was said. For a time he was employed by the Studebaker-Riley branch in Kansas City, Kansas. More recently he was employed by the General Motors Truck branch in Kansas City.

It was said Mendenhall began a search among his wife's relatives and found she had not visited them. He continued the search and found her today in a rooming house. A quarrel ensued and he shot her.

Mendenhall is about 42 years old and is said to have been married before. Mrs. Mendenhall is about 30 years old.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon it was reported at the hospital that Mrs. Mendenhall probably would not live through the afternoon.

"CUT THE WHEAT ACRES"

THAT'S THE WAY TO BETTER PRICES, CARL WILLIAMS SAYS.

WASHINGTON BUREAU
THE KANSAS CITY STAR
610 ALBEE BUILDING

(By The Star's Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—A reduction of from 9 to 10 per cent in the wheat acreage of the Southwest was urged today by Carl Williams of Oklahoma as a step toward bringing better prices to the hard winter wheat growers of the territory, including Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Mr. Williams, testifying before the senate committee on agriculture, pointed out that the export of hard winter wheat amounted to about 9 per cent of the production. If the production were limited to domestic consumption, the farm board member believed the southwestern wheat farmer would benefit greatly.

TO CONTROL PRODUCTION.

While the Oklahoma farm board member did not say directly, he indicated that control of production would be one of the main objectives of the nation-wide educational campaign now being organized by the farm board.

The suggestion of a reduction of wheat acreage, made a few months ago in an article in The Star, caused much protest from the southwestern wheat country.

NO PROFIT IN A SURPLUS.

The wheat problem was brought to the attention of the senate committee today after Senators Caraway of Arkansas, Heflin of Alabama and Smith of South Carolina sharply questioned Mr. Williams on the farm board's policy on cotton.

Williams repeated several times the farmers could not expect to obtain a profit from their crops if they produced more than the world could consume; that they were not entitled to it if they would not organize for orderly marketing and production.

"They must limit production," Williams asserted, "if they expect to get a reasonable profit."

TO GET BENEFIT OF TARIFF.

The farm board member said the southwestern hard wheat country had experienced a large expansion of acreage in the last few years, due to the combine and other things; that the hard wheat was of a quality in demand for American consumption. Williams then suggested the southwestern farmers would profit if they reduced their wheat acreage 9 or 10 per cent, so as to obtain the benefit of the 42-cent tariff protection.

Senator Wheeler contended it was almost impossible to induce the far scattered wheat farmers to systematically reduce their individual acreage; that each farmer would put in a crop that would yield him the most money.

Williams believed results would be obtained because of the high intelligence of the western wheat farmer, who could be educated in the advantage of reduced acreage through the organized marketing associations.

THE SAME IN NORTHWEST.

Questioned by Senator Frazier of North Dakota, Williams said the same results could be attained for the hard spring wheat growers of the Northwest. Senator Wheeler contended differently, pointing to the present discrepancy between the northwestern wheat prices and those in Canada. Wheeler said the tariff failed to function in that part of the country.

DEATH IN MARKET LOSSES.

A Broker Jumps Eleven Stories From New York Hotel.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A broker leaped to his death from a window on the eleventh floor of the Hotel Shelton early today after writing a note telling of stock market losses of $124,000 since April. The man was identified as W. J. Keyes, vice-president of the C. A. Earl Radio Company.

THE GOEBEL RACER BURNS.

Pilot Escapes Injury When Plane Blazes at the Airport.

The racing biplane in which Col. Arthur C. Goebel won the City of Mexico-Kansas City derby last week burned at the Kansas City Airport this afternoon as mechanics were cranking it, preparing to warm the motor for a take-off.

T. A. Wells, pilot, was in the cockpit when the motor backfired and the plane burst into flame. He escaped uninjured, although a $350 parachute on which he was sitting was destroyed. Ten other planes of the Goebel school, which were on the line near the racer, were endangered by the blaze, but field attendants wheeled them away before they were damaged.

The plane was owned by a Wichita, Kas., manufacturing company and was not insured, it was said. It won several events in the National Air Races at Cleveland.

FAYETTE, MO., Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—Three men held up A. D. Boone, Franklin, Mo., merchant, on a highway south of that town at 9:15 o'clock today and escaped with $600 in cash. Boone was taking the money from a bank in Boonville to his store for use in cashing checks for railroad employees.

RE-ELECT J. F. PORTER.

Committee of Nine Refuses to Release Its Chairman.

J. F. Porter today was re-elected chairman of the industrial committee of nine, the committee having charge of the Chamber of Commerce industrial expansion program. The election and reorganization mark the beginning of the third year of the program.

Frank J. Moss was elected vice-chairman to succeed Lou E. Holland. The committee made it clear that it desired that Mr. Holland continue as executive manager, in direct charge of its efforts along industrial lines.

The re-election of Mr. Porter was in apparent conflict with the by-laws, but the by-laws are in process of redrafting. As they stand they would prevent the re-election of a chairman. The committee felt, members said, that in view of the results obtained by Mr. Porter, and the fact the committee's program was not completed, the chamber membership would approve the slight violation.

No formal report of the accomplishments under the expansion program was made, but the committee did take stock. Progress was discussed generally and satisfaction was expressed.

THE FRAT PHONES TOO BUSY.

Southwestern Bell Seeks Increased Rate From Chapter Houses.

JEFFERSON CITY BUREAU
THE KANSAS CITY STAR

(By a Member of The Star's Staff.)

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 1.—An effort by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to increase telephone rates in fraternity and sorority houses in Missouri universities and colleges was made today when the Bell system filed a schedule carrying an increased rate, effective at the beginning of the next school year. The public service commission will suspend the schedule for investigation.

The telephone company cited the fact that fraternity and sorority houses at the Kirksville Teachers college were paying only the residential rates, although nearly ten times as many calls were recorded from the various chapter houses as from Kirksville business concerns. The rate asked is for an increase to the business rate.

THE LIBERTY TO REOPEN.

Movie Theater, Dark Two Years, Leased by Ed Dubinsky.

The Liberty theater, 1104-06 Main street, has been leased by Ed. Dubinsky, owner of the Regent theater, and will be reopened Thursday, November 6. The lease was obtained from Loew's, Inc., who have kept the theater dark the last two years. Mr. Dubinsky said today Western Electric equipment would be installed and that first and second run talking pictures would be presented.

The Liberty was built about nine years ago by Sam Harding and Dave Harding, on land held on a 99-year lease from Louis Oppenstein. The Hardings subleased to the Universal Film Company, who later sold it to the United Artists Corporation. Plans of the United Artists for remodeling and redecorating the place were frustrated when that organization was aligned with Loew's, Inc., in building the Midland. At that time, Loew's took over the Liberty and closed it. The Liberty seats about a thousand persons.

Cool Weather in Store for Tomorrow, P. Connor Says.

A topcoat probably will not be out of place, but there isn't anything on the horizon to indicate umbrellas will be needed at the opening of the little world series tomorrow.

P. Connor said: "Partly cloudy to cloudy tonight and tomorrow, with rising temperatures, continuing cool."

There are clouds over the states surrounding Kansas City, but there has been little precipitation. The temperatures dropped to 46 degrees overnight at St. Louis and Columbia. It was 50 at 7 o'clock today in Kansas City, the lowest in the 24-hour period ending then.

A BLAST BY ALLEN

Kansan Urges Democratic Leaders to Support "Angel" Raskob on the Tariff.

AN ECHO OF CAMPAIGN

The Chairman's Pledges on Commission System Are Recalled by the Kansan.

A QUESTION OF SINCERITY

Foes of G. O. P. Program Are Accused of Playing "Politics for Party Purposes."

WASHINGTON BUREAU
THE KANSAS CITY STAR
610 ALBEE BUILDING

(By The Star's Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The United States senate today heard one of its youngest members, Henry J. Allen of Kansas, deliver a bitter and sarcastic assault on the enemies of the Republican tariff program.

Either the Democratic leaders in congress were insincere in their opposition to the present tariff system, or the party chairman, John J. Raskob, spoke without authority in the last campaign, the Kansan asserted.

Sees a Debt to Leader.

Pointing to numerous inconsistencies in the attitude of the Democratic leaders, Senator Allen reminded them that if they were not willing to carry out the Raskob pledges they ought, "in common honor, to reimburse him and relieve him of the present responsibility he has undertaken to underwrite the Democratic debt."

"Are you going to say that the solemn pledges which he said he had from Democratic members in this body and Democratic candidates did not exist, or if they did exist, had no sincere meaning except for the political moment?" Allen asked.

The senator said he had waited in vain for a repetition of some words of Democratic leadership on the subject of the tariff which were heard in the campaign.

Guarantor of Party Solvency.

"They were the words of an official leader," he said. "Indeed, I may say he yet remains the last word in leadership. He is the guarantor for the present solvency of the party. They were words of assurance demanded at that hour to relieve the nervous apprehension of the voters.

"Early in last October Mr. Raskob began a sober series of discussions which contained several interpretations of the attitude of the Democratic party on the tariff, in each of which he devoted particular attention to the subject of the tariff commission.

"Mr. Raskob began October 8 by saying 'the Democratic nominee for President didn't mean what he said when he asserted the Underwood tariff act embodied the ideal method of handling tariff legislation.' He later denied that Governor Smith ever had made such a declaration after his nomination.

"An Economic Question."

"Mr. Raskob then stated in the same article:

"'The Democratic party regards the tariff purely as an economic question. Especially, since the two parties are now in agreement on the essential doctrine that our whole industrial structure must be shielded from low-cost importations, there remains only the question of rates in particular schedules, necessary to such shielding. It must be perfectly obvious that only the accurate determination of these individual rates is solely a question of economics and business judgment of various complex determinations of fact in each particular case.

"'To throw such a question into the political arena, to be determined on preponderance of influence, is about as sensible as it would be to charge congress with the enactment, repeal or amendment of the multiplication table.'

Tells of "G. O. P. Panic."

"October 26 Chairman Raskob, warming to his subject, stated further: 'Governor Smith has clearly defined the Democratic tariff doctrine adopted to support the high standards of living now enjoyed by our people as a result of the Wilson labor wage policy. This tariff doctrine has thrown the Republican party into panic and they now tell you that the Democratic party will not support Governor Smith in this policy.'

"His answer to that was a statement that more than three-quarters of members of and candidates for the senate and the house of representatives had signed an agreement reaffirming allegiance to the Democratic platform calling for the organization of a nonpartisan tariff commission, already provided for, and would support Governor Smith's declaration in his Louisville speech that the only tariff changes he would advocate would be specific revisions in specific schedules, each considered on its own merits on the basis of investigation by an impartial tariff commission and a hearing before congress.

His Views on Commission.

"Five days later, in the last moments of the campaign, Mr. Raskob received two delegations of manufacturers and business men at Democratic national headquarters, by invitation. Mr. Raskob spoke to these two delegations these assuring words:

"'I would like to see a tariff commission with powers embedded in the Constitution like those of the supreme court of the United States. Its members should serve, in my opinion, for not less than fifteen years and should have the assistance of an adequate body of economists and accountants.'

"Every day this debate has proceeded has brought added evidence from all

STOCKS SLIP BACK AGAIN

SOME ISSUES DROP FROM $10 TO $40 A SHARE.

A Rally in Early Afternoon Regains Some of Losses, but the Downward Tendency Continues.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The stock market went through another drastic decline today during which more than a score of issues were carried down $10 to nearly $40 a share, with losses of $3 or more scattered throughout the list.

A rally in the early afternoon regained part of the losses. Radio rose $5 above yesterday's close. Recoveries of $3 to $6 from the low levels were numerous in the final dealings.

THE DECLINE GOES ON.

Stock after stock crashed to new lows on the current decline, which has been under way, with few interruptions, for about three weeks. Losses of 3 points or more were quite common.

Call money renewed at 9, but advanced to 10 again because of the heavy withdrawals of funds in connection with month-end settlements. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm. One encouraging development was the announcement of a drop of 34 million dollars in loans on security borrowings of members of the entire federal reserve system for the week ended September 25, but the latest federal reserve brokers' loan statement showed that nearly 60 per cent of the total was for the account of nonbanking institutions over which the federal reserve has no direct control.

SOME OF THE LOSERS.

Absence of support for many of the high priced issues caused considerable uneasiness on the part of small traders, as did the weakness of the so-called "Morgan stocks," such as United States Steel common, Johns-Manville, New York Central and Atchison, all down about 3 to 7 points. United States Steel common, which sold as high as 260¾ early last month, broke below 220. Most of the other so-called "blue chip" issues were down 25 to 100 points below the year's highs.

J. I. Case broke 39 points to 366; Auburn Auto, 20 to 400; Standard Gas and Electric, 19¾ to 217, and American & Foreign Power, 13¾ to 155¼. American Power and Light, Jersey Central, Atlas Powder, A. M. Byers, United Carbon and American Machine and Foundry fell 8 to 11 points. International Combustion dropped more than 12 to a new low at 42¾ and Marmon Motors fell 7 to a new low at 38.

(By the Associated Press.)

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 1.—The Dornier airplane works announced today the new huge 12-motored Dornier Dox seaplane would attempt a flight to America in mid-January. The route has not been fixed, but it was believed it would be across the South Atlantic to South America and thence to the United States.

The Do-X attained a speed of 120 miles an hour. Tomorrow another trial flight will be made with 135 persons aboard. This will be the largest number ever lifted by any aircraft.

A Huge Arc Is Described as Gale Turns Toward Atlantic.

(By the Associated Press.)

PENSACOLA, FLA., Oct. 1.—Describing a huge arc, the tropical storm that swept the Bahama Islands last week, lashed the southern tip of Florida and then moved northwestward to strike the mainland between Pensacola and Apalachicola today was curving northeastward across Southern Georgia, apparently heading back toward the Atlantic seaboard.

The storm, which threatened but did not seriously damage the coast of Alabama, Mississippi and Florida, evidently had diminished in intensity today, as weather bureau reports said there now was no danger of hurricane winds. Stiff winds, however, still prevailed along its path.

YELL FOR VICTORY

Civic Club Members and Other Fans Make Merry at Luncheon for Blues.

'PEA RIDGE' DAY IS HEARD

Pitcher Responds to the Unanimous Demand to Hear His Famous Screech.

THE RED WINGS ARE HERE

Necessity for Practice Keeps Rochester Team From Participating in the Merriment.

Kansas City is going to beat Rochester in the "little world's series," starting tomorrow, and the sun is going to shine for all the games, thus insuring fat purses for the ball players concerned, and everybody is going to be happy.

That was assured at the monster booster luncheon given at the Hotel President this afternoon by Kansas City's civic clubs, for the pennant-winning Blues. Five hundred men and women fans—persons prominent in the business life of the city—forgot their cares of the moment to turn out and toast the home town ball club, and they still were doing it uproariously as the afternoon wended well on its way.

Even Ball Players Enjoy It.

"H'ray for Kansas City! T'ell with Rochester!" seemed the sentiment of the occasion, and everybody joined nobly in it. It was a party that nobody desired to leave, because everybody was having such a good time. Even the ball players seemed to be enjoying it—really a curious fact, since usually no one gets less fun out of a party for "show-off guests" than the aforementioned "show-off guests" themselves.

Noon found the crowd gathering in the President lobby in two camps, the first that of the players, the second that of the fans, who found it difficult to recognize the athletes in their street clothes, and kept up a constant chatter of "That's Kuhel, but who's with him?" "Which one is Tucker?" and "Do you suppose Day would scream for us?"

Players in a Huddle.

The players, having appeared first on the scene, had moved to the lounges at the south side of the lobby and had gone into a huddle there.

Those with wives had parked the latter on the mezzanine floor, with such remarks as "Well, I'll be back," "Well, you stay here," "Well, you stay here and I'll be back," "Well, the Dutchman wants to see me, I tell you!"

Among the milling crowd Max Thomas, who looks like Rudy Vallee on a pleasant day, was the instant cynosure of the girls' eyes and drew many comments, particularly when the word got noised around that he, George Gerken and Ralph Michaels were bachelors.

Upstairs to the lobby of the Congress room everyone moved at last and there each civic club sought out the particular athlete it was supposed to entertain and got acquainted with him. That took about ten minutes or so and then the descent to the dining room was on. Tom Angley, who had buried himself in the most comfortable chair in the place, was roused for the occasion.

A Band Leads Parade.

A band led the guests of honor into the room and there was great screaming for the occasion, every masculine fan in the place deciding it was the thing to do to yell "Beat Rochester!" and the women adding a few variations by piping up "Beat Chicago!" "Beat Philadelphia!" "Beat Wilmington!" and beat virtually every other town of which they ever had heard.

The luncheon was a grand success, far more so than the last baseball booster one that came to the mind of at least one spectator there. That was at the Hotel Baltimore in about 1919 and the spectator drew as the guest to his right one Mickey LaLonge, a catching person, who celebrated by spilling his entire dish of soup in the spectator's lap.

This time the spectator drew Frank (Dixie) Davis, a pitcher, whose manners were impeccable, and who also told a delighted tableful just what the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina—and it wasn't what you expected at all.

Cosmopolitan Club is Lucky.

Mr. Davis added that this was the first time in his seventeen years of baseball he had played on a pennant winner—and he hoped the weather was great for the series so the boys would get "a lot of dough." Then he told other stories and was really quite a card. It isn't known exactly how the other clubs fared with the players they entertained, but the Cosmopolitan Club, which drew Mr. Davis, decided it often had paid money for less of a good time.

Conrad Mann, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided in the speaker's chair—if you cared to call it that—and acted as master of ceremonies. The first thing the crowd desired was to hear "Pea Ridge" Day scream.

Mr. Day obliged and four birds that had been peeking in one of the Congress room windows flew over to the roof of the Mainstreet theater.

"Dutch" Zwilling then was called on and forced into that good old Chinese greeting song, "Hi Lee, Hi Lo!" Mr. Zwilling seemed rather embarrassed at the honor, but rallied to the cause gamely, while Mrs. Zwilling sat in one of the spectators' chairs and had the time of her life laughing.

A Long Roar for "Long Tom."

Mr. Mann then took the floor again.

"I want to introduce," he said, "a man who has made a quite stirring success with the team lately. He is a man whoa has devoted himself to his work and gotten somewhere through it. He is a man who, when pitching, hits the bat of his opponent nearly every time—Mr. Thomas Sheehan."

When the roar died down, "Long Time" took his bow and the band, for some reason or other, struck up "My Wild Irish Rose." If that was nice Tom Angley will lead the league next year in stolen bases.

There were other introductions in number—George Muehlebach, other club officials, various players. The wives present—Mrs. Wamby, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Zwilling, Mrs. eters, Mrs. Riconda, Mrs. Sheehan, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. Knothe and Mrs. ..icholson—sat back and beamed approval.

At last there was a final "hurrah" and the noble athletes went forth to practice for tomorrow's battle with Rochester.

"Beat Sioux City," yipped a glowing-eyed fanette as the crowd poured out of the Congress room door.

"Someone," observed Frank (Dixie) Davis, "should tell that gal who we are playing tomorrow. She hasn't taken her eyes off Max Thomas all meal!"

PRACTICE IN NOON HOUR.

Red Wings Learn Little, However, About Muehlebach Field Shadows.

Billy Southworth and his Rochester Red Wings arrived in town today and spent the noon hour practicing at Muehlebach Field and getting acquainted with the lights and shadows there. Their success in the latter respect was not particularly marked, as the sun was contrary and did not do an enthusiastic job of shining.

The Red Wings were invited to the luncheon for the Blues at the President, but decided to stick to their knitting instead. They probably will start Tex Carleton—their "no-hit" star—tomorrow. It looks like Tom Sheehan, "Pea Ridge" Day or Max Thomas for Kansas City.

ARSON TRIAL NEARS END.

State Expects to Complete Case Against Tony Micelli Today.

The state's case against Tony Micelli, charged with firing the home of David and Mollie Schaeffer, 2136 East Eighth street, the night of February 5, was expected to be completed this afternoon. The trial is before a jury in Judge A. Stanford Lyon's division of the criminal court.

The Schaeffers both have been convicted on arson charges in connection with the explosion and burning of their home. Witnesses today included Barney Brackenstein, 649 Olive street, who said he saw a man running from the yard after the explosion; Charles M. Mulloy, district fire chief, and C. F. Cleavor, his driver, who testified they saw half of a nail keg in the ruins which smelled of gasoline; Emmett Scanlon, chief of fire prevention, and E. R. Morris, 2139 East Eighth street, a neighbor.

NURSES ASK A SKELETON.

The Request to Council, However, Is for "Training Equipment."

Little attention was paid last night by members of the council to the routine reading of an ordinance appropriating $121.50 out of the hospital bond fund to purchase "certain equipment" for the new nurses' home. It went to the finance committee for hearing.

The appropriation, however, is for the purchase of a skeleton; perhaps the first purchase of its kind ever made by the city. It is to be used in teaching physiology and other studies in the nurses' training school.

"We had two bids," said H. F. McElroy, city manager, today. "One was for $129.50 and the other $121.50. They come completely articulated and in a metal cabinet."

FERGUSON MAY BE FREED.

After a Third Mistrial St. Louis Case May Be Dropped.

(By the Associated Press.)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—With a third mistrial declared yesterday in the case of Forrest Ferguson, former president of the defunct Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Company, on a charge of using the mails to defraud, District Attorney Breuer today was undecided whether he would press the case for a fourth trial. He said he would consult the attorney general's office before making any definite announcement.

The charge against Ferguson was based on the alleged padding of financial statements on which the Ferguson-McKinney Company obtained loans of $3,350,000 from banks just prior to its crash four years ago.

FORGIVE THE PEP STUDENTS.

Fifty-Nine Are Reinstated at the University of Oklahoma.

(By the Associated Press.)

NORMAN, OK., Oct. 1.—Fifty-nine members of two University of Oklahoma "pep" orders who were suspended last Friday were reinstated today following a conference attended by Frank Buttram, president of the board of regents, members of the faculty discipline committee and members of the two organizations. The reinstatement brings to a close the "paddling episode" which resulted in the abolition of the orders, the Jazz Hounds and the Ruf Neks, and leaves the student body without an organized group to lead cheering at athletic contests.

A SCHOOL BOND VOTE.

Twentieth Century Club Committee Will Consider Indorsement.

A proposal for indorsement of the 5-million-dollar school bond issue will be presented to the executive committee of the Twentieth Century Republican Club, it was announced by Mrs. Frank E. Sheldon, president, at a meeting today at the Hotel Baltimore.

Mrs. Sheldon called for a motion to indorse the proposal, but reconsidered when the club parliamentarian announced that such a proposal must have the approval of the executive committee.

SO DAWES "BEATS BACK"

SUDBURY, WHICH FROWNED ON ANCESTOR, GREETS AMBASSADOR.

Three Hundred Years Ago One of the Family Was Forced to Flee, but the General Is Hailed by the Townsfolk.

(By the Associated Press.)

SUDBURY, ENGLAND, Oct. 1.—This ancient Suffolk town, which 300 years ago made things so hot for a Puritan named Dawes that he fled to wildest America, turned out today with flags, smiles and hearty hospitality to a descendant of that selfsame Dawes.

The visitor was Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain. He and Mrs. Dawes arrived by motor car this afternoon and were met by borough officials, who escorted the ambassador to the town hall, where Mayor Fitzgerald presented him the honorary freedom of the borough.

General Dawes seemed to make a real hit with his audience when, referring to the William Dawes who left Sudbury in 1628 and founded the American Dawes line, he said:

"No one could have picked a better ancestor for an American family than a Puritan stone mason from Sudbury; a builder, not a destroyer; a constructor, not a critic; also a man who did not run with the crowd."

WELCOME TO ALL THE FAMILY.

In order to make clear that Sudbury's welcome included the whole Dawes family, a cushion made of silk, hand-woven in Sudbury, was presented to Mrs. Dawes. Later she was given a miniature old English room with oak furniture made by a member of the town council.

After the ceremony at the town hall General Dawes and the aldermen proceeded to the town guildhall, where luncheon was served and the general made his formal address.

All Sudbury was gay with an Anglo-American flurry of banners and on the billboards General Dawes had a share of the limelight with a noted American motion picture star. The ambassador himself was billed simply as Gen. C. G. Dawes. The town hall and the guildhall and all the streets of the old town were decorated liberally with British and American flags.

NOW TOGETHER IN PEACE.

In acknowledgment of receipt of freedom of the borough, General Dawes recalled his ancestor, William Dawes, who "emigrated to New England with the early Puritans in 1628." He pointed out that "from the record of the English and American families of Dawes it would seem that in the war of the American Revolution there was an English Dawes in the British army and there fought an American Dawes in the American army. But all that is passed, for their two countries now, under the providence of God, together are fighting a battle for the world's peace."

sections of the country of the intelligent interest which agriculture and the industries are manifesting in the effort to destroy the flexible provision of the tariff law. The country is in agreement with the belief that it would be a backward step in the tariff policy.

"What Senator Fess, in his able speech of yesterday, said—'Our hope is to minimize the political influence in legislation of a tariff character'—is substantially what Chairman Raskob said to the anxious men who called upon him October 31.

Politics Then or Now?

"In this debate, when I have heard the importance of President Hoover's campaign words discussed, I have wondered why no importance has been attached to the pledges which Mr. Raskob made for Alfred Emmanuel Smith and Democratic members of congress. I wondered if they were playing politics then for campaign purposes, or if they are playing politics now for party purposes.

"In view of all that Mr. Raskob has done for the Democrats, are they going to ignore his pledges now? In view of the deficit he has assumed, in view of the more than ¼ million dollars which he gave to the campaign fund, in view of the sacrifices of his time and energies which he made and continues to make—are the leaders of his party in this body going to stamp themselves as ingrates by placing upon Mr. Raskob, the leader of their campaign, the spokesman for their candidate, the interpreter of their platform, the stigma of being insincere?"

Speaks Without Interruption.

A few Democratic senators sauntered into the chamber as Senator Allen was speaking, but none interrupted him to object to his statements.

Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, arose at the close and charged that Allen had "waved the bloody shirt of partisanship," and called attention to Allen's attacks on Governor Smith in the recent campaign. Tydings also said the purpose of Allen's speech was to revive the religious intolerance issue in the tariff debate.

Allen left the chamber when he finished speaking, so did not hear the brief but vitriolic reply by the senator from Maryland.

REED SPEAKS FOR THE BILL.

Flexible Provision Is Defended by the Pennsylvanian.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Defending the flexible tariff provision, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, Republican, said in the senate today critics of this section in the pending tariff bill had accepted in silence a provision that delegated, in his opinion, more power to the President than the flexible clause.

This power, Reed said, gave the President the right to place an embargo on foreign goods if in his opinion it would be in the public interest.

The provision which he said had been accepted without protest had been carried in the fifteen tariff bills enacted by congress since 1794.

TEN THEFTS, TEN YEARS

FRED BRINGAZI PLEADS GUILTY TO ROBBERY SERIES HERE.

He Has Stolen So Many Times Since He Was 6 Years Old He Has Lost Count, Youth Tells Judge.

Fred Bringazi, alias Fred Reel, 19 years old, St. Louis, who admitted he had been stealing since he was 6 years old, was sentenced today by Judge Ben Terte in the criminal court to ten years in the penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to ten charges.

Bringazi pleaded guilty to a series of burglaries and robberies here recently. He was given ten years on each of eight burglary and larceny charges, to run concurrently, and two years on each of two burglary charges, to run concurrently with the 10-year sentence. He told the court he had committed hold-ups, burglaries and robberies in St. Louis too numerous to remember. He also admitted serving two sentences in a reformatory near St. Louis and also of going to a state hospital there for observation.

The places Bringazi pleaded guilty to entering, and the loot he obtained:

Charles Westring store, 306 East Linwood boulevard; a knife, cigarettes, food and $5.

J. R. Stewart restaurant, 2624 East Fifteenth street; cigars, cigarettes and $1 in pennies.

Home of C. E. Brown, 3023 Van Brunt boulevard; clothing.

Baltimore Steam Dye Works, 2631 East Ninth street; clothing.

Bringazi said he went to St. Louis after entering the Brown home. There he entered seven homes and business establishments. From there he went to Springfield, Mo., where he robbed five places. Later, he said, he went to Joplin, committed one robbery, then went to Nevada, robbed three homes there, and returned to Kansas City.

FREED OF GROCER'S MURDER.

Jury Acquits Negro Accused of Killing in a Hold-Up.

Although two state witnesses positively identified him as the slayer, Gaston Van Ross, a Negro, 27 years old, 1325 Lydia avenue, was freed by a jury today of a charge of first degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of A. L. Smith, a groceryman at 1601 East Tenth street, December 22, 1928.

Smith, a white man, was held up in his store by two Negroes and then shot to death. Two months ago Van Ross returned to Kansas City and was arrested. He went to trial yesterday. An alibi in which a Negro physician testified on the stand Van Ross was ill in bed at the time of the shooting, was the defense. The jury deliberated only a few minutes before bringing in a verdict.

A BRITISH-RUSSIAN STEP

ENVOYS WILL BE EXCHANGED PENDING TREATY NEGOTIATIONS.

Complete Diplomatic Relations May Be Resumed Soon After Parliament Reassembles October 29, It Is Believed.

(By the Associated Press.)

LEWES, ENGLAND, Oct. 1. — Great Britain and Russia today agreed to an exchange of ambassadors, thus paving the way for full resumption of trade and commercial relations between the two countries. The agreement, which is subject to parliamentary approval in England, was reached in a secret meeting here between Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson of Great Britain and Russian Ambassador Valerian Dovgalevsky, who came from his Paris post.

The necessary documents are being prepared for signature before M. Dovgalevsky returns to Paris on Friday.

Great Britain's acceptance of the appointment of ambassadors before taking up the actual negotiations on outstanding questions removed the objection which Russia made in breaking off the negotiations early in August.

The agreement today included an understanding regarding propaganda. It will become operative when parliament has sanctioned it.

The outstanding questions included commercial treaty claims and counter-claims, debts arising from the revolutions of 1917, and financial problems connected with the claims.

Well informed circles believe complete diplomatic intercourse between the two countries will be resumed shortly after parliament reassembles on October 29. The relations were broken off by the Conservative government after the raid on Arcos house, Russian trade headquarters in London, in 1927.

The procedure for dealing with controverted questions after resumption of full diplomatic relations has been agreed upon.

M'NAB INTO DRY PROBE

HOOVER NAMES THE CALIFORNIAN TO STUDY COURT PROCEDURE.

The Appointment Is Made on Recommendation of Mitchell, Mellon and Wickersham—To Expedite Legislation.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. — President Hoover announced today that John McNab, lawyer of San Francisco, had consented to make a study of federal judicial procedure and administration of the eighteenth amendment and to formulate changes to be recommended to congress in December.

The President's announcement said McNab would work in co-operation with the law enforcement commission and justice and treasury departments.

THREE JOIN IN REQUEST.

McNab, the President said, had consented to make the study at the joint request of Attorney General Mitchell, Secretary Mellon and George W. Wickersham, chairman of the national law enforcement commission.

The President said the general lines of reorganization as regards law enforcement on the administrative side were to centralize the administrative agencies, "and thus place responsibility for investigation and enforcement in the department of justice."

CONGRESS MAY NAME COMMITTEE.

Asserting that from the studies now under way some definite recommendations to congress were expected at the beginning of the December session, Mr. Hoover repeated the hope that in the meantime congress might appoint the joint committee he recommended June 6 to study the advisability of the transfer of the prohibition enforcement unit from the department of treasury to the department of justice.

"Suc a committee co-operating with the administrative agencies," the statement said, "would expedite legislation, as it would probably enable bills to be formulated with less delay for hearings."

When a "White Collar Man" Goes into the Army

He's pretty sure to find out something besides how to salute

YOU might envy a man who makes his living just by writing things on a typewriter, but there's a lot about his job that isn't so good.

So we were told at any rate by Mr. Solon S. Bloom of 3503 Woodbrook Avenue, Baltimore, Md., whose health began to give way because his work kept him bowed over his desk and gave him no bodily exercise.

"I decided to get away to a military training camp," says Mr. Bloom, "thinking the rough and tumble with the army would do me good for a month. I asked the doctor what to do about my condition. 'I've seen men, I've known men,' he said. 'I know what they eat, drink, and how they live. I know cathartics, physics, and all the ways men try to keep themselves regular—and the only two that go together well are men and Nujol. Physics gripe, cathartics take the moisture out of the stomach and intestines; both may be harmful and may become habitual. Nujol gets into the system in the best way, soothes and heals the membranes and expels bodily poisons normally, naturally, easily, so that you are regular as clock work.'"

That was what Mr. Bloom learned when he left his typewriter and went into the army, and you can learn the same thing if you are like most other people.

Worth Leaving a Job to Learn How to Live

Remember Nujol is not a medicine, for it contains no drugs of any kind. It is simply bodily lubrication that everybody needs.

You can get a bottle of Nujol at any good drug store, in a sealed package, for the price of a couple of good cigars. If you will start today and try it for two weeks you will agree with Mr. Bloom's discovery that Nujol is the easy normal way to keep well and make a success out of your life. You will be astonished at the results!

THE STRIKE COST IS HIGH

LOOSE-WILES WILL LOSE $35,000 TO $50,000, M'QUEENY SAYS.

Only 200 Workers Remain Out and the Plant Is Operating at Almost Normal—Another Meeting of Employees.

The strike at the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company will cost $35,000 to $50,000, James McQueeny, manager, estimated today. Loss in biscuit dough alone will amount to approximately $15,000.

The plant today was operating at virtually normal, Mr. McQueeny said. About 1,000 of the 1,200 employees who left work late Friday were back. Letters to other employees who will be permitted to return were being mailed today.

Mr. McQueeny and Thomas A. Ebaugh, secretary, said the plant would be operating at its usual capacity by tomorrow.

SOME WILL LOSE OUT.

There are a few employees, however, who will not be taken back. Most of the 200 employees who did not join in the walkout Friday and remained at work until they were asked by officials to leave now are back at work, Mr. McQueeny said.

Quietness prevailed today outside the plant. At intervals, however, a small group of employees, still on strike, milled around. They caused no disturbance and soon disbanded. Trucks left the plant on schedule with deliveries.

The first of about twenty carloads of cookies, candies, biscuits and crackers, ordered from Loose-Wiles factories in the East when the strike broke, began arriving today. Some deliveries from other factories, Mr. McQueeny explained, were sent direct to dealers.

THE WOMEN STILL UNDECIDED.

Most of the 125 to 150 employees still on strike are women and girls who have been unable to make up their minds whether they desire to return.

Officials of the plant disclosed today that tires on about five motor cars belonging to employees who returned to work yesterday were cut and damaged late yesterday in a vacant lot near the plant. Police believe it was the result of the employees ignoring I. W. W. agitators.

A preliminary plan for the organization of a local union at the plant was drafted this afternoon at a meeting of a committee appointed by strikers with Max Dyer, secretary of the Central Labor Union, at the Labor temple. The plan was to be presented Mr. McQueeny, late today, following another conference with Mr. Dyer.

AN AGITATOR FINED $100.

Attempts to Lead Loose-Wiles Strikes Costly to Roy Stephens.

Roy Stephens, 26-year-old agitator, who has been intimidating striking employees of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company, was arrested early today near the plant and later fined $100 by Judge Carlin P. Smith in the North Side court.

Stephens, who appeared Sunday at the Labor temple and attempted to persuade several hundred striking men and women there not to return to work, was arrested shortly after 8 o'clock today at Eighth and Santa Fe streets. Police said he was urging the Loose-Wiles employees not to return to work under the condition which caused them to walk out late last Friday.

Every day since the strike began Stephens has appeared there and has persuaded employees to listen to his propaganda. Stephens asserts he is secretary of the Trade Union Unity League of New York, and is here in the interest of that organization.

Shortly after the plant opened at 7:30 o'clock yesterday, Stephens engaged in an argument with Arthur Johnson, city sales manager, who finally had police order him away. Stephens returned and was arrested. Later he was released when he promised he would not return. He also is reported to have been the agitator who attempted to lead several hundred strikers to the National Biscuit Company plant yesterday.

Judge Smith said Stephens had been in the North Side court before.

Stephens was unable to pay the fine. He probably will appeal. He gave his address as 524 East Fifteenth street.

FREED IN CLIFF DRIVE CASE.

Delos Gulley's Release Is Ordered by Chief Boyle.

Delos Gulley, 21 years old, Excelsior Springs, held in connection with the slaying, August 30, of Miss Ruth Laughlin and Paul Leslie Odell on Cliff Drive, was to be released today by Edward P. Boyle, chief of detectives. Boyle said he was convinced Gulley had no connection with the slayings.

Gulley was arrested early yesterday on information furnished by a former resident of the Armourdale district of Kansas City, Kansas. The neighbor said he saw Gulley early the morning of the murders wearing a blood-spotted shirt.

Chief Boyle said an investigation had disclosed Gulley had been on a party with two other men and a woman the night of the Cliff Drive slayings. Chief Boyle said Gulley's blood-spotted shirt was the result of an attempt made by the "other two men" to attack the woman.

Gulley, Chief Boyle related, feared arrest on complaint of the woman and told his wife, from whom he is separated, not to mention he had been away from home the night Miss Laughlin and Odell were slain.

Mrs. Gulley now lives with her parents on a farm near Polo, Mo.

THREE MORE IN NEW SCHOOL.

Eighteen Now Enrolled in Class for Crippled Children.

Three new pupils today at the special class for crippled children, which opened yesterday at the Irving school, brought the enrollment up to eighteen.

School work was beginning this morning, slowly at first, since each child's training and equipment has been different. The work will range from primary to high school. In some cases pupils almost grown will be studying primary work. Yet they cannot be required to follow the regular primary course, which has much handwork such as stringing of beads. Teaching will be largely a matter of individual instruction.

The class was divided into two rooms today.

BEATING JUDGE, A YEAR

E. A. CONN IS SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR FOLMER ATTACK.

The Penalty Is the Maximum on a Charge of Assault and Battery, to Which He Pleaded Guilty.

Judge G. A. Roberds in district court at Olathe today sentenced E. A. Conn, Rosedale iceman, to one year in jail—the maximum punishment—following Conn's plea of guilty September 9 to a charge of assault and battery in connection with the beating of George W. Folmer, probate judge.

Conn attacked Judge Folmer, 70 years old, in August, last year. Conn was enraged because Judge Folmer, presiding over Olathe's "Cupid's parlor," married Elizabeth Conn, then 16 years old, to William Mashburn, 20 years old. Judge Folmer was beaten severely. The judge has only one arm.

ATTORNEYS ASK FOR CLEMENCY.

Attorneys for Conn pleaded for clemency, telling Judge Roberds Conn attacked Judge Folmer in blind rage because his daughter had been married while she was not yet legally of marriageable age.

In connection with the pronouncement of sentence, Judge Roberds said he had tabulated the ages of persons in divorce actions in his court throughout three years of his service on the district court bench in Johnson and Miami counties.

"I found that three-fourths of the parties to divorce actions were married after they were 30 years old," Judge Roberds said. "I also found that three-fifths of the remaining one-fourth were married at the full legal age. The remaining few were married before they reached the legal age for marriage. It appears to me that, in this district at least, early marriage is not prolific cause for divorce."

OUTSIDE INFLUENCE HELPED.

Regarding Conn's case, the court said:

"After hearing evidence in this case, I am convinced that only the influence of outsiders prevented a murder charge against Conn."

Conn was found guilty by a jury last March of "assault with intent to do bodily harm," with a maximum punishment of five years. Judge Roberds granted a new trial on a showing that the verdict was technically incorrect. The second trial ended abruptly when Conn pleaded guilty to assault and battery.

READY FOR MILK CHANGE.

Seven Inspectors Will Pass on Product in Event of Strike.

A staff of seven milk inspectors is in readiness to examine the quality of the milk brought in from more distant territory by pasteurizing plants here if the Milk Producers' Association of the Greater Kansas City area begins a strike Monday, O. C. Murphy, commissioner of health and sanitation, declared today.

"It means that Kansas City's milk supply will come from a region a little farther away," Mr. Murphy said. "Probably much of it will come from the Butler and Cameron territory, and I think it can be brought here only about two hours older than the regular supply. I understand it is to be brought in tank cars and glass-lined trucks."

The seven inspectors are the regular staff. If more are added, Mr. Murphy said he had forty-four men to draw on, including the food and sanitary inspectors. The commissioner said he believed the striking milk producers could not stop the supply of their entire membership.

PASTOR HAD ROBBED BEFORE.

Wife of Man Who Slew Himself After Hold-Up Is Prostrated.

(By the Associated Press.)

LEMARS, IA., Oct. 1.—Rex Frolkey, ordained evangelical minister and former Western Union college football star, who yesterday committed suicide after robbing the Sioux Center State Bank, today was identified, authorities said, as one of the robbers of the Orange City National Bank several weeks ago. Loot totaling $13,500 was taken from that institution.

C. G. Barks, president; John Roghair, assistant cashier, and Mike Melles, clerk of the Orange City bank, viewed the body of Frolkey shortly before noon and identified him as one of the robbers.

Mrs. Frolkey, prostrated with grief, repeatedly affirmed her love for Frolkey. She said she had seen him only one or twice in the last six weeks. He had maintained an apartment in Sioux City, which, he told her, he "held for business reasons."

A Rolla, Mo., Bank Is Absorbed.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 1.—The Merchants and Farmers Bank of Rolla, with total resources of $506,022, was taken over today by the National Bank of Rolla, Al Martin, deputy state finance commissioner, announced.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE POINTS OUT BUSINESSES THE CITY LACKS.

A Booklet Is Prepared for Distribution, Naming 212 Commercial Fields That Are Not Filled Now.

Annual sales of Kansas City wholesale grocers amount to 124 million dollars, yet the grocery supplies manufactured here amount only to 6 million dollars annually.

Nuts and fruits marketed here in manufactured form amount to 12 millions annually. Yet the total value of the quantity manufactured here is only $260,000.

WITH LITTLE COMPETITION.

Those are merely two highlights in a long list of interesting facts assembled by the Chamber of Commerce in a booklet issued today telling of noncompetitive manufacturing opportunities in Kansas City.

The booklet discloses 212 manufacturing opportunities existing here in which there is no competition or in which the need is so great as compared with present factory facilities that competition would be negligible.

Scores of manufacturing fields have been analyzed. The consumption of different articles by Kansas City and its territory, compared with the production of such or similar articles, is shown.

The chamber has found opportunities for new factories in such lines as food, textile, iron, steel, wood, stone, clay and many others—212 in all.

TOLD OVER THE COUNTRY.

For some time the Chamber of Commerce has been using advertising space over the country telling of the many noncompetitive fields in Kansas City open to manufacturers. Inquiries have been coming in response. The booklet, which will answer all the queries in detail, has been in the making and the letters have been filed awaiting its completion.

The initial edition will be 30,000. The booklet contains forty-eight pages and it is packed with information. The last ten pages are devoted to photographs showing the commercial, social and educational possibilities and actualities of the city. The cover is in blue, green and white.

IRE RISES OVER SPEED

ONE ASKS FASTER RATES; ANOTHER SAYS IT'S AN OUTRAGE.

A Motor Car Executive's Talk for Increased Movement Causes a Statistician to Call the Doctrine "Dastardly."

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The speed of modern traffic was denounced as a serious menace to society and was praised as a contributing factor in the growth of civilization today as experts clashed at the opening of the eighteenth annual congress of the National Safety Council.

Paul Hoffman of South Bend, Ind., vice-president of a motor car manufacturing corporation, asserted the rise of civilization could be measured by the speed of its transportation, and that in ten years improvements in highway construction and automotive engineering would make it possible to tour with safety at 100 miles an hour.

SPEED DOUBLE IN TEN YEARS.

"In the last fifteen years," he said, "the average speed of traffic has doubled and the number of accidents for each car has been almost halved.

"Whether you like it or not, the public wants speed, and is going to have it. What we must do is build streets, highways, motor cars and laws that will accommodate the demand with safety. Speed does not mean recklessness. A driver can be a menace to society going twenty-four miles an hour under certain circumstances and he can be a safe man at the wheel of a car going seventy miles an hour.

"The slow driver who blocks the flow of traffic, who forces others to go around him at a risk, is being recognized as one of the greatest nuisances on the highways.

"This council can save lives by urging states to remove maximum speed limits so motorcycle policemen will stop chasing fast cars that are endangering no one and devote themselves to removing the reckless driver from the highways."

"AN OUTRAGEOUS TALK."

These words were sacrilege to the next speaker on the program, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, a New York insurance statistician, chairman of the statistics section of the safety council.

"That was the most outrageous and unconscionable talk I ever heard," he said. "Mr. Hoffman's doctrine is at the bottom of our troubles, and if believed there will be hell to pay. I have known that motor car manufacturers had such thoughts in their hearts, but this is the first time I ever met one who dared to preach such a dastardly theory. It shows the low moral code to which we have fallen.

"There is no earthly reason for speed higher than thirty-five miles an hour. The statistics show that as the speed of traffic is growing the number of deaths from motor cars is increasing, until last year the total was 27,500."

At Malone's home, 3017 McGee street trafficway, the stranger held a pistol on Malone and took $30.

The W. L. Douglas Shoe Company was a victim twice last night. At the store at 930 Main street, the combination was knocked off the safe and $400 taken. At the store at 1113 Grand avenue the safe's combination was hammered off, but there was no money in it.

DIG INTO BORGER'S MIRE

COURT OF INQUIRY CONTINUES ITS QUESTIONING.

The Disappearance of a Grand Jury List May Have Important Bearing on Probe of Holmes Assassination.

(By the Associated Press.)

BORGER, TEX., Oct. 1.—Relieved of any uneasiness by the presence of 100 guardsmen administering martial law, a long list of witnesses was under subpoena to appear today before a military court of inquiry investigating lawlessness in this turbulent oil boom town.

The court was set up yesterday a few hours after Brig. Gen. Jacob Wolters had led his troops into town, proclaimed martial law and had taken over the duties of all city and county peace officers.

The scope of the investigation was not outlined, but it was expected the court would make a determined effort to solve the assassination here September 13 of District Attorney John A. Holmes.

THE SESSIONS IN SECRET.

Starting at noon yesterday, the court worked far into the night and many witnesses remained to be heard today. Sessions of the court were secret and the names of witnesses were not announced. It is expected the findings of the court will be kept secret until they are placed before the grand jury October 14.

State rangers investigating Holmes's assassination have indicated witnesses were afraid to talk before martial law was declared, and that one witness was threatened with death by a policeman. Mayor Glenn Pace of Borger was arrested Sunday and charged with sending a witness away. With all civil peace officers ousted in the period of military control, investigators hoped they would be able to get much more complete testimony from timid witnesses.

NO VIOLENCE—FEW ARRESTS.

The change from civil to martial law was made without confusion and there was no semblance of violence. Very few arrests were made and most of these were for intoxication. Clint Melholland, a policeman, and Sam Jones, a constable, were "held for investigation." All peace officers were disarmed as they were ousted.

Although nothing was said about the progress of the court of inquiry, General Wolters said a grand jury list stolen from the county clerk probably would figure in the solution of the assassination. Wolters explained that for years grand juries here had been selected haphazardly by officials, but that shortly before Holmes's death he had obtained the appointment of a jury commission to select grand juries. The commission had selected its first jury and sent the names to the county clerk and county commissioners' court just before Holmes's death.

JURY LIST MAY FIGURE.

The clerk's list has disappeared and officers believe it was stolen by criminals interested in the deliberations of the grand jury. When they obtained the list and discovered law-abiding citizens were to make up the grand jury, General Wolters believes, they assassinated Holmes to avoid prosecution.

Although there was no suggestion that there would be any trouble, the soldiers were well prepared for it. In addition to the rapid-fire rifles which they carry, the force had twenty 12-gauge sawed-off shotguns and the usual cavalry sidearms, except that no sabers were worn.

DEATH SHAKES UP LAW

WASHINGTON POLICE CHANGES MAY FOLLOW AN INDICTMENT.

Grand Jury Upholds Young Officer in Case of Bank Clerk Whose 23-Year-Old Wife Was Found Dead.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The capital police department faced the prospect of some radical changes among officers today as a sequel to the indictment of Robert A. McPherson, jr., young bank clerk, on a charge of murdering his 23-year-old estranged wife.

The grand jury, after being convinced Mrs. McPherson was not a suicide, as ascribed by the police and a coroner's jury, recommended that Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of detectives, and Lieut. Edward Kelly, chief of the homicide squad, be relieved "of all duty in connection with the detective bureau until their activities in this case have been investigated."

Robert J. Allen, Cornell graduate, and suspended policeman, who brought about the grand jury investigation after the suicide theory in the case had been accepted, looked forward to wearing the stripes of a detective sergeant, which Shelby said several days ago would be his if he established his case. Otherwise, Shelby added, presumably recalling Allen's stormy part in internal police affairs, his goose would be cooked.

Statements made by Allen to the effect his superiors had "whitewashed" their McPherson investigation to avoid having unsolved homicide cases against their record, which led to his suspension from the force, apparently were well supported, in the grand jury's opinion. The police investigation, it said, "was handled in a most inefficient and unbusinesslike manner," and the coroner's investigation was "merely a matter of form."

McPherson, whose story of finding his wife's body with a pajama cord around her neck was first accepted, meanwhile prepared with the aid of relatives for his defense.

"I have an absolutely clear conscience," he said.

TAX CHARGE BY LAGUARDIA.

Wealthy Men Were Favored in Assessments, He Says.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Fiorello M. LaGuardia, Republican candidate for mayor, today named John D. Rockefeller, jr., and August Heckscher, philanthropist, among a group who he said were favored to the extent of 75 million dollars by unfair city tax assessments.

LaGuardia charged "tax racketeering" by Tammany Hall and the administration of Mayor Walker had shunted a huge tax assessment from favored wealthy land owners to small property owners.

THE LEGION ON PARADE

THIRTY THOUSAND MARCH AT ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Every State in Union Is Represented in Louisville Line That Includes 100 Drum and Bugle Corps and Fifty Bands.

(By the Associated Press.)

LOUISVILLE, KY., Oct. 1.—Men who dragged blistered feet over shell-torn roads in France today blithely kept step with a thousand drums in honor of a memory and for the entertainment of a host of applauding onlookers.

Shoulders that eleven years ago drooped dejectedly under pack straps were held in positions of military squareness while more than 30,000 men passed the reviewing stand in the parade of the eleventh national American Legion convention.

It was a 6-hour parade for those who took part in the exhibition, for every delegation was ordered to be at its allotted place at 10 o'clock this morning, and the official closing time was 4 o'clock.

In the line of march were approximately 100 drum and bugle corps and almost half as many bands, coming literally from the four corners of the nation and representing every one of the forty-eight states. The members of these organizations, men whose hair already is graying or growing thin, wore uniforms at once spectacular and uncomfortable.

The 30,000 men marched on the hard asphalt with smiles and snapped to attention and "eyes right" with the vigor of active fighting men when they passed the reviewing stand where Paul V. McNutt, national commander, the other national officers, and the distinguished guests returned the salutes of the passing delegations.

In order of the precedence won by membership and other work in the last year came the state delegations and the foreign departments.

Fire Takes Historic Yale Hall.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—Historic North Sheffield hall in Prospect street, seat of Yale university mathematics department, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin early today. The building, a 3-story brick structure, with thirty-four rooms, was used for daily classes and it was believed no one was inside when the fire started.

SHIP IS A LIQUOR CACHE

FEDERAL AGENTS SEIZE $30,000 CARGO AT MILWAUKEE.

The Crew of Thirty-Two Is Held and the S. S. Utica, Lake Freighter From Windsor, Is Impounded.

(By the Associated Press.)

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 1.—A huge lake freighter was impounded, thirty-two men were in custody and liquor valued at more than $30,000 was in the possession of federal agents today, the aftermath to the most spectacular raid ever staged in Wisconsin.

Docking here from Windsor, Ontario, the S. S. Utica of Buffalo, N. Y., was met by prohibition and coast guard forces late last night. In virtually every part of the vessel whisky, ale and wine were found and the belief was expressed that another day's search would unearth more.

Capt. Robert Koch of Buffalo, the ship's master, and the crew of thirty-one men were arrested pending an investigation to determine responsibility for the smuggling. They were permitted to remain in ship's quarters under guard.

The agents said they found bottles packed in burlap bags, suitcases and cardboard cartons in coal piles, lifeboats, the main office, mates' quarters and a dozen caches among the freight cargo and elsewhere.

The raiders met no opposition from the crew when they boarded the craft. Other than denying knowledge of the presence of liquor on his ship, Captain Koch had no comment to make.

When Nature Warns of too Much Acid

MILK OF MAGNESIA
brings quickest Relief

AUTHORITIES have warned us so often that nowadays almost all people know the dangers of a diet too rich in acid-producing foods. Dietary experts say the ideal menu would consist of about three-fourths fruits and vegetables — the alkaline producers — to one-fourth of those which produce acids; the meats, sweets, cereals. But knowing this, how many can avoid an occasional touch of over-acidity?

Of course, when pain and sourness about two hours after eating, heartburn, headaches, gas or nausea, warn of too much acid, we can diet our way out of the trouble. But that takes time. And there's no use suffering when Nature has provided such a quick, harmless means of relief. Milk of Magnesia. Doctors the world over are united in favor of just one form of magnesia. For over fifty years, they have prescribed Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It is an almost tasteless, milk-white liquid; magnesia in perfect suspension. It is in the form pronounced most effective by the U. S. Dispensatory. Just a spoonful in a glass of water and every trace of over-acidity soon disappears. In five minutes you are smiling, happy again. Its action is thorough, yet nothing could be more soothing to an ailing stomach.

This perfect anti-acid has also gentle laxative properties. It cleanses and sweetens the entire digestive tract without any of the disturbance common to strong cathartics. It has many important uses in any household. Complete directions, worth your reading, come with every package.

All drug stores have the 25c and 50c bottles. The genuine, prescriptional product, with 50 years' experience behind it, is always marked with the name Phillips. So look for it in buying.

Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid. Phillips is the genuine.

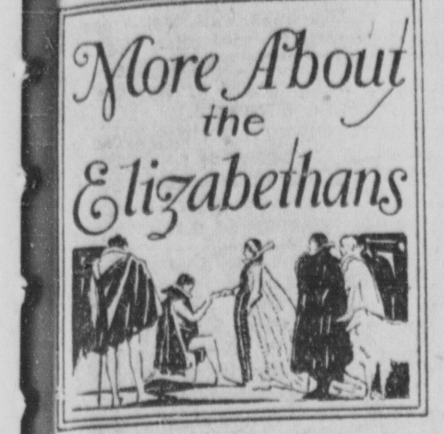
More About the Elizabethans



SHAKESPEARE AND HIS AGE.

(Reflections by The Star's Roving Correspondent.)

THE background against which the Elizabethans wrought—against which Shakespeare wrote and enterprise and daring fought to widen the boundaries of a narrow world—was little calculated to encourage and support these innovating spirits. There was no nationalism in England in the sixteenth century, and the Tudor kings were dynasts, not statesmen.

The population of the country did not exceed 3 million, of which only a handful—the nobles and landed families—were concerned in the government. The mass of the people was illiterate—the father of Shakespeare could not write his name—and was rooted to the soil, not knowing what went on in high places and not much caring.

Henry VIII, who swells so big in Holbein's portraits, was in theory lord paramount of all the soil and wealth of England, but actually he never for a moment was safe in their possession. Blood as good as his flowed in the veins of many of his subjects; pride as great and lust for power as unrestrained mounted to their heads and expanded their aspiring breasts.

SOUGHT THE HONORS OF HIS POWER.

These were the rich and powerful nobles who surrounded his throne, contended among themselves for the honors he could bestow and were ready to turn their arms against him, seize his crown or take his life when their claims were disallowed, and if they found themselves strong enough to do it. Henry was obliged therefore to play those interests and combinations of interests against each other; that was all his statecraft amounted to.

He had to elevate and enrich his nobles, but not too much; he had to distribute his favors with a calculating hand. If he disturbed the balance there was an immediate crisis, and when as a result of it heads were laid on the block it meant simply that one combination of those whose business it was to control his actions had triumphed over another. No principle of government or policy of state was involved. Nothing happened except that the white wands and staffs, the silver chains and golden keys of office that had been carried by one set of the privileged passed to another, and with them the lands, manors and castles of the fallen.

LOOT THE STAKE OF STATECRAFT.

This loot was the spring of action and the stake of Tudor statecraft. Henry beggared Wolsey chiefly because the cardinal had grown too rich and powerful. The despoiling of the monasteries and the seizing of the abbey lands was just another piece of good business, for even Henry's religious convictions attended conveniently upon his dynastic interests and considerations of domestic politics. The loot was spread around where it would do the most good.

It was in this confused age of intrigue, violence, rapacity and bloodshed passing for statecraft that Shakespeare wrote; for the age of Elizabeth was the age of her father. Elizabeth had the same powerful domestic interests to suppress or placate. She played favorites up and down. Did not she slap Essex's face and did not the proud and vain noble clap his hand to his sword? With such a court, with such a theory of government, with no spirit of nationalism and nothing that could be called public opinion, the greatest of poets had the temerity to write plays in which kings and queens, churchmen and nobles were characters.

NO ATTRACTION IN LITERATURE.

The lack of any public patronage for literature brought into practice an alternative that increased the perils of writing on subjects involving great personages. This was the institution of private patronage. Shakespeare had to have a patron and the fates gave him the earl of Southampton. Southampton was a partisan of Essex, was involved in that nobleman's plot and when it failed was among those seized and held for sacrifice. He did not, like many others, lose his head, but suffered a long imprisonment. Shakespeare went untouched, but it may have been a near thing.

On the eve of the Essex uprising the conspirators had thought it good psychology to reproduce a Shakespeare play in which a Plantagenet had made a bid for popular support such as Essex had planned. Shakespeare may have had nothing to do with this strategy, but "Richard" was his play and it was produced at his theater, and, moreover, the poet had introduced lines on the stage laudatory of the popular hero, though it was when he stood at the height of favor with Elizabeth and before the disastrous expedition to Ireland had brought the Essex fortunes low.

NOT OF THE GOVERNING CLASS.

But here was an illustration of the dangers besetting the chief ornament of the Elizabethan age that makes Shakespeare's life and literary attainments the more marvelous. He did not belong to the governing class; he was not noble; he was not even a court jester, and his profession in that age fell a little short of mere respectability. And in stroking Elizabeth—which he did in his play "Henry VIII"—he was stroking a tigress.

One wrong stroke and her claws would be out. It should be said of this play, however, that dangerous as it might be to write about his king in the reign of his daughter, the play itself was harmless and in all probability the major part of it was not done by Shakespeare, though the responsibility was his, as it bore his name and was produced at his theater.

A PROPHECY FULFILLED.

It was indeed the fire from the cannon discharged in the theater in the business of this piece that burned the building. If it was Fletcher, as is supposed by the Shakespearean scholars, who wrote most of this play, he gave a good exhibition of the care with which the Elizabethan writers worked.

It contains the most fulsome flattery of Elizabeth. It is amusing to read in the lines spoken by Cranmer, archbishop of Canterbury, at the baptism of the infant Elizabeth, the prediction of her future greatness and the prophecy that she would live a virgin. Considering that the lines were written when Elizabeth was on the throne and had fulfilled the prophecy, one wonders if the pit didn't snicker. One touch only was wanting, and Fletcher supplied that.

KING HENRY BITTERLY DISAPPOINTED.

King Henry is so moved by the archbishop's second sight (the archbishop, by the way, was burned by Elizabeth's half-sister Mary, so he did not live to see his prophecy fulfilled) that he declares the child is his greatest gift. Here's richness indeed! Henry was so bitterly disappointed that this greatest gift was a girl that he tried his best to cut her off from succession to the crown (and died believing he had succeeded in doing it), and cut off her mother's head.

Such was the unpromising age in which the greatest literary genius of his race lived and worked. A knowledge of the social and political conditions that characterized it is necessary to a full appreciation of the marvel.

OIL TO AID TEMPLE

WELLS IN CANADA DEVELOPED BY CHURCH OF CHRIST MEMBERS.

Mrs. Daniel MacGregor, Who Owns the Land, Says an Angel in a Vision Told Her Where to Drill.

An oil well recently brought in at Oyen, Alberta, Canada, is expected to be a big factor in expediting the construction of the new temple, which is being built on the historic Temple lot at Independence by the Church of Christ.

The well is on land owned by Mrs. Daniel MacGregor, a member of the church. The project was developed by other members in association with her. Her husband, the late Daniel MacGregor, was for many years a minister of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. In 1926 he joined the Church of Christ, and was active in its ministry when he died about two years ago.

SAY THE LORD DIRECTED THEM.

Church officials say that MacGregor and his wife claimed to have been visited in 1914 by an angel of the Lord, who told them the exact spot where the well was to be bored, and that the money obtained therefrom was to be for the building of the temple.

A statement issued yesterday afternoon from the general offices of the Church of Christ by W. P. Buckley, said in part:

Wires and letters from the officials of the Fuego Oil Company, Ltd., Oyen, Alberta, bring information that September 20, 1929, its first well, which was started in 1924, came in, shooting gas and crude oil 200 feet into the air.

It was decided by the company officials and the drillers that a larger flow might be found at a greater depth, and they drilled deeper.

On September 29, a large flow of oil was struck.

Geologists say that it is a very good quality of crude oil, and that there is something in it that is different from any oil they ever have seen. Also, that it is the only well that is producing from the lime in Alberta.

Robert Campbell, secretary-treasurer of the Fuego Oil Company, writes: "Our leases, which were worth $10,000 a few weeks ago, now are worth millions—10,000 acres of leases."

EXPECTS STEEL WORK THIS FALL.

Walter Gates of Kansas City, Kansas, who has been active in the temple project, said yesterday he expected to see the structural steel go into position this fall.

The Church of Christ, low in funds, expected to take seven years in building the temple at a cost of about $700,000. Work was started last April.

The temple is being built as a result of what purported to be Divine revelations.

FAMOUS OLD QUINCY HOUSE GIVES WAY TO MODERNISM

For 116 Years New England Hospitality Was Dispensed at the Inn, and Political History Was Made—Boston Regrets Its Passing.

(By The Star's Own Service.)

BOSTON Oct. 1.—Gay voices of visitors from all over the United States no longer echo in the corridors of the Quincy House; Democratic political leaders no longer meet in its caucus rooms to confer with Massachusetts party leaders in efforts to swing the state this way or that; time has taken its toll again, and the Quincy House, oldest and most famous of Boston hostelries, is left alone with its memories.

For 116 years the Quincy House dispensed New England hospitality, its solemn white marble front belying the coziness behind the bleak exterior. And now the fixtures are gone and the great front door is locked.

Where Fried Scallop Originated.

It was in the Quincy house that the fried scallop was introduced to the public as a delectable dish, and it was there that the plank steak gained pre-eminence. No wonder Boston mourned when the old hotel was closed the other day.

The Quincy house was opened when the country was recovering from its second war with England. In that distant day the area between Boston and the harbor was not built up, and the great tower of the hotel was visible from ships entering the bay. It was a thriving hotel when anti-slaveryites were meeting in its lobby to discuss how to prevent Kansas and Missouri from entering the union as slave states. It has seen American history, and helped to make a lot of it.

From its rooms were taken great candlestick thought to have been from the workshop of Paul Revere. These candlesticks, along with the andirons and other fireplace fixtures, had remained in the Quincy house through the years despite their replacement by modern heating and lighting equipment.

Why It Was Famous.

Among its guests had been New England political leaders of more than a century, as well as many of national reputation, such as William Jennings Bryan. Samuel Gompers used to make it his Boston headquarters. John L. Sullivan is supposed to have sustained his only knockout in it, when a bartender hit him over the head with a beer bottle. Its bar was said to have been the longest in the United States. No wonder the place was revered.

The walls of the old Quincy house haven't been torn down yet, but that is scheduled to take place soon. The rise of newer hotels, more accessible, preclude its reopening. The owners had to have a new front door key made when they locked the place—the original having been lost seventy years ago.

And when the Quincy is razed, Boston will have a feeling akin to that it would have if the Old South church were destroyed.

WHY DOESN'T THE WIND BLOW 1,000 MILES AN HOUR?

P. Connor Shows He Can Answer Anything When He Explains That and Why It Can't Rain Twenty-Five Feet.

INURED as he is to the vagaries of the lay mind where weather matters are involved, P. Connor undoubtedly thought this reporter had been touched by the late September heat yesterday when he launched two questions that had bothered him for years— and still do.

Why doesn't the wind ever blow 500 or 1,000 miles an hour?

Why doesn't it ever rain twelve feet, or a quarter of a mile?

Well, why doesn't it?

What We Have Learned.

We've built our houses, our garages and our billboards to withstand certain wind pressure. Through long years of experience man has learned that, except for tornadoes, wind velocity seldom exceeds seventy miles an hour. He has built accordingly.

Man has learned, too, that while rainfall varies in different parts of the earth's surface, the maximum rainfall in any given locality can be gauged with a fair degree of accuracy. We all know, for instance, that a 10-inch rain such as fell in New Orleans recently is a whale of a rain.

But that doesn't explain anything about either wind or rain. Why does the wind stop at 70 miles an hour, and why does the rain cease after pouring down ten inches?

Why don't we have to build our houses in the form of pyramids to stand up against wind pressure, and put them on stilts to keep them out of the water?

A Busy Weather Man.

P. Connor was busy. He had just returned from a vacation and the weather had been piling up on him. He had so completely lost control that for the moment he didn't amount to much more than a layman in his own office. Besides, the telephone was ringing and foolish people were asking foolish questions. Then this reporter walked in and topped off the day.

"Why," he asked, "doesn't the wind take a notion some day to blow 500 miles an hour and sweep everything off the map? Now that may sound silly——"

"Without a doubt it does," Mr. Connor readily conceded, backing away perceptibly.

"Well, then, why doesn't it cloud up some day and rain and rain until everything floatable floats into the Gulf of Mexico? That may sound silly, too, but——"

"Just as silly as the first one," Mr. Connor said.

Loses His Suspicion.

The questions were asked in a serious way, and while P. Connor no doubt continued to entertain doubts of the questioner's sanity, and kept well to the opposite side of a desk, he did unbend and explain. Most of it was over the writer's head.

The wind, it seems, is regulated by a thousand and one different forces scattered all through the universe and it has been so hampered since time began that long ago it became discouraged and quit trying. When it gets all pepped up and feels like stepping out, a restraining hand reaches out of the void and yanks it back where it belongs.

It can move only about so fast in one place because it must plow through a lot of air to get any place; and notwithstanding popular conception, plowing through air, it seems, is tough going. Then the wind drags on the ground, bumping into hills, hedge fences and billboards, and that cramps it considerably.

A Balance of Air Pressure.

"If it were possible," Mr. Connor explained, "to create an absolute vacuum from here to Independence, say, and then if it were possible to put an air pump of sufficient volume at one end, it might be possible to create an unheard of wind velocity. But there are no complete vacuums. There is a balance of air pressure all over the earth's surface that holds wind velocity to the speeds with which we are familiar. Wind, you know, is merely air rushing from a high pressure area to a low pressure area in the equalizing process."

Well, that's that; so much for the wind.

Now about the rain. If a rain cloud would stand still long enough and moisture-laden air would pour into it long enough there might be need for Noah's Ark.

But the cloud won't stand still. The wind, the air rushing from some place where conditions are crowded to some other place where there isn't much of anything, moves the cloud along so only a portion of the moisture it has to release can descend in any one spot.

So it all seems to depend on the wind and the wind depends on the "highs" and "lows" and they depend on——

By the way, what do they depend on? Why are there always areas of high pressure and other areas of low pressure?

Jars of Water in Piano.

From Popular Mechanics.

To counteract the effects of hot, dry air upon his piano during the winter, E. J. Disler, expert tuner of Tiffin, O., has had success in placing six fruit jars, filled with water, inside the cabinet of the upright. He is careful to keep the containers filled and to adjust them so that they will not touch strings or sounding board. The jars are removed in the spring. "An ideal temperature for a piano would be about 65 degrees Fahrenheit the year around," Mr. Disler declared.

SPEAKING THE PUBLIC MIND

Protests a View of the Filipinos.

Manila, P. I.—To The Star: Mrs. Artamonoff's contribution to The Star, dated June 30, 1929, and reprinted sometime in the Philippines Herald—a Manila daily—has drawn the bitter resentment of the Filipino people. We always welcome just and honest criticisms, but any malicious misrepresentation will surely meet vigorous protest.

The students of the University of the Philippines, although Mrs. Artamonoff was not yet in the university faculty when she wrote the derogatory article, turned hostile against her. She lost the respect of her pupils and had therefore outlived her usefulness in the institution. Acting on the suggestion of the head of the English department, she tendered her resignation before any drastic action could be taken against her.

The aforementioned article was characterized by its flippancy, sugar-coated sarcasms and sweeping statements. Mrs. Artamonoff deliberately sought the rubbish can, took everything she could find there, described Filipino students in the superlative degree and presented them as typical of the Filipino character; and your readers, who perhaps know next to nothing of the truths about us, are apt to swallow bait, hook and sinker.

If you could spare more space in your popular paper, I shall be very much beholden to you if you could publish this letter as a sort of protest.

ATILLANO M. ORTEGA.

[Editor's Note—The article to which objection is made was written to The Star by Mrs. Jessie Downing Artamonoff, who is a daughter of John F. Downing, Kansas City banker. Mrs. Artamonoff, who then was a teacher of English in the University of the Philippines, gave an American observer's impressions of Filipino students and of the Filipino people.]

Fair Play in the Little World Series.

To The Star: I quote this sentence from C. E. McBride's article on the visit to Kansas City of the Rochester ball club: "I hope that these crowds may be capacity ones each day, that a rousing welcome may be given the visiting players each day—their good plays applauded, their bad plays fading into silence."

I take it that this good sportsmanship—voiced by a leading sport writer and upheld by his paper—is a true western picture—fair play, a sample of good deportment. So let us uphold that standard—win or lose. If we fail in fair treatment of our opponent, it ceases to be a sport.

A Great Town, in Spite of the Knockers.

To The Star: So many complaints are made about everything possible to find fault with, including our city, that I should like to express the thoughts of a traveling man about our old home town. Kansas City, to me, is the place where the wooded hills of Missouri meet the rolling prairies of Kansas, where the good fellowship of the North clasps hands with the hospitality of the South and where the conservatism of the East is united with the freedom of the West. In Kansas City capital can be assured a reasonable return on the investment and the worker with a will can prosper.

After spending several weeks in the small towns of the territory, when I head the old boat for home, reach Lees Summit, Liberty or Overland Park when I see the smoke rolling up from the factories, when the Federal Reserve and the Telephone buildings loom into view—boy, you just can't keep down that old swelling in your chest as you lean back and say to the world (no matter about the holes in the streets, the gasoline tax, the police department and the city government): "We have the best business men and the best people, and, having those, we can't help having a great city. So I'm proud of my town and my home." Here is my name and address, but just let me go as

Surplus Grain and Starving Chinese

Clinton, Mo.—To The Star: The news columns carry accounts of the sufferings of 25 million to 40 million starving Chinese. At the same time the United States senate and the farm relief board are devising ways and means to prevent a surplus of food products, and to dispose of a surplus, if one is produced.

How would it do for those bodies to make a contact with our consular service in China and sell the Chinese our present surplus, if any? If China is unable to pay now, let the farm board resolve itself into a super body and send China 25 million dollars' to 50 million dollars' worth of food for the starving Chinese women and children on credit. Make it a contribution, if necessary.

That would relieve our congested storage conditions at some of the terminals, put back into traffic some of the thousands of box cars now standing on side tracks full of foodstuffs and paying demurrage, also make a market for some bushels of grain, some pounds of meat, and some gallons of milk.

I am not strong on overproduction, but I do believe in feeding the hungry. If every stomach in the world is kept amply filled, there will be a lot of empty elevators.

W. M. GODWIN.

[Editor's Note—The central committee of the American Red Cross, at a meeting in Washington Friday, decided that conditions in China did not warrant the undertaking of relief work by a foreign agency. The decision was reached after an investigation had been made of the Chinese situation.]

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Anger and fear greeted the faltering efforts of the first automobile. But the hands of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE guided the steering wheel and controlled the throttle—the automobile drove on to glorious success.

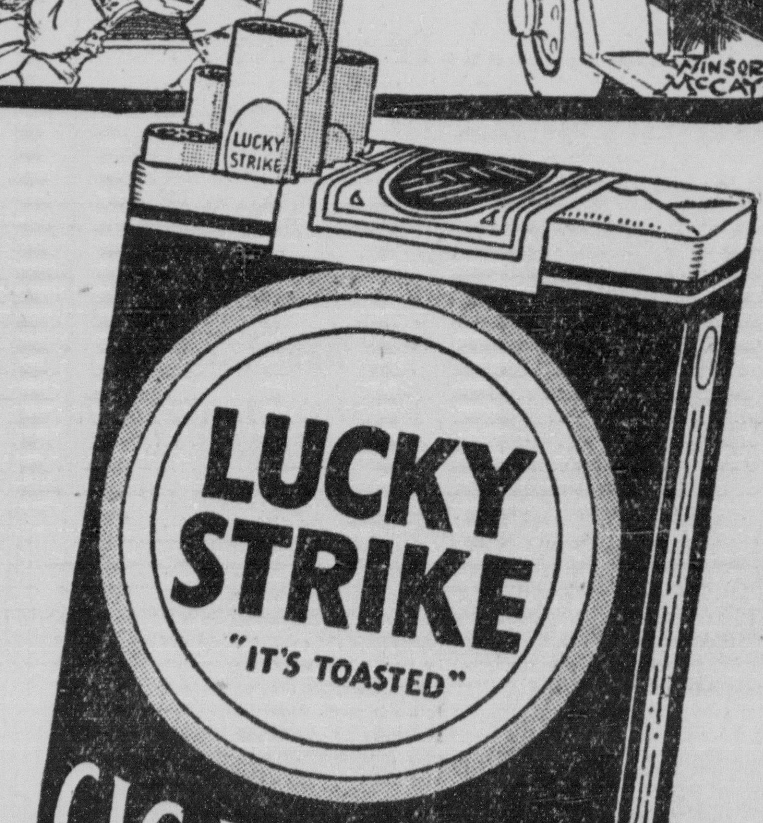
"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.



"It's toasted"
No Throat Irritation-No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Poor Fritz Gets Into Trouble

"YIPE, yipe, yi-i-ipe!" went Fritz, the puppy. He was a very small puppy and though he should have liked to bark with a deep woof-woof, the best he could do was yipe, yi-i-ipe.

Mij, Flor, Hanid, Yam and Knarf—the five little shadow-children with the turned-about names—who happened to be near by, hurried over.

"What's the matter?" Yam asked.

"Nothing's the matter. I'm just barking," the puppy said, delighted to have attracted so much attention, even though it was only from shadows.

"WHAT MUST I DO?"

"You're not barking," Mij said. "You're yiping."

"Oh, no, you're quite mistaken. I'm barking. Just listen carefully." And lifting up its nose it uttered as plain as could be, "Yipe, yipe, yi-i-ipe."

All the shadows shook their heads. "No, no," Hanid said, "that's not a bark. It's much too high."

"—and thin," added Mij.

"It isn't gruff enough," said Flor.

"It wouldn't frighten a mouse," concluded Knarf. The poor puppy hung its head in shame. Its eyes grew watery and it sniffed. "What can I do?" it begged. "I want to bark like a great big dog—like the dog across the way."

The dog across the way was a large black dog with shaggy hair whose deep bark caused cats to stiffen up in terror, and made smaller dogs seek safety against their masters' legs, or scamper off like the wind, their leashes dragging after them.

"I want to bark," the puppy repeated, "like the dog across the way. Oh, if only I could."

Hanid patted it gently on the head. "Don't take on so," she said. "You're only a puppy yet. When you grow up to be a big dog, you'll bark just as loudly."

"But I don't want to wait until I grow up. I want to bark now. What can I do?"

All the shadows were silent. They were thinking, you understand. The harder they thought, the more silent they were. As they didn't make a single sound, it is plain that they were thinking extremely hard. At the end of three minutes Yam shook her head, a sign that she thought of nothing. An instant later Mij shook his. Then Flor and Hanid shook theirs. Knarf didn't. He looked up at the puppy and smiled. "I know exactly what you must do," he said.

"Thank you, thank you, kind sir," the puppy exclaimed, wagging its little tail gleefully. "What must I do?"

"Come into the hall and I'll show you." They all hurried into the hall, the puppy scampering ahead. They halted at length before the umbrella stand. In among the umbrellas was father's cane, which looked like a slender branch of a tree, for the bark was still on it.

"Now," the clever little shadow boy said, addressing the puppy, "all you must do is chew off some of the bark from that cane and as soon as you swallow it, you'll be able to bark."

So overjoyed was Fritz that he instantly set about chewing the bark off the cane, springing round and round in his haste to eat as much as possible.

"Don't do it!" the others cried in dismay.

All at once the puppy bit off a big piece of the bark and the cane clattered noisily to the floor. Into the hall rushed father to see what was the matter.

"My cane—!" he shouted, "Chewed to pieces by this puppy—" And he dealt the poor Fritz such a box on the ears that the piece of bark came flying out his mouth again, so that when he barked the only sound that it emitted was yipe, yipe, yi-i-ipe.

"Humph," Knarf said, walking away, "he should have swallowed it. How can he expect to bark otherwise?"

THE MODE IS CAPRICIOUS

WHIMSICAL FASHION DISPLAYS NEW FANCIES AT PARIS OPENINGS.

Fichus, Jabots, Beads and Embroidery Feminize Models—Skirts and Waists Alike Show Wilful Variety.

The utterly bewildering variety in the skirt this new season bespeaks only one thing—the dainty chic and charming contrariness of the feminine woman. And the elegant fichus, little lace jabots, and tiny collars of fur, of beads, of embroidered mull count for only one effect— a coquettish and entirely feminine toilette.

Nothing, however, at the showings of the best couturiers suggested anything tastelessly bizarre or overdecorated. It seems as if each separate couturier was himself so filled with ideas for variety in the new creations, that Paris resembled a veritable Pandora's box when one by one the openings occurred. No two frocks were alike, each was entirely individual, each one perfect in detail. Just as one begins to content herself that belts were to mark the normal waistline, one sees afternoon dresses of georgette, mousseline de soie and velvet, with not the hint of a belt, but a tight waist that descended to a flowing skirt of generous and irregular cut. And if one house showed a number of long coats, another showed little jackets or three-quarter length ones. And by no means has the straight line gown disappeared, for some most handsome evening frocks at Premet's had no suggestion of a waistline—or if there was it was partially concealed by the little bolero jacket sewn down or left loose—or as Madame Havet at Agnes prefers, the cape of very wide, circular cut descended over the entire bodice.

But if the skirt and waist is varied this new season, the neckline has by no means been neglected, and shows innumerable different cuts. One thing is certain about it, however, it should not be plain. If only one has a tiny flat bow with long streamers down the back it is enough, but you must have something. And one of the most popular modes for afternoon gowns in some of the houses was the straightly cut piece, finely pleated and sewn to the back of the neckline. Paul Caret does as much with fine lace for flat little collars, as Martial and Armand does with fur.

Among the delightful details which go to make up the fall frock must be mentioned beading, a form of decoration heretofore minus. After the deluge of beaded dresses under which the world, smart and otherwise, was buried a few seasons back, it was nothing short of a relief to find that beads had completely disappeared. Just as one was beginning to wonder whatever could take the place of the beaded evening dress, it became smart to wear untrimmed satins. From that time on, beaded effects were eclipsed by the lesser glory of the plain frock. Little by little beaded details have been reintroduced, in no more charming way than as a substitute for the lingerie collar. When very tiny white beads are used at the neckline of a black or dark dress, velvet or otherwise, the impression of fine embroidery or lace is produced.

Blue for Little Blondes.

Blue crepe makes the sophisticated little dress sketched above which is trimmed with blue appliques on white which is faggoted to the dress itself. The important looking patch pocket will endear the dress to its little wearer.

Mixed Fruits Make Healthful Desserts

Serve fruit and solve the dessert problem. The small fruit which often lies neglected in the orchard or garden may make a more wholesome and satisfying finish to the family meal than the pies, cakes and puddings many housewives make every day. After a substantial dinner fruits are especially recommended instead of the heavier desserts.

Fruit cup, which is simply the good old American dessert of sliced fruit served in a dainty glass cup, is easy to prepare and especially delicious if many different kinds of fruits are combined in it. Small amounts of left over cooked fruit may be added to raw fruit, or a new flavor may be given by adding a sprig of mint or a cherry. A sour fruit cup is improved by having a few marshmallows, dates or raisins cut up in it. Appearances count especially in this type of dessert and the more dainty and attractive it looks, the better the family will like it. Try a compote of stewed fruits, a pear, peach and apple or include other fruits.

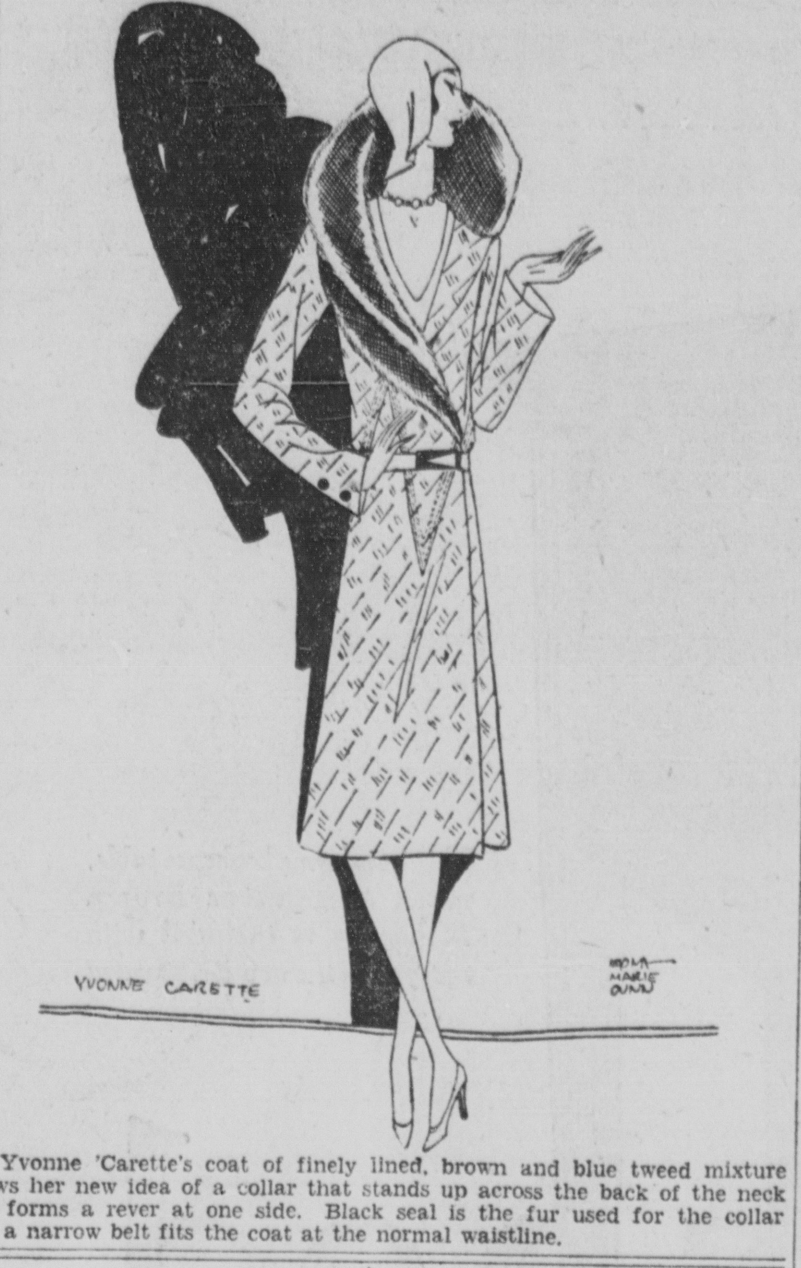
Stewed fruit, another old favorite, may be depended on for desserts especially at this season. Combinations of fruit are good since they change familiar food into a different and appetizing dessert. The best flavor usually results if fruits are cooked separately and combined when cold. Cooked plums, peaches and apples make an excellent combination. A slice of lemon may be added for piquancy or the serving may be occasionally dressed up with whipped cream.

Stuffed Pear Salad.

6 halves canned pears,
½ cup yellow cheese, cut fine,
1-3 cup diced celery,
2 tablespoons chopped green peppers,
½ cup salad dressing.

Chill all ingredients. Mix 1 tablespoon of dressing with cheese, celery and green peppers. Shape into balls and fill cavities in pears. Serve on lettuce and top with remaining dressing.

AN UNUSUAL COLLAR VIVIFIES TWEED COAT.



Yvonne 'Carette's coat of finely lined, brown and blue tweed mixture shows her new idea of a collar that stands up across the back of the neck and forms a rever at one side. Black seal is the fur used for the collar and a narrow belt fits the coat at the normal waistline.

Substantial Teas For the Hungry Golfer

WHEN the hungry golfer returns from his eighteen holes he is ready for something more substantial than the proverbial sandwiches and tea. He will welcome instead something satisfying like a piping hot dish of mushroom goulash accompanied by cheesed crackers, olives or pickles. After eighteen more holes on another Sunday surprise him with scalloped noodles with pineapple rings or a delectable bowl of homemade chili served with oysterettes and dill pickles.

MUSHROOM GOULASH.

2 pounds ground beef or 1 pound beef and 1 pound pork,
1 large sliced onion,
2 cups cooked tomatoes,
1 cup boiled macaroni,
2 cups mushrooms,
Seasonings.

Allow meat and onions to simmer slowly in kettle, while cooking macaroni about two-thirds done in a separate pan. Then add macaroni to the meat and onions and stir in the tomatoes and season to taste. Set over a slow fire and let simmer for fifteen minutes or so, add the mushrooms and allow to blend together at least 30 minutes longer. Such a soup dish may be prepared the day before since it is really more delicious after standing several hours.

ESCALLOPED NOODLES.

1 small package egg noodles,
1 pound grated cheese,
½ cup buttered bread crumbs,
Butter,
Milk.

Grease a baking dish heavily with butter and alternate layers of the noodles that have been cooked in salted water, with cheese, buttered bread crumbs and dots of butter. Cover the whole with milk and bake in a moderate oven until delicately browned.

CHILI CON CARNE.

2 pounds hamburg,
2 tablespoons fat,
2 cups tomato sauce,
1½ pints water,
1 tablespoon chili powder,
2 tablespoons garlic,
1 teaspoon salt.

Combine the above ingredients and boil slowly for two hours. Serve with beans that have been cooked until they are tender in another pan.

NURSES OF FUTURE WILL FLY.

Movement Under Way to Make Them Competent Pilots.

If nurses had known how to fly during the Mississippi flood disaster, a great saving in time, money and human lives undoubtedly would have been effected. Today an active movement is under way to prepare against future emergencies of this and other kinds. The Registered Nurses' Aviation Association of the Civil Air Corps of the U. S. A. gives definite promise that very shortly nurses will be flying.

Frequently in normal times a patient's life hangs in the balance of proper nursing care promptly administered. A nurse who can take the aerial shortcut to a patient's bedside in time of crisis is just that much better equipped to render the most complete service to sick people.

Members of this organization will be able in emergency situations to pilot not only themselves but a physician to the spot where their presence is in urgent demand. Incalculable benefit will certainly be derived because it is possible for a doctor already on the scene at some remote point to pick up a telephone and say to a trusted nursing aid, "Hop in your plane and come right over. I need you on this case."

Irradiations.

The trees, like great jade elephants,
Chained, stamp and shake 'neath the gadflies of the breeze;
The trees lunge and plunge, unruly elephants;
The clouds are their crimson howdah-canopies,
The sunlight glints like the golden robe of a Shah.
Would I were tossed on the wrinkled backs of those trees.
—John Gould Fletcher.

White sweaters for winter sports—if one has any interest in such things at the moment—is a Paris rumor.

BEWARE OF DIETS WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, circled eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation — to prevent it. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CANNED PIMENTOS.

Select sound uniform sized pimentos; be careful not to bruise them. Cut around the stem ends with a sharp slender knife and remove the inside portions and seeds, place the pimentos on a wire rack, set in a hot oven for about seven minutes or until the skins crack and blister; be careful that they do not burn. Allow them to cool slightly, then remove the skin carefully with a sharp knife, flatten and pack in layers in jars, fill the jars full; do not use any liquid; cap, set in water, bring to a boil and process for 25 minutes at 212 degrees Fahrenheit.

STARCH RETURNS TO FAVOR.

The Stiffening of Pre-War Days Freshens Newest Blouses.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—After a 10-year vacation starch is again a working word in the chic feminine vocabulary.

So far it isn't applied to petticoats or camisoles. But that may come in time if the tendency to stiffen tuck-in blouses grows like most tendencies do when Paris fashionables take them in hand.

The idea of thin handkerchief linen and lawn blouses, stiffened to look like fine organdie, is catching on with the general feminine public here.

Handmade blouses of washable fabrics other than silk are having a distinct revival. The French woman doesn't want her blouse to look limp and left over from the day before. She freshens it up with a dash of the old stiffening of pre-war usage, commonly called starch.

Skirts and separate blouses of the washable variety have decidedly put one-piece dresses out of the running in Paris. Tailored shirtwaists, chemisiers to the Parisian, have a steadily increasing vogue.

A transition style, favored by some of the best dressed women, is a tuck-in blouse of jersey in a color to match her skirt. The wool blouses are made of lightweight material in matching colors.

Looking into my Mirror

HOW much make-up is good form? This is a question to ask oneself and one another—and also a question that many women obviously fail to ask at all! A woman who is conspicuously made up is never really at her best. Every one is willing to admit this, yet a great number of women and girls continue to put on twice as much rouge and lipstick as they require.

Just how is the individual person to determine how much make-up really becomes her? The answer to this is always the same—"enough to approximate the natural color in the daytime and to heighten it in the evening." If the skin has a natural pallor, it is undoubtedly most attractive with individual coloring. At night, the most effective thing to do is to heighten this pallor, as a background for vivid lips and sparkling eyes. But if one has naturally a delicate or pronounced color in her cheeks, if her lips are naturally rose or red, and if these colors fade, these are the shades to be restored by skilled artifice. A faint natural color is always more attractive than a vivid artificial color. But lacking this faint color which is natural then is the time to supply it with rouge. And, when evening comes, don't try to change the face by means of cosmetics, as some people seem to believe is the correct procedure. Enhance natural color, give a little added vivacity by making artifice approximate Nature!

One "how much" question can always be answered briefly—and should be! That is the one about eye make-up, for no eye make-up should be employed during the day, unless you have almost colorless eyelids or lashes or they are made to seem so by a very tanned skin. And, even at night, in eye make-up, discretion is much the better part of beauty.

Yellow Drop Cakes.

1-3 cup fat,
1 cup sugar,
3 eggs,
1 cup milk,
1 teaspoon vanilla,
1 teaspoon lemon extract,
2½ cups flour,
2½ teaspoons baking powder.

Cream, fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat 3 minutes. Half fill greased muffin pans and bake in moderate over 15 minutes.

These cakes can be covered with white or yellow frosting, if desired. This recipe will serve twelve persons.

Coed Flies to First Hour Class.

Miss Grace Joseph flies to the University of Colorado at Boulder every morning in pursuit of a higher education. Her family lives near the flying field, and when this co-ed sets her alarm clock for 7 o'clock, she can be quite sure that she will make an 8 o'clock class at the university in Boulder, thirty miles away. That means she is allowing plenty of time for getting into her clothes, powdering her nose and having her breakfast toast and coffee. Her actual flying time is only seventeen minutes.

Kabob for the Meal Outdoors.

An unusual but delicious picnic meat is the "kabob." This is a strip of beef four inches long by one inch wide wrapped in a piece of bacon and cooked over the fire on the end of a stick or long-handled fork.

Coffee, of course, is necessary to make the picnic menu complete. Confirmed picnickers keep a coffee pot especially for their outings. It can be set upon a grill or suspended from a pole over the fire.

If you do not care to build a fire, the menu may consist of cold foods, or, it may include fried chicken which will keep warm in a tightly covered box or vacuum container. The coffee may be served steaming hot from a vacuum bottle, but do not add the cream and sugar until it is served.

Violet and purple tones are expected to be unusually good this fall.

We Ask Women To Make This Test of Mountain Coffee Flavor

Drink it three times and then, if you are willing to go back to ordinary coffee, we pay the cost

FROM the fertile volcanic soil of the mountains of Central America come coffees that leading experts concede are not duplicated by any other region in the world. They have the tangiest flavor, the richest mellow body of probably any coffee known today.

We do not want to tell you how good this coffee is. Instead we make this unusual offer through your grocer. Order a pound of Folger's coffee today. Serve it three times. If after this test you are willing to return to ordinary coffee, your grocer will gladly refund the money you paid for it. We make this offer not as philanthropy or to be "different," but because we have found that probably eight out of ten families who make this test never go back to ordinary coffees.

We have built one of the largest coffee businesses in the world simply by letting people taste the flavor of Central American mountain coffees.

Rarest of Coffees

Only a small percentage of the world's supply of coffee comes from the mountain districts of Central America and the high prices these coffees command prohibit their use in ordinary blends.

We have been importing these rare mountain grown Central American coffees for 79 years. For some of the rarest kinds we contract from season to season while the trees are still in blossom.

A New Experience

Ordinarily, when you change from one brand of coffee to another, you note little difference in taste. That is because 70% of all coffee sold in the United States today (regardless of brand names) is of one common type grown in the same general region. Hence Nature has given it the same common flavor. So-called "blending" and special roasting processes (in spite of advertising talk) can not change it. For roasting coffee merely brings out whatever flavor Nature has already put in.

Nature herself makes Folger's coffee different from any you ever tasted. You will notice it the instant you break the seal of the vacuum can. There is a rush of rich fragrance that is unlike any other coffee. And when the clear amber coffee is poured in the cup, you'll find it has a delicious tang and rich mellow body that is never "thin" or "flat."

How to Compare It

Get a pound of Folger's coffee from your grocer today. Drink it tomorrow morning. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. Then decide which you like best. If, for any reason, you do not choose Folger's, your grocer will gladly refund the full purchase price. We will pay him. That's fair, isn't it? You risk nothing—so why not order Folger's now for the test?

Each Baby Brings Loss of Hair to A Wisconsin Man

A case which is puzzling physicians and scientists the nation over is that of Victor Larsen, Neenah, Wis., who, according to reliable reports, experiences the loss of hair following the birth of each of his children. Mr. and Mrs. Larsen have had four children, three of which are living now. One of the queer facts in connection with the case is that following the birth of the child which later died, there was no loss of hair, recounts the Milwaukee Journal. No certain theory to account for the periodic baldness has been advanced thus far. The question is, is Larsen a freak of nature, or simply a model father and husband who worries to such an extent at the birth of his children that his hair drops out? Those who know him incline to the latter theory, but Larsen declares he has not worried to an unusual extent, so it is as yet unsettled.

THE strange case of the periodic baldness of Victor Larsen, 36, of Neenah, Wis., a vigorous and handsome mill worker, has attracted national attention among scientists, and when all of the facts become known to the laity it is predicted that women's organizations in this and other states will point to Mr. Larsen as a model that all good husbands and fathers should follow.

Mr. Larsen is afflicted with baldness—large, round, bare spots in a heavy head of auburn hair—every time that he becomes the father of a baby. The bald patches begin to appear shortly after the birth of the baby and, within a year, the hair begins to grow again and until another baby is born his hirsute equipment could well be the envy of any person.

These facts have been so well demonstrated to the satisfaction of science that Ronald B. Rogers, widely known Neenah physician and surgeon, prepared, at the suggestion of the American Medical Association, the supreme court of medicine, an article which is published in the current issue of the American Medical Journal and which discusses the scientific aspects of the remarkable case. Dermatologists throughout the nation also have been interested.

VICTOR LARSEN, NEENAH, WIS., WHO BECOMES PARTLY BALD AS HIS CHILDREN ARE BORN AND THEN REGAINS HAIR.

HAVE THREE CHILDREN.

Mr. and Mrs. Larsen, both of excellent families, are the parents of four children, three of whom are living. They were married fifteen years ago and have lived in the Fox River Valley all their lives. Their first child, Sonny, is 13. Soon after he was born, the medical report states, small bald patches began to appear on Mr. Larsen's head. They were not so pronounced then, however, as later, and Mr. Larsen has but a faint recollection of them. The hair grew again very quickly.

When the second child, Irma, now 8, was born, the baldness appeared again. Large patches on various parts of his head became completely bald. Some were the size of a quarter, others the size of a dollar and some even larger. Again, as mother and child prospered, hair began to grow on these spots and within the year no baldness of any sort was noticeable.

A third child was born, but died soon after birth, and on this occasion, it is stated, there was no baldness. The fourth child, now a sturdy little boy a little more than a year old, occasioned more and bigger bald spots.

Right after this baby was born Mr. Larsen's hair, as usual, began to fall out in spots, but it apparently fell more rapidly and the spots spread with greater rapidity than on previous occasions. He consulted barbers, who were, of course, unable to do anything except prescribe some hair tonic.

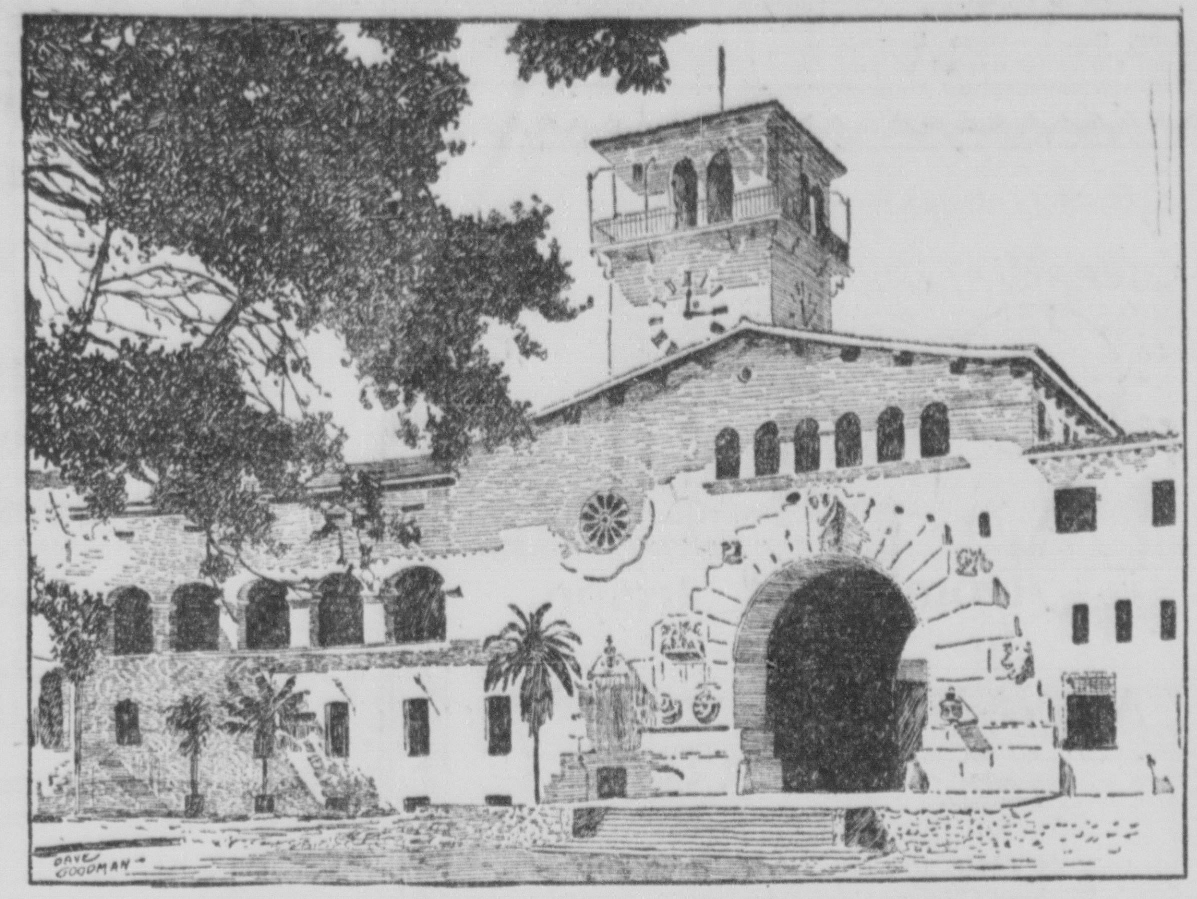
PHYSICIANS OF NO HELP.

Then he went to physicians. They, too, were unable to help him, but a study of his case has convinced them that there is nothing at all serious the matter with Mr. Larsen, and that his falling hair is really a compliment to his wife and children and a credit to Mr. Larsen's fidelity and worth as a husband and father.

The condition is described by scientists as alopecia areata, or "patchy baldness," which sometimes follows when a patient is a victim of nervous distress or extreme anxiety.

To describe Mr. Larsen's condition following the birth of his children as being one of nervousness and anxiety would seem to be an exaggeration if the face of things only is considered. Mr. Larsen has a comfortable home and a good job—he has worked six years at the Hardwoods Products Company in Neenah—and he himself has not been conscious of unusual anxiety after the children were born and his wife was safe and well. Financial or other troubles have not entered into the case, and physicians believe that it was a subconscious condition that brought about the baldness.

A SPANISH CASTLE FOR A COURTHOUSE.



The new courthouse at Santa Barbara, Cal., is a Spanish type and cost $1,700,000. The building is said to be on the site of the camp of California's first Spanish governor, Portola, who arrived there in 1769.

Listening In on the Store Porch Humor of the Ozarks

Charles Morrow Wilson in the North American Review.

STORE porch humor of the Ozarks hangs upon pegs that are unashamedly obvious; the old gentleman who can't get any satisfaction out of reading the dictionary because it changes the subject too often; the itinerant parson who agrees that a spring wagon and a span of mules are fool proof but not necessarily damn fool proof; the upbrush politician who craves a postmastership within easy walking distance of a distillery; the clodhopper who overwhelms the school teacher's suggestion that the burning of Mart Miller's barn must have been the work of an incendiary with "Incendiary," hell! Somebody sot it."

Store porch humor carries an amiable plenitude, too, of anecdotes of stupidity and quaint unknowingness.

The sheriff of a brush county in Southwestern Missouri was forming a posse to recapture a depraved culprit who had broken jail while the defender of justice was investigating the merits of a finding of moonshine. A store porch commentator reported that the fugitive had spent half the afternoon strolling about the village; that he had last been seen taking out westward down the old wire road. Then the observing countryman added that he had personally seen the sheriff pass by the escaped prisoner not an hour before. The upholder of sovereign justice admitted it.

"Oh, yes, yes! I seed him all right—passed him on the town branch bridge a while after dinner time—passed him and spoke howdy to him. But I didn't know the low hound reprobate was out of jail!"

The store porcher relishes so simple an episode as that of the rural lad and his first banana. The youth from Hog Eye was taking his first train ride and when the newsman came through acclaiming "chawklets—bernanners!" the mountain lad invested readily in the latter. On a subsequent round the seller stopped to inquire after the qualities of his wares.

"Well, mister, I can't say so bodaciously much fer it. In the first place it was mainly all cob and when I'd throwed that away what little they was left was bitter and sort of 'onery to eat."

Then there is the humor of verbal helplessness, of drifting thought and inept and laborious correction.

"As a songer I ain't so good." A depressed and self-corrective silence. "As a singster I'm a failure. I always feel wuss when I commence to sang, and so do them about me."

And sometimes the gentleman of the store porch is tickled almost beyond endurance by no more than a ludicrous jumbling of words, a particularly complete non sequitur.

"I seen a barber in Missouri who hand't any teeth—not a tooth in his head. But that feller could play a bass drum better than anyone I ever see."

The store porch humorist is not, of course, above a pun, and more than occasionally he achieves one of which a wit could be proud. An old codger from about Red Star was telling of his family:

"Yes suh, they come three boys, then a girl, then another boy. An' what you reckon I called 'em? Well suh, I named 'em Matthew, Mark, Luke, Ann, John."

BOYS ARE MAIDS IN ENGLAND.

Shortage of Girls to Do Housework Leads to Innovation.

From the New York Times.

Notwithstanding a thumping majority of women in the population of England, girls are uncommonly scarce—that is to say, girls to do housework. Complaints about the difficulty of finding efficient domestic help are almost as bitter among English housewives as here in America. But the British problem seems in a fair way to be solved by an innovation—the boy housemaid.

Men and boys who have been unable to find employment in the more usual masculine vocations have turned to housework. Employers report that they make excellent servants, are more tidy than girls, and "less self-opinionated."

Lincoln's Wife.

From Howe's Monthly.

Abraham Lincoln married a woman named Todd, and was once asked how members of the Todd family spelt their name. "With two d's," he replied. "God was satisfied with one, but the Todds insisted on two." . . . Lincoln patiently submitted to the most foolish, incapable and annoying wife in history, but the incident quoted above indicates he was not above taking a "dig" at her. The more prominent a man is, the greater the necessity for submitting in case he has a foolish wife; he feels he must be noble in public estimation.

Youngsters Are So Observing.

From the Pathfinder.

John, aged 6, was finally induced to go to the hospital to have his tonsils removed. His mother was trying to quiet his fears. "All right, mother, I'll be brave," he promised. "But I won't let them palm off any crying baby on me like they did on you when you were here."

Pharmacy Course Is Popular With Women Students

From the New York Evening Post.

WOMEN students having been admitted to its campus after fifty years' existence as a men's school exclusively, Duquesne university is paying special attention to the courses which interest its coeds, and it is found that the school of pharmacy has attracted the fancy of a large number of the women students. Although women pharmacists are not now common, Duquesne officials believe the growing interest in the science indicates that their numerical strength will increase year by year, inasmuch as the study is desirable from both a business and professional standpoint.

Dean Hugh C. Muldoon, head of Duquesne's school of pharmacy, declares women students are peculiarly adapted to the work. They can make as good and often a better job of it, he says, for a variety of perfectly natural reasons.

WOMEN ARE NEATER.

Observation of both men and women students and tests at the university show that the majority of the women scholars rate 10 to 25 per cent higher than the men in neatness and appreciation of the store arrangement and the display of merchandise. Women also give an air of refinement to an establishment over which they preside.

In judging their general fitness it was found that, first of all, the character of the work in pharmacy is pleasing and not unsuited to women, due to the hours required and the regularity of the work. The tasks necessary are not difficult and are easily within their scope of accomplishment.

The work of a pharmacist requires accuracy, in which respect the women students scored point for point with the men. It was found that the women students can be just as painstaking in small and often trivial matters and in the exercising of infinite care as men. The coeds also exhibited marked aptitude for specialization. The men, however, came out a trifle better when the pharmaceutical profession was examined from all its angles, commercial and scientific.

The opportunities for women pharmacists in great drug manufacturing houses; in hospitals, where most staff pharmacists are women; in retail stores, where they are especially valuable to the prescription department and in the demonstration and sale of toiletries and as proprietors of their own establishments, were emphasized both by the proven aptitude of the women students and the acknowledged demand for their services.

NEW TYPE OF STORE.

One of the possibilities confronting the coeds after their graduation is the new type of prescription store coming into vogue in physicians' office buildings, where none of the ordinary side lines of varied description to be found in the corner drug store are carried. A prescription business alone is conducted in such establishments.

Located in the upper floors of an office building, they avoid the high rental imposed on the ground floor pharmacy. It is a type of pharmacy well suited to women and the majority of these establishments are conducted by them.

To What Purpose.

Hubby—It's queer, but the biggest idiots seem to marry the prettiest women!

Wifey—Now, you're trying to flatter me.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Miss, you have dazzling lamps."

"Thanks for noticing my eyes, officer. Now may I drive on?"

Toil.

By Edgar A. Guest.

The man stood up at his great machine,
And grimy of face was he.
To the casual passer he looked unclean,
But what would this old world be
If men didn't stand at those gruesome things,
Grinding out gears and gadgets and rings?

Oh, I honor that brother of mine who stands
At those terrible whirring wheels,
And I honor the man with the greasy hands,
For I know what his life reveals.
His the courage and his is the blow,
Which give us the comforts we long to know.

For out of the noise and the dust and grime,
And the tedious tasks of men,
Are born the conquests of space and time,
And the epics which poets pen.
For all who toil where those engines scream
Are fabricating man's highest dream.

GUARD THE DANGER LINE

DISEASED teeth and gums are not only unattractive, but they may even cause rheumatism, nervous, heart and kidney disorders. Don't neglect your teeth and gums.

Your dentifrice should clean and polish your teeth and also protect against acids. For food particles are constantly fermenting and forming acids in the remote crevices about the teeth. That is why teeth frequently decay even with careful brushing. Especially along The Danger Line, that vital, delicate margin of tissue, where gums meet teeth—and along which are countless tiny crevices.

Squibb's Dental Cream is made with 50% Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—enough to reach every crevice and render acids harmless. The regular use of Squibb's furnishes vital protection to teeth and gums . . . to health and beauty. It guards The Danger Line! Beauty advice from 17,239 American Beauty Shops

In KANSAS CITY
The Belleclaire Beauty Shoppe
urges twice-a-day use of Palmolive
Soap for true skin beauty

Foreign authorities concur that oils of olive and palm are essential to a good complexion

THE American woman today, more conscious than ever of her beauty requirements, consults her beauty adviser regularly.

A generation ago women were warned against the use of soap on the face. For no soap then was safe to risk upon a good complexion. Today the creed is "soap-and-water cleanliness"—for Palmolive Soap, with its cosmetic olive and palm oils, is found gentle, mild and beneficial by beauty experts all over the world.

17,239 beauty shops advise it

Thus today your beauty adviser will tell you—as do 17,239 great American beauty shops all over the country—as do the leading foreign beauty experts—use Palmolive Soap at home, twice each day. No other soap will do, they warn you. Only Palmolive.

Here is their rule: Massage a soft warm lather of Palmolive into the skin—with your finger tips develop it for two full minutes. Feel it coax the tiny particles of dust and dirt, of rouge and makeup and powder, from the pores.

Then rinse, first with warm water, then cooler until the skin tingles with fresh cleanliness, until it is thoroughly cleansed. Then it is ready for makeup, for creams . . .

Today 17,239 beauty specialists will tell you this simple home rule.

Such beauty authority never lent itself to one home treatment before. This is, of course, a home treatment only. For all special beauty problems you must consult your beauty expert.

But for regular day in and day out care of the skin use Palmolive. Today start these home treatments to "keep that schoolgirl complexion."

566,142 COPIES DAILY

Average Net Paid Circulation for September Largest in Star's History

In September the average net paid circulation of The Star was 283,981 copies evening and 282,161 copies morning. The combined circulation was 566,142 copies daily, a gain of 69,082 copies daily over September of last year.

Each month for 16 successive months The Star has set up a new circulation record over the corresponding month of previous years. The September showing is notable as an all-time record—not simply larger than previous Septembers but larger than any previous record for any month.

The gain of 69,082 copies daily is also a record. Never before has The Star made such a tremendous circulation increase in a similar period.

To advertisers this increase should be especially welcome, as there has been no change in advertising rate. Just The Star's gain of 69,000 copies is equal to the TOTAL circulation of an average newspaper in a city of 100,000 population. The advertising rate of a newspaper with 69,000 circulation would average more than 15 cents an agate line or more than $2.10 an inch.

During the 16 months of circulation progress advertising lineage in The Star also has presented an unbroken succession of gains. In September The Star carried in its morning, evening and Sunday editions 2,827,395 agate lines of paid advertising. This was an increase of 359,114 lines over September, 1928.

Thus circulation and advertising have gone hand in hand. Gains have been piled upon gains. New monthly records have been made, only to fall the next month.

The news columns of The Star reveal similar conditions of prosperity in other industries. The downtown building program, the addition of new factories, the rapid development in aviation, the millions invested in rail improvements, the extending and widening highways, the prospect of early river navigation, are all factors in the general well-being of this community.

The Star is glad that it is keeping pace with city growth and that, with the enlarging merchandise demands of Kansas City and the Southwest, it is able to offer its advertising patrons the most thorough circulation coverage in America at the lowest per-thousand-copy advertising rate of all newspapers.

A TANGLED WEB OF INTRIGUE FOLLOWS BLACK TOM DISASTER

Presentation of New and Startling Evidence by the German Agent in Lehigh Valley Railroad's 40-Million-Dollar Claim Recalls a Night of Horrors.

THAT part of New York that sleeps o' nights tossed restlessly under electric fans the night of July 29, 1916. The heat wave that had taken a toll of 100 lives in Chicago was moving upon the city. The newspapers that day had told of crushing allied advances at all points, except at Verdun, where German artillery continued its furious offensive. The Russians were moving upon the capital of Galacia. Charles Evans Hughes had finished the speech of acceptance he was to deliver in a few days in New York. Even that day there were two tones of voice in which to refer to the Wilson policy as "He kept us out of war."

Secretary of War Baker had issued a statement defending the war department's treatment of national guardsmen on the Mexican border. A careful watch was being kept on Kurt Jahnke of the German secret service in this country. Vance McCormick, chairman of the Democratic national committee, had issued a list of achievements of the Wilson administration. A note was on its way to London protesting against a blacklist that threatened neutral relations.

Still, New York might have slept fairly soundly through that torrid night had there not been a terrific blast at 2:08 o'clock in the morning which shook five states. Suddenly, New York, from the Battery to the Bronx, was shaken with a crash that struck terror into the heart of every person. Rumors flew. At last, the report, "A fire has started on Black Tom!"

Black Tom Island is not an island, but a peninsula well inside the mouth of New York Harbor. Up the bay a little way are Ellis Island and the city. The night of July 29 saw scores of barges moored at Black Tom's piers, laden with heavy cargoes of arms and munitions destined for foreign ports. Back of them, in eighteen long, gray warehouses, lay still other tons and tons of explosives.

There were deafening roars; the earth shook. Had war come to our shores? The upper bay was an inferno. On Bedloe's Island, where there is a tradition that the light in the hand of the Statue of Liberty must never go out, the cry was, "Is Liberty still shining?" It was, but Black Tom was a wreck, three persons had been killed and property valued at 25 million dollars destroyed. Was it a notable piece of luck for Germany, or was it sabotage? The state department has its own ideas about it, and so has the Lehigh Valley railroad, but if anyone really knows, he has kept his own counsel.

About six months later, January 12, 1917, when America's course had become much more difficult, the 80-acre plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company near Kingsland, N. J., engaged at that time principally in the manufacture of munitions for Russia, was swept by flames and bursting shells, causing damage estimated at more than 10 million dollars. One of the heaviest losers in this disaster was the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, but the Lehigh Valley, loser of millions in the Black Tom disaster, is principal in the case before the mixed claims commission, in which its counsel is the United States government.

Made a Good Case.

The government, it was believed, had an open-and-shut case against the Central Powers. Evidence collected on behalf of the railroad, according to documents, indicated that Lother Witzke had confessed that he and Kurt Jahnke, "each admittedly a German agent," were the two spies who started the fire which resulted in the Black Tom blast. Another confession is attributed to Michl Kristoff, arraigned in 1921 on the charge of being an Austrian spy. The other day Theodore Wazniak, sought for twelve years as the man responsible for the Kingsland disaster, appeared voluntarily with an unusual story that throws doubt on the entire proceedings.

In the stories of Kristoff and Wazniak are to be found material for a real detective "thriller." Kristoff had a girl cousin who suspected him of causing the Black Tom explosion almost from the moment she heard the first blast of the shrapnel. She had noticed that Kristoff's room—he lived at her mother's house—was filled with maps and charts of factory buildings and bridges. Kristoff left home about midnight July 29, ostensibly to collect pay due him at the Eagle Iron Works.

It seemed a weird hour to collect wages, and the girl and her mother were talking it over when Kristoff returned, about 4 o'clock in the morning. They told the police, who saw an important clue and arrested Kristoff. They were soon confronted with two stories. Kristoff denied every word of the story told by the women. He came into possession of the charts, he said, through a man who paid him $20 a week to carry them on a tour of principal American cities. Police didn't believe the story, but could not make a case against Kristoff and he was released. When they wanted to question him again they found he had joined the army.

Although Kristoff had lived in the United States thirteen years, he was not a citizen, as he had declared himself to be at enlistment. Here was something to hang on him. But he had been released because of a physical disability. Three years passed, and Kristoff remained a fugitive from justice, but Lehigh Valley operatives and federal agents hadn't given up the hunt. Kristoff's picture was sent out and an employee of the New York state penitentiary recognized it as that of "John Cristie," serving a short sentence for larceny. The formal charge was "making a false statement in connection with enlistment in the United States army," but a confession of connection with the Black Tom disaster was said to have been obtained.

But while Kristoff's case is merely an example of efficient police work, that of Wazniak is just the reverse. The new evidence, which is expected to have important bearing on the whole question of claims based on alleged sabotage, would make an exciting chapter in a war novel.

Wazniak Appears Voluntarily.

It reveals that a representative of the German government received the other day a telephone call from New York to the effect that a man describing himself as Wazniak had appeared at the consulate there and declared his identity. He said he had read a report of the hearing before the commission and recalled his connection with the case. He was not a German agent, he said, but a Russian sympathizer, and he asked that he be permitted to tell his story before the commission.

Wazniak says that when he was questioned by civil authorities just after the Kingsland disaster he told them that he was employed at the foundry and that the flame which caused the disaster had originated in a machine at which he was working. He says he never "disappeared," as federal agents asserted, and he produces army, hospital, draft and court records to support his claim.

But the government says its case has not crumbled. Wazniak had been examined by German agents before he was made available to American agents. No one knows whether the novelty of his testimony will give it value or arouse suspicion. Germany is trying to save 40 million dollars. But, on the other hand, the railroad is seeking 40 million dollars. That's enough to cause quite a bit of maneuvering.

Shearer Was Good at Either, He Tells the Senate Committee.

GAVE AID TO THE G. O. P.

Activity in Campaign Included a Reply to Butler for Attack on Hoover.

Connection With Shipbuilders, However, Was Kept Quiet, He Explains.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The senate's shipbuilding investigation veered for a time today from the events of the 1927 Geneva naval conference to the part William B. Shearer said he played in the last presidential campaign.

Appearing as a witness for the second consecutive day, Shearer testified that upon the suggestion of Senator Moses of New Hampshire, Representative Bacon of New York and a Mr. Archer, he had gone to Massachusetts, looked up Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman for that state, and made a speech, and that others had used his article entitled "Sea Power."

Made Reply to Butler.

Moses and Bacon were prominent in Republican campaign activities, while Archer was described by Shearer as an assistant to Senator Allen of Kansas, who was director of publicity for the Republican national committee and now is a member of the investigation committee.

Shearer said Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, had jumped on the navy views of Herbert Hoover as expressed in his acceptance address and "I wrote an open letter in reply."

Archer and "others," he added, had liked the letter, explaining that this had prompted his participation in the campaign in Massachusetts.

"My article 'Sea Power,'" he testified, "was used by the speakers and I really was getting the British interested."

"That's why you were sent, then?" asked Robinson.

"Yes, sir," he answered.

Robinson read from "Sea Power" a statement that the British influence must be removed from the Pacific, and asked if that was circulated by the Republican organization.

"Yes, sir," Shearer replied.

"Anti-British propaganda, wasn't it?"

"I'd say pro-American."

"The same thing you sent from Geneva?"

"Yes, consistent always."

"When did you reveal that you were representing the shipbuilders?" Robinson suddenly asked.

"I told Douglas Robinson, assistant secretary of the navy, 'the blow has fallen.'"

"What did you mean by that?"

"That I had to go to work."

"Go to work?"

"Openly. I was a mystery to everybody except the English."

Shearer then interposed that Archer told him, "I think you ought to be out making speeches," after he had written the open letter reply to Butler, but the testimony reverted back immediately to the ship phase.

The man who has described himself as a big navy advocate began his testimony by punctuating his answers with staccato "yes, sirs" and "no, sirs." This was in contrast to his replies yesterday when committee members frequently urged that he confine himself to the subject at hand.

Naval Parity Not Conceded.

It was "no, sir," when Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democrat, asked if the principle of naval parity was conceded in the Geneva conference.

"What was the understanding with your employers about reporting to them?" inquired Robinson.

"I was sent there to bring out facts and figures," he said. "I was sent to Geneva as an attorney would be sent out by a client."

Shearer added he occasionally sent "communications" or reports to Henry C. Hunter, counsel of the National Council of American Shipbuilders.

Shearer then told of a meeting in New York with Frederick P. Palen, vice-president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation, and others.

"They said a New York World reporter was going to make an attack. They said the reporter had been to Bethlehem and Secretary Kellogg had called Bethlehem on the mat and told them to get rid of me. So, they said I had better get out until it had blown over.

"I then got Palen alone and asked what was behind this.

"He said Schwab didn't want to be connected with 'this big navy business.'

Discharged Last March.

Early in 1929 Shearer said Palen called him and said "something has happened and you must get out."

"He didn't explain and I asked him," Shearer continued, "what about my writing the new marine bill for the seventy-first congress?"

"Writing the bill?" interposed Chairman Shortridge.

"Oh, yes."

Robinson then went back to the conversation with Douglas Robinson.

"Did you tell him you had been at work secretly for the shipbuilders for a year?"

"No."

"When were you discharged?" Robinson demanded.

"March 29, 1929."

"Are you employed by them now?"

"No, sir." Shearer added the shipbuilders were "trying to prevent me from making a living."

"Once you get on the blacklist you are gone," he said.

"Who's been bearing the expense of this mass of propaganda that has been going out since you were separated from the (shipbuilders) pay roll?" Senator Allen asked.

"William R. Hearst," Shearer replied. He explained he had conferred with Commander McNutt of the American Legion and then had communicated with representatives of Mr. Hearst stating that the patriotic organization could be organized against the world court and for the new cruisers.

Hearst paid him $2,000 a month for expenses and all, the witness said, adding that he was dismissed by "Colonel Knox" for Mr. Hearst when the senate inquiry began.

KIND DEEDS THEIR DUES

INTERNATIONAL SUNSHINE SOCIETY MEMBERS MEET AT SWOPE.

Mrs. Mandel Sener, State President, Speaks at Gathering Representing the 14 Chapters Here and One at Rich Hill.

Kindness is the bond that unites 400 Kansas City women who form the fourteen local chapters of the International Sunshine Society—not the casual kindness that is easily forgotten, but the kind deed that costs in effort and sacrifice.

This ideal was stressed today at the all-day meeting of the Missouri branch of the international society in Swope Park. Most of the Missouri chapters are in Kansas City and the 200 delegates present at today's meeting represented the Kansas City and Rich Hill chapters.

"THE GOLDEN THREAD."

Mrs. Mandel Sener, state president, who revived interest in the society three years ago, presided.

"Kindness is the golden thread running through all religions," she told the members in her address.

One kind act entitles the doer to membership in the society. There are no other dues. Judging from the reports of the various chapters, the state treasury is full of kind acts.

The "One Kindness" chapter is made up largely of business women, who give freely of their earnings to help those unable to earn—particularly the blind. All Sunshine chapters study ways and means of letting light into the lives of the blind. The Missouri chapters hope to establish soon a Sunshine home for the centralization of their work.

FOUNDED 40 YEARS AGO.

Cynthia Westover Alden of New York founded the International Sunshine Society nearly forty years ago. She still is president general of the organization. Many years ago the organization was active in Missouri. Then interest lagged, and it was not until Mrs. Sener attended a national convention in Minneapolis three years ago and saw its possibilities for good that local interest in the work was revived.

Now, fourteen of the sixteen Missouri chapters are located in Kansas City. The chapters here, and their presidents:

Oak Park, Mrs. J. T. Redmond.
Country Club, Mrs. Ben B. Weldon.
Sentinel, Mrs. Fred Lonsby.
Cliff Drive, Mrs. Harry M. Snapp.
Coreopsis, Mrs. Chester A. Reynolds.
Westmoreland, Mrs. L. D. Caswell.
One Kindness, Mrs. C. J. Barrett.
Heart of America, Mrs. A. R. Marsh.
Good Cheer, Mrs. Kate E. Swaggard.
Sunshine Choral Club, Mrs. Ray T. Smart.
Santa Fe, Mrs. Cora Ellis Steele.
Hawthorn, Mrs. Fred Keeton.
I. H., chapter of the Interdenominational Home for Girls, Miss Anna La Culia.
Round Table Club of Presidents chapter.

The Westley chapter is at Rich Hill and Mrs. J. H. Cromwell is president. St. Louis has one chapter.

party headed by Capt. G. H. Blanchet rested today at Baker Lake. It was from here that the objects of the search, Col. C. D. H. McAlpine and his seven companions, took off for Bathurst twenty-two days ago.

Roy Brown and William Spence of the Blanchet searching party hoped to start from Baker Lake over the supposed trail of the lost fliers, but falling temperatures presaged a freeze, which would necessitate skis for the planes, and skis were not immediately available.

MACDONALDS 3 DAYS OUT.

Atlantic Trip Is Being Enjoyed by Premier and Daughter.

(By the Associated Press.)

S. S. BERENGARIA, Oct. 1.—The Berengaria plowed steadily through a gray festive sea today three days from New York, with the British prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, and his daughter, Miss Ishbel, aboard.

Since leaving Southampton Saturday the prime minister and his daughter seem to have enjoyed every minute of their trip, spending the hours in walking, reading and conversation about the spacious decks and lobbies of the great ship.

Miss Ishbel danced most of last night with both British and American passengers with whom she has made friends.

JUST LIKE A MUSIC BOX.

A Fifteenth Street Car Plunks Out Tunes as It Goes.

Passengers on the Fifteenth street car line in Kansas City have been surprised and puzzled when they heard, as if from a distance, the notes of some musical instrument. No matter how fast the street car travels or how far, a lone minstrel travels right along with it.

Joseph P. O'Donnell.

"Are street cars ever haunted?" asked a woman yesterday, after listening to a banjo intermezzo with a saxophone cadenza. "I've been listening to every sort of instrument on this car."

The woman beside her was puzzled, too.

"I thought I heard a bird singing. But I don't see anybody with a bird cage. I'm going to ask the conductor if he has a radio aboard."

She asked the young man at the controls where the radio was concealed.

"Right here," he replied, pointing to his throat.

The conductor was Joseph P. O'Donnell, 720 Brighton avenue, who practices his imitations while he works. He says he is not a singer, although he was once a choir boy. After his voice changed, he couldn't sing at all.

His home was in Atchison, Kas., where he began to imitate the fire siren about four years ago. He was an Atchison street car conductor at that time, and often fooled the motorman of his car, making him think the fire wagon was coming full tilt behind.

He has learned a lot of new imitations and is developing his repertoire as he guides his street car on its course.

A Little Fellow Who Will Speak to Your Heart.

This is the official poster for the charities campaign, October 20 to 26. The little boy whose appealing eyes utter the slogan for the campaign, "Open Your Heart," is Jackie Coogan, photographed by Strauss-Peyton. The poster was designed by Harrison Hartley, art director for the Greiner-Fifield Lithographing Company. Charities campaign headquarters (HA. 6820) is prepared to place the posters in windows to herald the slogan: "Open Your Heart."

Maj. T. J. Strickler again will serve as general chairman of the charity campaign, with E. E. Amick as vice-chairman. David R. Christie will serve as chairman of the men's divisions and Mrs. John E. Patterson will head the women's division. The men's organization will, as usual, be divided into six divisions with these generals: Arthur Johnson, No. 1; J. E. Woodmansee, No. 2; John A. Marshall, No. 3; C. R. Fidlar, No. 4; Oscar W. Thomas, No. 5, and J. R. Suddarth, No. 6.

STILL AFTER THE STATION

FIRESTONE ASKS MANDAMUS WRIT TO CUT CURBING.

The City Will Be Given Opportunity to Oppose the Application at a Hearing at 9:30 o'Clock Friday.

An application for a writ of mandamus to compel the city to issue a permit for a filling and service station and a permit for cutting driveways through the curbs at the northeast corner of Linwood boulevard and Troost avenue was filed in the circuit court today by attorneys for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

Judge Darius A. Brown said he would hear the case on the basis of an alternative writ at 9:30 o'clock Friday. No temporary order was issued. The city will be given an opportunity to appear in court and show cause why the writ of mandamus should not be issued.

AGAINST SIX CITY OFFICIALS.

The application is directed at Matthew S. Murray, director of public works; W. J. McMahon, superintendent of buildings; M. A. Foster, Fred C. Hoose and Elliott H. Jones, members of the park board, and H. F. McElroy, city manager.

The Firestone company alleges it is being deprived of the use of its property without due process of law; that the city is violating the company's property rights through refusal to issue the permits.

It recites that it proposes the erection of a building on the boulevard site to cost $125,000; that September 20 the superintendent of buildings issued a building permit and that later it was withdrawn.

THE PARK BOARD DECLINED.

The permit having been withdrawn by the building department, the park board declined to issue the permit to cut the curbs for driveways.

The plans for the building, which the Firestone company refers to as a "service station," shows provision for six gasoline pumps, four facing Linwood boulevard and two facing Troost avenue.

The opposition to the boulevard filling station arose with the South Central Improvement Association, composed of property owners and owners of business houses in the immediate vicinity of the proposed station. The association employed attorneys to oppose the Firestone company.

17 SPRINGS ARE CONDEMNED.

Dr. Cooper Warns Against Use of the Water for Drinking.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Calvin L. Cooper, health director, warns that seventeen springs and two wells from which water was being used for drinking purposes have been condemned after analysis by the city chemist and condemnation signs have been posted near them.

While two of the condemned springs are in North Terrace Park, neither is the faithful Cliff Drive spring on the main drive, which has served the public so many years. This water, Dr. Cooper says, still is pure.

The bulletin states there is danger of contracting typhoid fever in drinking water from any of the springs at these locations:

Forty-ninth street and Troost avenue.
3704 East Fiftieth street.
North of park barns near Lexington and Prospect avenues.
Northeast corner of Fifty-fifth and Oak streets.
Old Scarritt spring, down the hill from Cliff Drive spring.
Fremont avenue and Gooseneck.
1245 Lawndale avenue, in rear.
Cliff Drive and Park avenue, down the hill.
Northwest corner of Fourteenth street and Topping avenue.
Northwest corner of Ninth street and Topping avenue.
East of Chicago & Alton elevator in Northeast Industrial District.
Nineteenth street and Topping avenue.
Eighteenth street and Bellaire avenue.
Northwest corner of Thirty-fourth street and Cypress avenue.
3323 Cypress avenue.
North of the zoo in Swope Park.
Southeast corner of Sixty-eighth street terrace and Cleveland avenue.

The condemned wells are at 1212 Lawndale avenue and 2410 Topping avenue.

Dr. Cooper says condemnation signs frequently are removed by persons who believe all water that comes out of the ground is pure, knowing nothing of dangerous sources of contamination. That is why he warns against the use of any such water for drinking purposes.

Dr. George Hamilton Combs will lecture at 7:45 o'clock Thursday night at the Country Club Christian church, Sixty-first street and Ward Parkway, on "Paris and the Parisians."

A dinner will be served before the lecture. Tickets for the dinner and lecture may be had for 75 cents. The lecture is one of a series sponsored by the women's council of the church.

DELAY FOR NEW LIGHTS

CABLE FOR DOWNTOWN TRAFFIC SYSTEM HAS NOT ARRIVED.

Installation of Synchronized Signals Will Require Only About Ten Days After the Special Material Is Here.

Operation of the synchronized system of traffic signals being installed downtown by the Kansas City Power and Light Company awaits the arrival of a special cable. Matthew S. Murray, director of public works, said today the conduits all have been installed, but ten days will be required after the arrival of the cable to make all connections and put the system into operation.

The thirty-one intersections in the downtown business district which have been equipped with the new traffic lights:

Ninth and Main streets; all points on Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets which intersect Baltimore avenue, Main street, Walnut street and Grand avenue; where Fifteenth street intersects Grand avenue and Oak street; where Eighteenth street intersects Grand avenue and McGee road; where Nineteenth street intersects Baltimore and Grand avenues, and where Twentieth street intersects Main street, Grand avenue and McGee road.

As soon as the synchronized system has been put into operation downtown, traffic lights will be installed at thirty-five intersections in other sections of the city. The downtown system is to be operated from a central control box, while each of the thirty-five lights to be installed at scattered points over the city will be operated independently.

The synchronized system will make it possible for police headquarters or fire headquarters to stop traffic in the entire downtown district by throwing a switch which will turn all lights red simultaneously.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize acids so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

No motive for suicide could be advanced by members of the family. Officers would not discuss the probability of murder. A front window of the house was open and a flower box on the edge had been smashed.

Toledo Won Only One Game From Blues at Swayne Field, but Broke Even Here—A Resume of Seasonal Play of Blues and Rival Clubs—The Case of Max Thomas May Be Like That of "Pea Ridge" Day.

By The Star's Sports Editor.

HOW could a team so easy on its home field prove so obstreperous at Muehlebach Field? Looking over the seasonal records of the Blues and the Toledo Mudhens, one wonders about that. Zwilling's pennant snatchers captured eleven out of twelve games in Toledo, but could get only an even break, six and six, in the twelve games played here. Figure that out.

Stengel's highly-touted spring trainers, fading when the going got rough, took the odd game in two of the three sets of games played at Muehlebach Field. Each of these winning sets was of three games, the Mudhens winning two and losing one. The other series here resulted in a Blue parade, four games to two.

AT Swayne Field, Toledo, it was a different story. The Blues had something on the Mudhens there so that Casey's help could show their home patronage only one victory over the Blues. That was a 12 to 8 game, when the Blues paid Toledo their second visit. On that trip the Blues won three and lost three. On the first invasion the new champions picked up three straight, and on their last sortie into the city by the Maumee they won five straight.

In runmaking the margin of difference was not great. In winning seventeen of the twenty-four games with the Mudhens the Blues scored only thirteen more runs, 134 to 121. In the dozen games of Toledo, the runmaking was 89 to 63, favoring the Blues, but in the Muehlebach Field games Toledo outregistered the Blues, 58 to 45.

THE Columbus club fought the Blues hard all season, winning four out of twelve games in each city. On their second trip here the Senators defeated the Blues three games out of five.

In runmaking the Blues scored 72 to 56 in Columbus and 72 to 54 in Kansas City. There is coincidence in those figures which total 144 tallies for the Blues in the twenty-four games and 110 for Columbus.

THE steady march on Pennant Land made by the Blues throughout the season is shown by the games won and lost in sectional play. Against the four eastern clubs in 96 games the Blues won 69 and lost 27. Against the three western clubs in 71 games the Blues won 42 and lost 29.

Statistics of the seasonal play with the rival clubs may be in order in a final summing up of the Blue play:

	—Blues—		Total
	Win.	Lose.	Games.
Toledo	17	7	24
Indianapolis	16	8	24
Louisville	20	4	24
Columbus	16	8	24
Minneapolis	15	9	24
Milwaukee	14	10	24
St. Paul	13	10	*23
	111	56	167

THE longest losing streak the Blues suffered was a four-straighter. That came at home. There were times, of course, when the team looked bad and occasionally even in winning; but always the players snapped back into their real stride so that there never was a serious prolonged slump. As a rule the club made good and timely use of its hits and the athletes developed the talent of hitting when hits were needed.

In a short series, of course, the form team doesn't always play up to its form. That must have been true with Rochester in the series with Indianapolis last fall. The Indians won five out of six games. Even if the Red Wings were not as strong as they are this season, nevertheless the chances are they were considerably better than they showed in the post-season series. The Indians just happened to catch them off their seasonal stride.

MAX THOMAS, Blue left-hander of merit, hasn't been himself in the last three times out. Somewhere back in his head Manager Zwilling had nursed the idea of starting Thomas against the Red Wings. That idea, however, undoubtedly is "out" now. Thomas pitched himself right out of the series start on his last time out Saturday.

That sort of thing, however, really doesn't mean much. Chances are that when Thomas makes his series start he will show the fine stuff that has made him one of the Association's finest southpaws this season. It is that way in baseball.

Along in the middle of the season "Pea Ridge" Day seemed to lose that pitching commodity called "stuff." He had been going great, but suddenly he began to trail the wayside. So the bull pen became his daily loafing place. "He hasn't got a thing," was the word the catcher or whoever warmed up Day would give the manager.

Then one day in Minneapolis Manager Zwilling, beset by double-headers, was forced to start Day. For six innings the slugging Millers failed to reach first base. They got three hits in the game, "Pea Ridge" Day, the fellow who had lost his "stuff," turning in the best pitched game of the season. So, really, there's nothing to worry about simply because "Tommy" wasn't right his last three times out. Watch him next time.

PHIL M'GRAW QUITS RING.

Boxer Has Amassed Fortune of More Than $100,000.

New York, Oct. 1.—Phil McGraw, the Detroit florist, has retired from the ring.

The veteran lightweight announced he was through with the cauliflower industry last night after he had taken a terrific beating from Jack (Kid) Berg of England in a 10-round bout at the St. Nicholas arena.

McGraw said he had amassed a fortune of more than $100,000 in the ring, and felt that the time had come for him to hang up his gloves forever.

In a career that started in 1921, McGraw faced practically every one of the leading lightweights of recent years, including Jimmy McLarnin, Sid Terris, Sammy Mandell, Stanislaus Loayza, Tod Morgan, Luis Vincentini and Ace Hudkins. He was beaten frequently, but was stopped only by McLarnin here last year.

A LONG FIGHT FOR A'S

CONNIE MACK TELLS OF STRUGGLE SINCE 1921.

The Team Started From the Cellar to Win Pennant, Each Year Seeing a Rise in the Race.

(By the Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—Connie Mack, who has managed the Athletics since the advent of the American League, today described his efforts to produce a pennant winner since 1921.

"In that year," he said, "we began to branch out. We made some changes, and in 1922 we got out of the cellar and finished in seventh place. In the spring of 1923 I thought I had the makings of another pennant winner. We were in top form early and stayed up around first place until July 4, when the Yanks pulled ahead of us. We finished sixth. The pitcher who wrecked us was Jack Quinn, then with Boston.

A BATTING PUNCH HUNT.

"We needed a punch in the batting order, so our scouts dug up Al Simmons, then with Milwaukee, and I went to Salt Lake City and watched Paul Strand for a week.

"Then came the spring of 1924. Simmons began to hit, but Strand was unable to help us. In June I traded Strand for Bill Lamar and put him in left field and Simmons in center. We played good ball the last half of the season, but Washington finished first and the Yankees second.

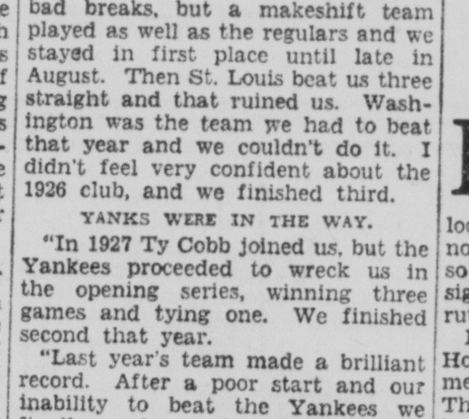
"Our team was a contender from the beginning in 1925 and then a series of mishaps overtook us. Joe Hauser broke his knee and was out for the season. Lamar was out. Hale got hurt and there were other bad breaks, but a makeshift team played as well as the regulars and we stayed in first place until late in August. Then St. Louis beat us three straight and that ruined us. Washington was the team we had to beat that year and we couldn't do it. I didn't feel very confident about the 1926 club, and we finished third.

YANKS WERE IN THE WAY.

"In 1927 Ty Cobb joined us, but the Yankees proceeded to wreck us in the opening series, winning three games and tying one. We finished second that year.

"Last year's team made a brilliant record. After a poor start and our inability to beat the Yankees we finally made up for it against the other clubs and chopped down the Yanks's lead of thirteen games and went into first place for a day.

"From the way the team played in spring training this year I thought there was a possibility of heading the second division, however, we got off on the right foot again, jumped into first place over St. Louis in May and have been there ever since. But I never felt the championship was actually clinched until we won two games from the Yankees on Labor day. Then I knew it was all over."



THE first honors in the Junior World Series have gone to Rochester. The Blues have been badly duped. In revealing this we are motivated, you will understand, by only a high type of civic spirit.

Billy Southworth, Rochester manager, has been, so they say, here for several days scouting the champion Blues. Now there was no objection to Billy doing this, but he has gone about non de guerre, or rather disguised, which is almost akin to non de plume and only slightly different from incognito.

Warren Giles, the friendly Rochester club president, mentioned last Saturday he expected Southworth to arrive the following day, and one hears Billy was here all the time. The guile of that man! The duplicity of the monster!

But the perfidy is exposed. The first day Southworth was here they say he was disguised as a lady, it being Ladies' day. Then on Saturday he came out in the guise of a newsboy and yelled, "Buy a poiper and read about Ollie Tucker who hits to right field!"

But Blue fans should not take fright just because the Red Wing skipper now has in his possession all the weaknesses and strength of the Blues. Manager Zwilling is prepared to frustrate this move.

"Since he has scouted our team and knows everything about us I am going into the series with the same players, but under entirely different names," he says.

As example, Kuhel will be Smith and Sheehan will be Goldberg, while Wambsganss will be Flaherty.

Boswell's Life of Wallace "Cy" Warmouth.

Cy is a member of the Blues singing quartet and therefore is not very popular.

He is very good on "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and can be depended upon for something different in "Tie Me to Your Apron Strings Again."

He is a Southerner. Southerners, they say, are shiftless. Cy is a Southerner.

He doesn't drink, chew, gamble nor swear, but once in a while he will swear, chew, drink and gamble.

AN old Blue fan, J. W. Peebles, finds his memory stirred by accounts of past Blues in "Blues of Other Days," and he sends the following:

P. B. Swartzel very modestly recounts that Saturday game in 1890, pitched and won by Elmer Smith against Minneapolis, and the game the following day, which Swartzel pitched with the same results, which latter game put the pennant on ice for the Blues. It was my privilege to be one of 10,000 fans to see that Sunday game pitched by Park Swartzel.

That was a record crowd for that period in baseball history and at the end of that game Swartzel could easily have been elected mayor of Greater Kansas City had "King" Elmer Smith agreed to stay out of the race, as both had been pitching brilliantly and honors were about even. Each had his own catcher, and the old-timer has long remembered "Smith and Donohue" and "Swartzel and Gunson" as the outstanding batteries of that season.

Bitter disappointment was in store for the fans and for "King" Elmer next season, however, as he was advertised to pitch the opener and all Fandom journeyed out to old Exposition Park by cable cars, hacks, bicycles and "Shank's pony" to see him mow down the enemy. But it was not to be. His arm had lost its cunning and he finished the season in left field. He also played the same position the next season, retiring to his former occupation in the rolling mills of Pittsburgh, the strain from too much pitching in the season of 1890 evidently cutting short what promised to be a brilliant baseball career.

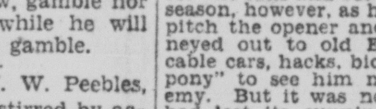
Who Are These Macks



By Westbrook Pegler.

EVERY ball club carries two or three veteran hands, old in years and experience, who can see a lot more glory by looking back than forward. There is no other business in which a man is so closely scouted for the slightest sign of decline or as quickly and ruthlessly replaced by younger ones.

Ed Rommel, George Burns and Homer Summa would pass for young men anywhere but on a ball field. They are healthy, athletic and full of knowing about the game. But their best days have gone and their presence on a world series club this year is just one belated break of luck.

ROMMEL TROD HEIGHTS TOO SOON.

Rommel is a big, talkative right-hand pitcher who first began to serve the Athletics in 1919, and, as matters worked out, reached the height of his career several years too early. He was a great knuckle ball pitcher several years ago, and in 1922 won 27 games for the A's, supported by a club that was the worst but one in the league. I used to hear that Connie Mack picked spots for Rommel that year, giving him soft assignments or sending him in to do easy relief jobs in order to build up that record of twenty-seven victories, but the Old Man says he did no such thing. He pitched Rommel in turn, and Rommel won because he was a great pitcher just then.

Like Cy Perkins, the catcher, who was also the greatest in the league when the A's were a rag-tag ball team, Rommel used up his career before the A's finally turned the corner and began to amount to something. For the last two years he has been strictly a relief pitcher. Perhaps in other surroundings he would come back for some further success, but on his showing with the A's he is a pitcher who has gone by and it is good luck that includes him on the roster this year when the team will divide world series money.

For Rommel nearly talked himself out of his job several times. He had a gabby habit of popping off in a barber chair or cigar store. The A's were a rotten ball club. Who the hell wanted to play with them?

ED ASKS THE OLD MAN ABOUT IT.

Connie Mack used to hear reports of this, but he ignored them until one day in 1926, when Rommel was failing and the A's were beginning to take on power. There was some trading going on and Rommel got an idea that he might be let go. He asked the old man about it.

"What do you care?" Connie demanded. "You don't want to stay with this club, do you?"

"Sure I do; this is a swell club," said Edwin Americus Rommel.

"Well, then," said old Mr. Mack, "don't talk so dam much, unless you mean what you say."

This talky trait has not exactly endeared Ed Rommel to the other members of the team, but Connie seems to have taken it as only the idle gabbing of a windy citizen, so Rommel is with the club today, sharing in the world series division as a deferred bonus for the good work he did when he was the greatest pitcher in the league.

George Burns and Homer Summa had the good fortune to be kicked upstairs. Three years ago Burns was picked as the one player in the whole league who had been of greatest value to his team, the highest distinction in the game. Last winter he found himself unconditionally released. He has had a strange career. He came to the majors in 1913, with Detroit, and served there until 1917. Since then the Yankees, Athletics and Indians have owned him twice and Boston once, and although all these clubs figured in world series in his time, the only time he ever happened to be with a team in a world series year was in 1920 with the Indians. In that one, against the Brooklyn Club, by the way, he hit a double, drove in a run and won one of the ball games.

Last fall Cleveland let him go to the Yankees, but too late to share in the pool. Then the Yanks loosed him and Connie Mack picked him up for a safety man at first in the event that anything should befall Jimmy Foxx. So here he is now, an old man in his trade at the age of 36, but entitled to another full share of the boodle at last.

SUMMA HAS BEEN WANDERER SINCE 1918.

Summa has been an itinerant ball player ever since he left the University of Missouri in 1918. He played in Akron, Mobile, Norfolk, Rochester and Wichita Falls until the spring of 1923, with brief stops for inspection at the Pirate and Cardinal works, where little was thought of him. But in 1923 he began to make good in the Cleveland outfield and he held on there, making a very good job of it and hitting above .300 until the Indians sold him to Connie Mack last winter to serve as an outfield reserve. He can't compete with the regular outfielders of the Athletics and has started less than a dozen games all year, although he still does useful work with the bat.

He is only 30 years old and he tells me that, although he went through college, there is nothing else in the world he can do for a living but play ball. This might be interpreted as a charge against the University of Missouri, but I just note the matter without prejudice.

WHERE CUBS SHOW EDGE

ATTACK OF A'S OUTFIELD COMBINATION IS EXCELLED.

Chicago's "Big Three" Also Gives Team Another Advantage in the All-Around Performance of Cuyler.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—It doesn't take more than a quick glance at the figures to realize that the "big punch" of the Cub attack is possessed by the outfield trio of Riggs Stephenson, Kiki Cuyler and Hack Wilson.

No one member of the Chicago cast has a thing on the very useful Mr. Aloysius Harry Simmons of the Athletics, who happens to be just about the best all-round outfielder in baseball, but collectively the Cubs have a distinct edge on their rivals on attack. On defense there is little, if anything, to choose, with Simmons and Cuyler ranking as the best of the ballhawks.

Not since the palmy days of Cobb, Crawford and Veach, the great Detroit trio, has there been any harder outfield group than this Cuyler, Wilson, Stephenson combination. Their batting figure, collectively, on the basis of the latest unofficial averages, is .354, a margin of 18 points over the aggregate mark of .336 for Simmons, Mule Haas and Bing Miller of the A's.

The big three of the Cubs have accounted for 678 of the 952 runs scored by the team, either by crossing the plate personally or driving mates over. Their rivals have figured in 621 of the 882 runs tallied by the A's. Individually Wilson has the best run-producing record. In fact the big Chicago dash to the top dated from the time the rotund Hack was shifted to the clean-up role, where his faculty for hitting in a pinch could best be capitalized.

Among several vital factors in the Cub rise, few are more conspicuous than the work of the fleet Cuyler, the league's leading base stealer, who has enjoyed his greatest all-around year since he helped the Pirates win the pennant in 1925. Stephenson is less spectacular, but the ex-Alabama collegian also has surpassed any previous record in his major league career, with a batting mark that is the highest he ever has had in fast company and second only to Hornsby's in the Cub line-up. When injuries kept either Cuyler or Stephenson out of the game, the Cubs had an able substitute in the speedy Cliff Heathcote.

The development of Haas and the steady work of the veteran Miller contributed much to the triumph of the A's. The former's batting fell off toward the close of the season, but when the Mackmen were building up their decisive lead the young centerfielder hit at a sensational clip. Haas hasn't the punch of his rival, Wilson, but he is faster and rangier. Miller, 35 years old and five years older than Stephenson, nevertheless has retained unusual speed, as well as a keen batting eye.

The latest batting records of the outfield rivals:

MR. DEKUH TOWERS IN TRAINING WILL BEGIN HERE TODAY FOR BOUT WITH SNYDER.

Size, a Right Hand and a Sparring Partner Speak for Big Italian Who Will Perform Friday Night.

A towering young man, whose right hand carries the soporific qualities of a nerve-deadening drug, arrived in Kansas City this morning and dwarfed everybody around him. He is Arthur DeKuh, the 6-feet 3-inch Italian heavyweight fighter who will meet Angus Snyder in the main event of the Legion show at Convention hall Friday night.

DeKuh weights 216 pounds and all those pounds must go into a punch which has laid low twenty-six opponents. When it is considered he has had only thirty-six fights, the record is made all the more remarkable.

HE IS NOT A TALKER.

An impressive looking, dark-haired fellow is this DeKuh, strangely noncommittal. With him is his manager, John O'Brien, and his sparring partner, Vic Bonassin. Vic probably is as big as most heavyweights, but he doesn't look so big when compared to DeKuh, and one shudders, almost, to think what happens to him in training sessions.

"Oh, that's all right," he grins. "When Art swings his right hand all I do is duck."

"You've never forgotten to duck, have you?"

"You know that," he says. "Ain't I still alive?"

AN IDEA IN HIS RIGHT.

DeKuh has been in this country hardly more than five years. About three years ago he discovered that when he planted his right hand on something and he put all his power behind that right hand the opposition gave way. This gave him the idea to become a professional fighter.

It is not claimed for DeKuh that he is well versed in the science of self-defense. It is said he is easy to hit. There is a technical knockout against his record. Paulino was the winner, but DeKuh had had only fourteen fights at the time.

The big Italian will work out each afternoon at the International Arena. Snyder will drill at 1:30 o'clock and DeKuh will appear an hour later.

MAUREEN ORCUTT 3 UP

HELEN HICKS TRAILING IN FIRST ROUND MATCH.

A Remarkable 35 Is Shot on First Round—Score, Including Five Birdies Is Six Under Par.

Bulletin.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, was three up on Rosamond Vahey, Boston.

(By the Associated Press.)

OAKLAND HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, BIRMINGHAM, MICH., Oct. 1.—Maureen Orcutt of White Beeches, N. Y., shot a remarkable 35, six under par, to take a three up lead over Helen Hicks of Hewlett, L. I., in the first round of the national women's golf championship at Oakland Hills today.

Miss Orcutt bagged five birdies and an eagle during her sensational round, and even though Miss Hicks, who tied for medalist honors yesterday, carded a 39, two under par, she was unable to stop such a rush. On only one hole, the 431-yard first, where she took a six, was Miss Orcutt over par. Chip shots that ran long and straight and spectacular putting were responsible for her meteoric round.

Miss Hicks took the lead on the first hole, but was headed thereafter on the first nine. On that hole Miss Orcutt slapped her drive and second shots into a rough to take a six while Miss Hicks was on the three and in with a par five. A 30-yard chip shot that nestled within two feet of the cup gave Maureen the second with a birdie four to square the match. She sank a 12-foot putt on the short third for a birdie and a one up margin.

They halved the fourth with par fives. Miss Hicks squared it again on the 417-yard fifth, where she played a chip shot from 35 feet to within one foot of the hole for a birdie four.

Miss Orcutt won the succeeding three holes with miraculous golf. On the sixth she sank a 50-foot downhill putt for a birdie three, a 15-foot putt for an eagle three on the seventh and was on in two and in with two more for a birdie on the eighth, where Miss Hicks's second landed in a trap. They halved the ninth in birdie threes.

Their cards:

Par—Out	553 554 554—41
Orcutt—Out	642 553 343—35
Hicks—Out	554 544 453—39

MARION GETS THE LIONS

WITH MARY PICKFORD GONE, MISS DAVIES SHINES.

When Mary and Doug Are at Home No Visiting Britisher Escapes Them—Orchids Replace Gardenias.

By Mollie Merrick.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 1.—Now that Mary Pickford is jaunting in Europe, Marion Davies is getting all the social lions who come to the colony.

Winston Churchill, latest arrived and most conspicuous of these, has been appearing at local entertainments with the blond comedienne almost exclusively.

When Mary and Doug are chez Pickfair no Briton escapes. The king and queen of the colony claim all descendants of the lion and unicorn as their very own. Pickfair is run on English lines. Doug prefers the British breakfast and Mary has told intimates that some day she will spend a good half year in the isles.

The colony has gone orchid quite heavily. Gardenias were the order of the day last season. Ladies affected white and looked like sugar figures from old-fashioned wedding cakes.

Royal purple orchids are the whimsy of the moment. They are worn in the usual Hollywood festoon, from shoulder to hip, and if a girl is extremely chic, from shoulder to knee.

Belles will be squired in the proper fashion.

Much mystery surrounds the making of John Barrymore's next picture. But the secret, probed, is that Barrymore is about to turn to slapstick comedy for a change.

The story centers about the hostess who finds at the last moment that she has thirteen to dinner, so sends to an agency for an extra man. Barrymore is the man. He has to eat the rubber squab, sit on a chair that collapses with him, and do sundry other original comedy stunts.

Just now he is busy wheedling studio authorities into allowing him to go blackface for the finish of the picture.

The Chaplin pictures not being held up by reason of the fact that Virginia Cherrill sees life through two tiny slits that once were eyes. The lovely blonde leading lady seemed to be getting lockjaw. At least her jaws grew stiff, following a quite simple accident wherein she cut her hands and knees.

Doctors administered a very large dose of tetanus serum. And the ensuing swelling of her countenance will keep her out of work for some time.

But Charlie had several scenes to work on in which the leading lady is not included, so the lot is busy as usual.

Chaplin's concession to modernism doesn't include talkies. But he has met the trend of today's idea thus far; the locks which became silvery white a year ago are now dark brown again.

As a result many more people are recognizing him in public. Chaplin's face had remained youthful for all his graying hair, and the result is a turning back of the clock. The good, old-fashioned idea of letting nature take its course sometimes has its drawbacks.

Movie casts grow weirder and weirder. Stan Laurel and Babe Hardy have been thrown into the Tibbett picture to point it up from a comedy angle.

Nance O'Neill is another newcomer to the cast. Lionel Barrymore is playing a character role, and song writers on the lot have been drumming out tunes for this Russian tale in all-color.

Suggestion for a song: "Singing on the Steppes."

Violet Rays of Sunshine

not "artificial treatment"—make OLD GOLD
. . . a better and a smoother cigarette

OLD GOLD brought about a great change in smoking habits. It gave smokers a new freedom of enjoyment . . . without any forbidden limits and without the need for self-denial.

The man who used to say "I can't smoke until after lunch . . . my throat is sensitive in the morning" now finds that he can "light up" whenever he pleases. For his morning OLD GOLD has no more throat-scratch than his breakfast omelet.

Likewise all those who have to guard their throats . . . salesmen, singers, actors, public-speakers and the like . . . no longer have to stint their smokes, for OLD GOLD is as free of throat irritants as a glass of spring water.

Better tobaccos did it . . . naturally good tobaccos . . . extra-prime leaf made irritation-free by the violet rays of sunshine . . . not by "artificial treatment."

If you like food that is naturally good, instead of food made good by "artificial treatment" you're sure to prefer OLD GOLD'S natural tobacco smoothness. Try a package, and get a vote of thanks from both your throat and taste.

You Can Make a Million

Henry Ford says there are greater opportunities for it today than ever before.

But a man has to know how to use all of his powers.

TUESDAY, 8:15 P. M., "How to Make Money; the Secret of Million-Dollar Mentalities."

Mrs. Chambers has just brought back from Europe the new, amazing, but completely confirmed, scientific discovery that a great many cases of repeated financial failure are due to emotional conflicts in the minds of the people failing. These instructive lectures explain the marvelous powers of the human mind. If you are depressed, nervous, financially embarrassed or unhappy, they will help you to overcome these morbid conditions and take the place that normally belongs to you in the natural world of happiness. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by hearing this lecture.

HOGS UNDER $10 LEVEL.

After closing 35 to 50 cents lower late yesterday, hog prices suffered a further decline of 15 to 25 cents in a continued slow trade at the Kansas City stockyards today. The close was 25 to 50 cents lower.

WEAK TONE IN WHEAT.

Profit taking followed yesterday's advance, together with a continued slow export demand, and lack of speculative support caused a moderate decline in wheat futures this morning. Trade was quiet.

The close was near the low level, down about 1 to 1½ cents for the day.

The market rallied about noon, and rose a fraction over yesterday's close, but did not hold the gain long.

Liverpool futures displayed a strong tone, responding to the late advance in American markets yesterday. Closing prices were up about 2½ to 3 cents.

Buenos Aires futures were up about 1½ cents in the early dealings.

Foreign demand for export wheat from North America continued negligible. Cables said continental stocks of wheat were plentiful and that buyers were taking their immediate requirements from the liberal Plate offerings.

Receipts of wheat at Kansas City were moderate, 135 cars, a decrease of 58 cars from a week ago and 25 cars less than a year ago. Arrivals at the spring wheat markets also showed moderate reductions.

Corn futures displayed a firmer tone in the early trade, most deliveries selling up about ½ cent, but prices weakened later and closed ¼ to ⅝ cent lower.

Receipts of corn were moderate at most markets. Kansas City had 25 cars, St. Louis 69 cars and inspections at Chicago were estimated at 148 cars.

WALL STREET COMMENT.

New York, Oct. 1.—A good many traders in stocks believe the market will show a sagging tendency until there is one big day of liquidation with transactions running up to 6 or 7 million shares, possibly more. During September there were four days with sales in excess of 5 million shares, a figure that had been reached only once since the big markets in March, when a high record of 8,247,000 shares was made March 26, when the market broke violently and rallied quickly. Since then public interest has diminished considerably.

American Can is one of the high priced industrials that is owned for future rise in value rather than for current income. Its $3 annual dividend with $1 extra yields less than 2½ per cent on present market value, around 168. Earnings in 1928 were $6.86 a share. It's a $25 par value stock with book value of about $46 a share and market value about four times that. Present price is equal to more than $1,000 a share for the original $100 par value stock that sold as low as $3 a share twenty-five years ago.

Senator Couzens of Michigan, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, is proposing that congress determine whether the federal government has the power or should possess power to regulate investment trusts. President Hoover is understood to oppose federal regulation, leaving it to the states. Statistics which have been compiled show that these investment trusts have practically doubled the capitalization during the first eight months of this year. At the outset of the year their capital was estimated at approximately 1½ billion dollars and during the first eight months of the year 1½ billion dollars at least has been added to their capital.

For the fourth month in history the total volume of shares on the New York Stock Exchange exceeded 100 million in September.

If the stock exchange adheres to its policy of making public its monthly report on member borrowings on the third day of the month, the market will have two sets of loan figures to contend with after the closing Thursday. Judged by the expansion in the federal reserve total for the nearest comparable date, that is from August 28 to September 26, during which loans rose $544,000,000, it would appear that something near a record-breaking increase must be looked for in the stock exchange figures. During August stock exchange loans rose $407,825,132, while federal reserve loans for the nearest comparable period at that time were up only $257,000,000.

Early reports of September automobile shipments were of a mixed character, with Hupp and Packard reporting increases over a year ago. Buick output held at the 1928 level, while Chevrolet and Reo reported fair sized reductions.

With the money market called upon to shoulder an unprecedented turnover in quarterly payments, etc., relative calm prevailed in that direction. Renewals for call loans were fixed at 9 per cent, with scattered calling of about 25 million dollars later reflected in an advance in the rate to 10 per cent. Funds were supplied at that level, however.

Radio, which has given a much better account of itself than most of the other so-called pivotal issues came in for a good deal of attention. Resumption of bullish activities in that issue fitted in with reports that the strong Chicago aggregation, responsible for its sharp rise prior to the reaction in the general market had resumed their position. Gossip had it that radio was scheduled to be the leader of the next market upturn.

International Combustion Engineering dropped sometimes points between sales for a loss of more than 13 points following yesterday's decline of 4 points. At today's low level of 42, the stock showed a cumulative drop of 61½ points from the year's peak. The selling came in large blocks, and almost wholly from the same source, on reports which accompanied the decline, that a London-New York pool which had been sponsoring it marketwise had decided to wind up its operations.

CORD TO BUY STINSON AIRCRAFT

Detroit, Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—Announcement of plans to sell Stinson Aircraft Corporation to the Cord Corporation was made today by William A. Mara, secretary of the former concern. Cord Corporation offers to purchase Stinson stock at $17.50 a share provided 60 per cent of the shares can be obtained. An alternative proposition would give one share of Cord for two of Stinson. The Cord Corporation is headed by E. L. Cord as president, and is a holding company for Lycoming Manufacturing Company, Auburn Automobile Company and other Cord interests.

TEXTILE OUTLOOK IMPROVED.

New York, Oct. 1.—Outlook for the textile manufacturing industry today is better than for several years, Frederick K. Rupprecht, president of Consolidated Textile Corporation, declared today.

"Textile manufacturers are beginning to realize the necessity of keeping close check on production in the industry in general, as against sales through various channels," Mr. Rupprecht said. "They realize how absurd it is to accumulate surplus stocks of merchandise, which weaken the price structure and practically place buyers in a position to name their own prices."

MONTG'Y WARD SEPT. SALES.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—September sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. totaled $26,127,589, an increase of 25.55 per cent, and for nine months $193,689,785, an increase of 38 per cent over those of the corresponding period last year.

MORE LONDON GOLD TO PARIS.

New York, Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—Cables from London said that approximately 5 million dollars of gold was taken from the Bank of England for shipment to Paris.

Following the decision handed down by the New York County supreme court in favor of George L. Johnson of Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc., sustaining their rights to purchase the sign business of the Samuel Insull companies, including control of the Claude Neon Federal Company, Mr. Johnson announced that he and his associates will take immediate steps to complete the purchase of the properties. Claude Neon Federal Company holds Claude Neon license in sixteen middle western states and the controlling interest of nineteen affiliated companies operating throughout this territory. About 7 million dollars is involved in the deal.

ADVANCE IN COTTON.

New York, Oct. 1.—Cotton futures advanced 23 to 28 points in the early dealings, with December 18.97 and March 19.28, influenced by the tropical storm, which is causing heavy rains in the eastern belt, and also by firm cables. The market maintained its strong tone with additional advance after noon. The close showed 31 to 36 points net gain: October, 18.96; December, 19.04; January, 19.11; March, 19.33; May, 19.55; spot, middling, 19.15, up 30 points.

NOTES OF THE GRAIN TRADE.

Total deliveries on September contracts in Chicago were 11,371,000 bushels of wheat, 1,509,000 bushels of corn, 654,000 bushels of oats and 1,262,000 bushels of rye. Deliveries yesterday included 520,000 bushels of wheat, 426,000 bushels of corn and 370,000 bushels of oats.

Numerous cargoes of Argentine wheat continue to arrive in the United Kingdom ports, with the result that elevators are becoming congested and all regular storage space in Liverpool is filled to capacity, and shippers are finding difficulty in obtaining storage space, which is resulting in considerable liquidation of nearby wheat and affecting other positions to some extent, said Broomhall's Liverpool cable. The weather in most parts of Europe has improved, and soil is now in better condition for plowing. It is thought that the drouth is breaking and that the usual fall precipitation will develop.

Private October crop reports by Chicago grain firms, giving condition and yield of the corn crop, together with final forecast of spring wheat and oats yields, will be issued tomorrow morning.

Exports of wheat from the United States last week, as reported by the commerce department, were 1,377,000 bushels, compared with 3,087,000 bushels in the preceding week and 3,658,000 bushels a year ago. The total since July 1 is 31½ million bushels, compared with 30½ million in the corresponding period last season. Total wheat and flour shipments since July 1 are about 45 million bushels; corresponding period last season, 41½ million. Other exports last week were 97,000 bushels of corn, 419,000 bushels of oats, 826,000 bushels of barley and 19,000 bushels of rye. Shipments of Canadian grain through United States ports last week were 438,000 bushels, compared with 493,000 bushels in the preceding week. Exports of flour from North America were 288,000 barrels; preceding week, 281,000 barrels.

"Wheat seedbed preparation and seeding in Kansas are still limited by dry soil and lack of rain over much of the eastern half of the state, although seeding appears to be from one-half to four-fifths done," said the weekly report of the state board of agriculture. "Planting is about completed over most of the western half of the state. Conditions are quite varied. In some of the wheat belt counties wheat is mostly seeded and coming up well with excellent stands being secured and some now being pastured. Other counties need rain to bring out sprouting or to allow seedbed preparation and planting. Corn cutting for silage and fodder is still in progress. Early corn is practically mature and late fields are maturing rapidly."

Broomhall's Australian agent estimates the wheat crop in the commonwealth at 100 million bushels, compared with a harvest of 159 million last season. The week-end rains there missed the main wheat growing areas in Victoria. South Australia wheat has recuperated somewhat following the recent good rains. The Argentine agent said it was impossible to estimate the wheat yield in that country at present, but he is of the opinion that the exportable surplus available for next year may total about 184 million bushels.

Reports were current in Chicago this morning that restrictions governing trading in grains were to be removed, but confirmation was lacking. Grain men say such an action would be a helpful influence to the market. At present there are rules which limit the individual holdings in wheat futures to ½ million bushels in Chicago and ¼ million in Kansas City. Also the principals of a transaction must be officially reported. These rules were devised mainly to prevent any person or group of persons from cornering the market.

George E. Saunders with J. S. Bache & Co., commenting on the Canadian moisture situation, said Canadian reserve moisture conditions are deplorable. Precipitation since April 1 has been even less than last year's deficient contributions that were principal cause of this year's crop calamity, comprehensive official reports show Manitoba to September 25 has had 23 per cent less than same period last year and the 10-year average, Saskatchewan 20 per cent less than last year and 40 per cent less than the 10-year average; Alberta, 38 per cent less than last year and 50 per cent less than the 10-year average. Only copious rains prior to Canada's rapidly approaching freeze-up can remedy this very serious basic condition as winter contributes but little to moisture reserves.

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railway and H. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, issued a joint statement explaining disparity of wheat prices in Chicago and in Winnipeg. They said that Canadian growers, convinced that high quality of their product this year justified a higher price, had decided to take advantage of sufficient storage available in Canada to hold their wheat with the result that the movement of grain in Western Canada was practically at a standstill. British and Continental buyers, however, were inclined to believe they could obtain their present requirements from Argentina and United States without purchasing Canadian wheat at a higher price.

The first new crop milo to arrive in Kansas City was received today by B. C. Christopher & Co., from Conlen, Tex. The car graded sample yellow, with a test weight of 54.5 pounds a bushel. Moisture content was 18 per cent, and the grain was sour and heating. The car is the earliest ever received in Kansas City from the main producing area of Northern Texas.

BOND PRICES LOWER AGAIN.

[Closing bond quotations will appear in later editions.]

New York, Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—Softness of the convertibles featured the trading on the bond market today. In sympathy with the decline in stocks, the share feature issues sold off 1 to 4 points in the early trading, but in most instances the liquidation was of moderate proportions.

International Telephone 4½s dropped to 181½, down 7½ points and a new low on the current recession, while American Telephone 4½s declined 4 points to 208. Alleghany Corporation 5s dipped 3 points, and American International 5½s and Commercial Investment Trust 5½s were off about a point each. American I. G. Chemicals found some support at virtually no price change.

Philadelphia & Reading 6s was down 3 points.

Mortgage obligations of domestic corporations were again heavy and interest was centered in a few speculative issues. St. Paul adjustment 5s, on which ½ per cent interest was payable today, moved up half a point. Prime rails, industrials and utilities fluctuated fractionally. Bethlehem Steel refundings 5s softened in the dull industrial group, selling off more than a point. Niagara Falls Power 6s declined more than 2 points on a small transaction.

United States government securities were dull.

In the foreign list Brazilian 6½s were up 1¼ points.

Transactions in principal bonds in thousands of dollars and range of prices up to 2 p. m. (the latest available for this edition), as reported by the Associated Press, are here shown:

THE LATEST MARKET NEWS

BIG DECLINE IN CURBS.

New York, Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—The curb market developed acute weakness today, as bear pressure, centering in the utilities, uncovered stop loss orders in large volume, and speculative circles were highly nervous and had little confidence in the price structure for the present.

Such issues as Electric Investors, American and Foreign Power, Central States Electric and United Gas Improvement dropped from 10 to 15 points by early afternoon, and Commonwealth Edison, a more volatile issue, slipped back more than 20 points close to the 350 mark. Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower, Northern States A, and others lost 3 to 5 points or more. The Insull stocks, which showed firm resistance to the selling pressure late last week, turned heavy with the rest of the utilities.

Investment trusts sagged moderately, such issues as Lehman Corporation, Goldman Sachs and Trans-America losing a point or two. American Investors B lost more than 3 points. Blue Ridge slipped to a new low at 17½, 2½ points below its offering price, and several of the comparatively new preferred issues were heavily unloaded at levels substantially below their offering prices.

The oils showed better resistance than other parts of the list, but sagged somewhat, Cosden losing a couple of points. In the industrials, Aluminum Company sold up about 15 points, then dropped more than 20. In the morning trading, Swift & Co. was an isolated strong spot, selling up a couple of points. De Forest Radio sold up moderately on the prospect of a merger with Jenkins Television.

The mines were heavy, Newmont losing several points.

[Closing curb quotations will appear in later editions.]

What a Difference!

Avoid the irritating motor congestion to and from town. Travel in restful comfort on a street car or bus. It's the practical, common sense way.

Who has a real reason to be envious—the street car and bus patron or the motorist?

Consider the facts. On the one hand—a comfortable, relaxing, economical, safe ride, free from all worry and with time for thought and reading. On the other hand—constant worry, heavy expense, traffic and parking troubles.

Thousands of Kansas Citians—the 80%—know that the odds are overwhelmingly in favor of the street car and bus patron.

OPEN NEARBY GAS FIELD

12 TO 14 MILLION CUBIC FEET PRODUCED BY 18 WELLS.

Further Drilling Will Be Pushed 5 Miles Southwest of Blue Springs Close to Kansas City's East Industrial District.

Between 12 and 14 million cubic feet of gas have been brought in during the last few weeks in a newly opened field five miles southwest of Blue Springs, Mo. The field is close to Kansas City's east industrial district.

Only about eighteen wells had been drilled, B. R. Bay, general manager of the Missouri-Kansas Pipeline Company, said last night. The company had about 7,500 acres leased in the field, Mr. Bay estimated.

That the field would be producing 35 million cubic feet open flow by December 1 was said by Mr. Bay to be a conservative prediction.

About 1,500 acres of the leases have been proven up. That is the eighteen wells have proven that there is gas under that much of the field.

The actual drilling up of the field does not start until the leases are all proven and transportation has been provided for the gas. The Bannister Ridge gas line will be extended to Blue Springs before freezing weather, Mr. Bay said. He explained that the actual producing strength of a field when completely drilled is usually many times that of the few proving wells.

The new field was really a continuation of the Bannister Ridge field, but probably would not connect with solid drilling. It was an unusually good field with the wells running close to a million feet each but nothing unexpected, Mr. Bay said.

The gas that has been found so far has been sand gas. There are several gas producing structures in the field. The Bartlesville sand is the deepest and has the greatest rock pressure.

TAFT RETURNS TO WORK.

A Crowded Docket Awaits the Supreme Court Justice.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Chief Justice Taft, returning today after a vacation at his summer home at Murray Bay, Canada, was confronted with a crowded docket in the supreme court.

During his vacation, which benefited him greatly, the chief justice devoted much time to the examination of cases filed since the court adjourned in June, and before the supreme court meets Monday he will make a searching review of the condition of business in courts throughout the country.

Safeguard Your Credit
Pay Your Bills Through The Household Plan

It's difficult, sometimes, to keep your bills paid up with a hundred and one household expenses calling for every dollar.

But thousands of families safeguard their credit by grouping their bills and making a loan under the dignified, friendly Household Plan for the purpose of paying them. This plan is available to anyone keeping house, and enables you to secure without delay, and without securing outside signers. The signatures of husband and wife are all that is necessary.

$100 * $200 * $300
Or Other Amounts

There are no fees or deductions—you get the entire amount you borrow, and may take twenty months to repay. Interest is charged only on unpaid principal balances—each payment on principal reduces interest cost.

Our Rate is 2½% Per Month

Economies effected through 50 years of efficient service have enabled us to establish a rate that affords a substantial saving when you borrow from us.

How We Make Loans

A $100 loan is payable $5.00 per month, plus interest. The first month, the interest charge is $2.50 and the last month it is only 13 cents. The average monthly cost is $1.32. Other amounts in proportion.

Thousands of families secure cash from Household to pay for medical attention.

Hundreds more borrow to purchase or make payments on automobiles and trucks.

Frequently the expense of moving is a heavy burden. Household lends thousands of dollars for this purpose.

More families borrow to pay bills than for any other reason. We are always ready to advance funds for this purpose.

If your house needs painting, repairing, don't hesitate to ask us for the necessary funds. It's our business to lend money.

Frequently payments on furniture become a burden. Household advances funds to meet them.

In Memoriam

IN FONDEST memory of our beloved father, Joseph Vogel, who passed away ten years ago today, October 1, 1919:

"You are not dead—Life has but set you free!
Your years of life were like a lovely song,
The last sweet poignant notes of which held long,
Passed into silence while we listen, we
Who loved you, listened still expectantly!
And we about you whom you moved among
Would feel that grief for you were surely wrong—
You have but passed beyond where we can see!"

—Sadly missed by son and daughter.

IN FOND and loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who left us just 11 years ago today, Oct. 1, 1918:

Little mother how we miss you,
And our troubles we must bear,
For we know that you are happy
With the angels over there.

—Sadly missed by husband and daughters, Mr. Harry Hamman, Mrs. Zelda Wilson, Mrs. June Ingram.

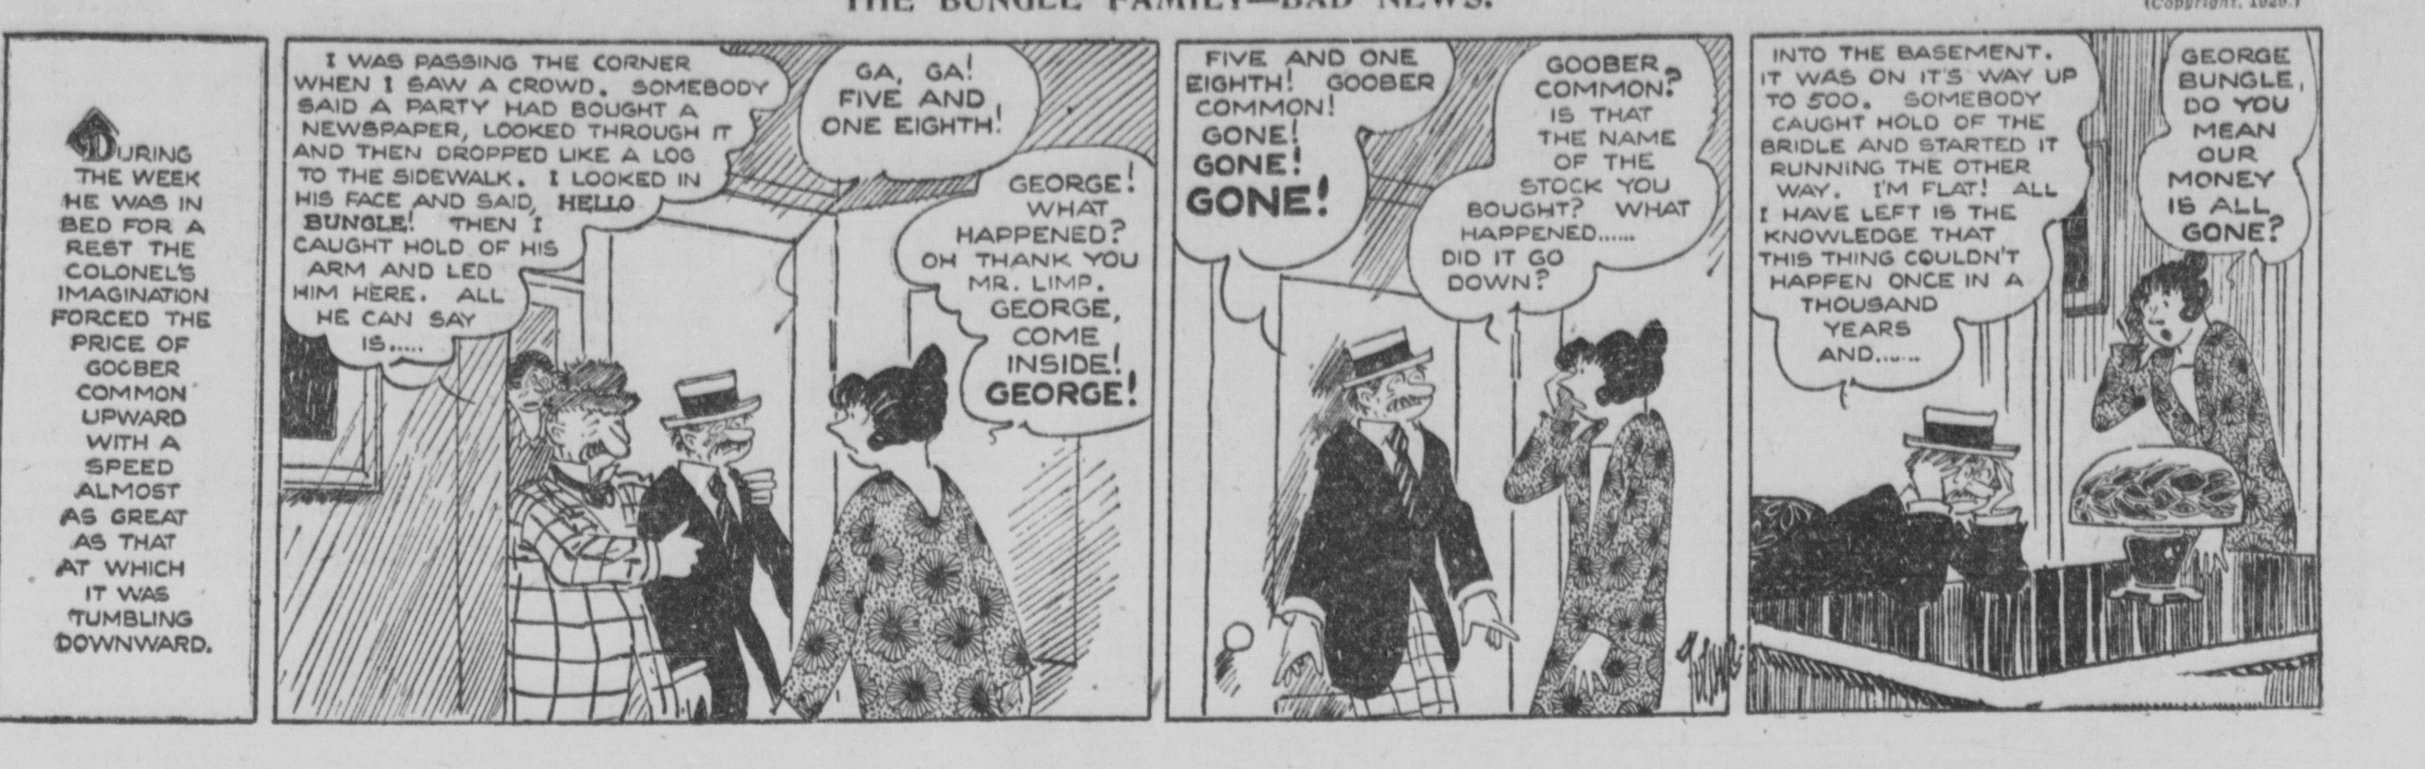
THE BUNGLE FAMILY—BAD NEWS.

(Copyright, 1929.)



DURING THE WEEK HE WAS IN BED FOR A REST THE COLONEL'S IMAGINATION FORCED THE PRICE OF GOOBER COMMON UPWARD WITH A SPEED ALMOST AS GREAT AS THAT AT WHICH IT WAS TUMBLING DOWNWARD.
I WAS PASSING THE CORNER WHEN I SAW A CROWD. SOMEBODY SAID A PARTY HAD BOUGHT A NEWSPAPER, LOOKED THROUGH IT AND THEN DROPPED LIKE A LOG TO THE SIDEWALK. I LOOKED IN HIS FACE AND SAID, HELLO BUNGLE! THEN I CAUGHT HOLD OF HIS ARM AND LED HIM HERE. ALL HE CAN SAY IS.....
GA, GA! FIVE AND ONE EIGHTH!
GEORGE! WHAT HAPPENED? OH THANK YOU MR. LIMP. GEORGE, COME INSIDE! GEORGE!
FIVE AND ONE EIGHTH! GOOBER COMMON! GONE! GONE! GONE!
GOOBER COMMON? IS THAT THE NAME OF THE STOCK YOU BOUGHT? WHAT HAPPENED...... DID IT GO DOWN?
INTO THE BASEMENT. IT WAS ON IT'S WAY UP TO 500. SOMEBODY CAUGHT HOLD OF THE BRIDLE AND STARTED IT RUNNING THE OTHER WAY. I'M FLAT! ALL I HAVE LEFT IS THE KNOWLEDGE THAT THIS THING COULDN'T HAPPEN ONCE IN A THOUSAND YEARS AND......
GEORGE BUNGLE, DO YOU MEAN OUR MONEY IS ALL GONE?

HOW'DY, MRS. JONES - I HAVE SOMETHING IMPORTANT TO SAY TO TILLIE
WELL, COME IN AND SIT DOWN - I'LL TELL TILLIE YOU'RE HERE
IF YOU TAKE MY ADVICE YOU'LL HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH THAT WHIPPLE PERSON
IT WON'T HURT TO SEE WHAT HE HAS TO SAY
I HAD A CONFERENCE WITH THE BOSS YESTERDAY - I AM NOT AT LIBERTY TO DIVULGE THE MATTERS THAT WE DISCUSSED. BUT IF YOU COME BACK TO WORK I CAN PROMISE YOU THAT I WILL HAVE SOME PLEASANT NEWS IN A FEW DAYS
I HOPE IT WILL BE A RAISE
I CAN READ HIM LIKE A BOOK - ONE OF THOSE KIND THAT IS NEVER WRONG - ALWAYS SURE OF HIMSELF - YOU CAN'T FAZE HIM - KNOWS EVERYTHING - HIS CLOTHES ARE JUST SO - TOO PERFECT TO BE HUMAN. I CAN'T STAND HIM

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1.

SHALL THERE BE A WORLD BANK?

America has a special concern with one aspect of the Young plan for reparations settlement to which little attention has been paid in this country. Indeed, the "Bank for International Settlements" promises to have permanent effects, not merely on America, but on the world.

The battle which Philip Snowden fought at The Hague on behalf of the British share in the reparations was spectacular. But it was also essentially unimportant. Of even less consequence was the controvery which developed over the terms of an agreement for the evacuation of the Rhineland. These were matters of detail. They had to be settled but they can have small effect upon world affairs.

The proposal to found an international bank, whatever its merit or menace, is upon an entirely different plane. For while the plan provides that the whole problem of German reparations must be wound up by 1988, the new institution which it seeks to establish would continue to function, presumably for all time. This is a fact which should be constantly borne in mind, the more so because the questions it raises are so intricate and so highly controversial.

The Young committee of independent financial experts has been frank. Explaining the banking feature of its plan, the committee reports:

> In the natural course of development it is to be expected that the bank will, in time, become an organization not simply, or even predominantly, concerned with the handling of reparations, but also with furnishing to the world of international commerce and finance important facilities hitherto lacking.

In other words, the experts are proposing that the nations immediately affected by the temporary problem of reparations shall create a permanent banking institution for purposes far wider than would appear to be necessitated by the war settlement. So far as the bank is concerned it is fair to conclude that the committee has definitely exceeded its terms of reference, which were to draw up "proposals for a complete and final settlement of the reparations problem."

Whether such a course was inherently necessary in the situation is obviously a matter of opinion. But whether or not the action was justified, it is essential to recognize that the experts have so drawn their plan as to weave the bank almost inextricably into its fabric. They scarcely needed to add, as they did, that "we regard our report as an indivisible whole."

Almost inevitably, indeed, one recalls how President Wilson made another international institution such an integral part of the general peace treaty that he could say in his Metropolitan Opera House speech: "When the treaty comes back, gentlemen on this side (and he referred to senatorial opponents of the League of Nations) will find the covenant not only in it, but so many threads of the treaty tied to the covenant that you cannot dissect the covenant from the treaty without destroying the whole vital structure."

The President's attempt to force the league through the senate is by no means a complete analogy to the situation now arising out of the Young plan with respect to the international bank, nor need a certain resemblance engender suspicion of that project. But the proposal certainly demands far more careful scrutiny than it has yet received.

The diplomatic conference at The Hague adjourned on August 31, after reaching agreement upon the distribution of the annuities and the evacuation of the Rhineland. Incidentally it provided for a committee to draw up a charter for the bank. Until that committee reports, presumably the nations will make no decision with reference to the most important feature of the plan. But the powers and duties of the bank are already carefully outlined in the Young report.

It is time to consider just what kind of an institution is being proposed to furnish these "important facilities hitherto lacking," and whether the plan involves any particular hazards for this country.

How the Hotel Business Has Grown.

Following the example of organized baseball, motion pictures and, to a more limited extent, the steel, textile and other industries, the hotel business of the United States and Canada has selected a directing head, a kind of dictator or czar who is expected to give it greater coherence and to increase its service to the public. The director is Thomas D. Green of New York, who for many years has been a leader in the American Hotel Association. In this organization are comprised the state and regional hotel associations of this country and Canada, the principal bulk of the property represented being in the United States.

This development suggests the growth of the hotel business in recent years, a growth not only unparalleled but unanticipated. In fact, it was predicted at the time that national prohibition would be disastrous to the hotel industry. But now it is shown this business, along with other legitimate enterprises, has shared in the general prosperity that has come to the country.

More motor cars and consequently more motor car travel, the trend from residential to hotel life (made possible, again, by increased material well-being), together with other favorable developments, have helped to place the hotel industry ninth among the country's forms of business. It has an estimated property valuation of 5 billion dollars and employs 1 million persons. And still further growth reasonably may be expected.

Who Told Henry That?

Women may disappear from industry, as Henry Ford predicts. They may not like to think much, as Mr. Ford says, but neither do men. Furthermore, women may not be precise, even as the motor magnate has found in his experience. But who told Henry that women prefer to take orders?

A Regular School for Them, Too.

The schools of Kansas City are crowded, but the board of education has made room for special classes of crippled children and has provided busses for those not having other means of transportation. So, no more will boys and girls already handicapped by misfortune, be lacking also in school privileges and advantages; they will be given especial consideration in the general scheme of public education. These children not only will be helped, but made happier, and there is a lot in that.

Who knows but that from this school may come men and women who shall distinguish themselves and honor Kansas City by noble achievements? Some of these boys and girls will be handicapped physically all their lives, but everyone hopes that many will fully recover. Meanwhile a big city is happy with them in going to a "regular school," as one little boy proudly described it.

FEDERALIZE POLICE SYSTEM.

Writer Urges National Control and Advisory Bureau.

Richard E. Enright in the North American Review.

Certainly the undesired growth of the biggest business in America—crime—would not be helped if we were to organize a national police bureau of wide scope and authority for the collection of criminal records. Such a national clearing house, whose data should be available to every law enforcement agency in the country, is greatly needed.

One of the services of such a bureau should be the recommendation to the various legislatures of steps aimed to standardize criminal statutes the country over. In addition, of course, it should supervise a finger print system. There is much mistaken protest against finger printing honest men. But the law-abiding citizen has nothing to fear from such a procedure, while the criminal has much.

A national police bureau would cost no more than ¼ million dollars to set up, no more than ½ million dollars a year to operate during the first ten years. We spend far more than that to collect weather data for airplane transportation. And in behalf of agriculture, an industry which more nearly parallels in magnitude the crime business, we spend unlimited sums from which we get far smaller returns than we could expect from a police bureau.

In addition, the police departments of the various states and cities should be brought under federal control. There is no reason why such an important service should not be so standardized. It is what is being done in most of the important nations of the world. In my opinion the fact that the British service is semi-national is one substantial reason why crime conditions in the British Isles compare so favorably with those in the United States.

THE HOOVER METHOD.

Editorial Opinion of the New York Times.

President Hoover has been long enough in office to give close observers a good general idea of the way in which he does his work. The immense and wearisome routine of the presidency need not be considered here. Of more interest is the question how he adjusts his relations with congress; how he maintains contact with public opinion; and especially how he conducts foreign relations, the initiative in which is confided to him exclusively by the Constitution.

It does not require an acute analysis to show the broad rules of procedure which Mr. Hoover has evidently adopted. They seem to cover a mixture of reticence, caution and, on fit occasion, great boldness. Concerning the naval negotiations with the English government, for example, the President has kept himself close-lipped as regards details. He and all his official advisers have refused to say a word when confusing and apparently contradictory dispatches came from London. Whatever hitch there was in the program, Mr. Hoover assumed it to be his personal business to smooth out with Prime Minister MacDonald. Yet the main outlines of his hopes and plans he has freely communicated to the public. It appears that President Hoover has the ability both to keep his own counsel, and courageously to seek advice and help from the public when difficulties thicken.

Los Angeles Has 30,000 Japanese.

From the Los Angeles Times.

Los Angeles leads the country in Japanese population, having 30,000, it is set forth in an article in Sociology and Social Science issued by the University of Southern California. W. T. Katoaka, a graduate, states that 12,000 Japanese men and 400 women are engaged in Los Angeles in occupations, the rest being members of their families, approximately 8,000 men and 10,000 women.

A Journey Into the Hostile Yemen Land

An Arabian Christian Finds the Natives in the Southwestern Part of His Country Forbidding, but He Is Discreet in Keeping His Religious Ideas to Himself—Horrors in the Citadel of the Amir.

When I was at the office of a New York Arabic newspaper one day, Ameen Rihani writes in Asia Magazine, a man with a soft, unfamiliar accent came in to ask for a book to teach him English. I was curious to know where he was from, and his reply was more interesting than his speech. It was even surprising; for seldom does one see in the Syrian colony of New York a man from Al-Yemen.

Since I was then on the eve of departure for Arabia, I seized the opportunity to add something to my little store of knowledge. "Tell me about your country," I said.

"Our country is fair in its water and air," he replied, "but its people are always fighting."

"With whom do they fight?"

"We fought the Turks, and we fought the tribes, and we fought the Idrisi, and we are always fighting among ourselves."

"Does the Imam Yahya rule the entire Yemen?"

"No; only a part of it. We, the people of Al-Yemen, seldom submit to the rule of one man for a long time. We love liberty and we fight for it. We slay the nearest to us to remain free. We say to the imam: 'Such and such a one we desire not as governor;' and if he does not remove him at once, we elect a sheikh in his place and say to him: 'You are our governor and our imam.'"

"And if the governor refuses to surrender his post?"

(In the same smooth tone) "Wallah, we slay him."

"Are there any foreigners in Al-Yemen?"

"No; the foreigners are not permitted to live in Al-Yemen."

"And are they allowed to travel?"

"No."

"And should a traveler come?"

"Wallah, we'll slay him.

"Suppose he travels in disguise?"

"If we know him, wallah, we'll slay him."

"And do you not permit Syrians, who are Arabs like yourselves, to travel in your country?"

"If they are Christians, they and the foreigners are one in the eye of the people of Al-Yemen. Their speech alone might protect them."

"And if a Christian traveler's identity is discovered?"

(In the same unchanging, mellifluous accent) "Wallah, we'll slay him."

When in due course I arrived at Aden with my companion, Capt. Constantine Yanni of the Hejaz government, I found myself before two barriers, the British authorities and, as this "wallah-we'll-slay-him" Arab had especially led me to expect, the Yemen representatives. We had to have a permit and an assurance of security and peace before we could proceed to Sanaa. The British authorities warned us that the road was not safe for travelers; but the Imam Yahya's representative in Aden, the Cadi Abdullah Arashi, was of a different opinion.

Before we reached the frontier, we had an adventure that seemed at first to justify the warning of the British authorities. We were the guests of the sultan of the Hawashib; and, before we retired that evening, we thanked him for his hospitality and begged him, since we were leaving early, not to get up to say good-by. He consented, as I understood. But, when at dawn the following day the men were saddling and packing in the court, something strange and alarming happened. Having slept on the roof, I heard, while I was dressing, a crash, as of a broken pitcher, below; but thinking it fell from one of the windows of the palace, I did not pay any attention. Very soon, however, I saw a piece of earthenware fly out of the window and smash among the mules and muleteers. A piece of it must have struck the loud-voiced Younis, a loquacious Arab who had been appointed to accompany us to Ibb; for he exclaimed: "Ya ho! Do you want to kill us with a pot?" A few minutes later a volley of pots and pans shot out of the window, no human accent accompanying. "Ya ho!" called Younis again, this time addressing us. "Do you know what that means? It means get ye out of here—out ye! and quickly!"

We took the hint, and hastened, Captain Yanni and I, from the palace. A few men, including our escort of hajjans, or troops on dromedaries, followed, while others were still loading or harnessing their mules. We descended the slope and thought we were out of danger; but before we had forded the stream, we heard a voice crying, "Stop ye! Stop ye!" We did not stop. The voice cried again, and several rifles were fired. I imagined the worst, and so, I think, did my companion. But he did not show it. "Here is the danger we have been warned against," said I, reining my mule. I carried no arms, and I was ready to surrender. But Captain Yanni, who carried all the weapons—a rifle, two pistols and a dagger—jumped to the ground, saying, "The hour has struck, and I am ready." The hajjans, when the rifles were fired, galloped back to see or to act.

But soon the soldiers were seen coming down the hill and with them the sultan's servants, carrying two trays upon their heads. They were after us, to be sure, but not with guns—they were after us with the breakfast! And they blamed us, reproached us, chided us. Were we not wanting in the etiquette of hospitality thus to depart without breakfast—and thus to depart without seeing the sultan, who had got up early to say good-by to us?

We asked them about the pots and pans that were thrown upon our men, and they said that the sultana wished us to have our breakfast before we left. But the servants on the floor below were still asleep, and she was unwilling to be heard or seen by the stranger; she could not look out of the window to call them. Hence the pots and pans that crashed in the courtyard. That is how she wakes up her servants when she cannot cudgel them out of sleep. And she made them follow us with the breakfast that morning, also ordering the soldiers to fire their rifles, if we did not stop.

At Mawia, the first town in the territory of the imam, the reception was even more spectacular; from the roof of a house on the hilltop came the notes of a bugle. As we descended the hill, the strains of a band greeted our ears, and soon the band itself, at the head of a long line of soldiers, greeted our eyes. The children of the village, boys and girls, and some men had also gathered and were squatting on the hilltop.

We alighted, and a Turkish officer gave the order to present arms; we passed a first line of long-haired, blue-kirtled soldiers and came to two more lines—one on each side of the gate; we entered and were overwhelmed with more music and more military salutes; we proceeded through the vast court and were welcomed by a hunchback Turk, in a kalpak and European clothes, the secretary of Amir ul-Jaish, commander of the army of Taiz, a district in Al-Yemen. The secretary preceded us to the citadel, and there we were stopped by the sentry, for no reason, after all this extravagance of the military, that I could fathom. But he shouted an unintelligible word to another sentry within or above and waited. Soon another unintelligible word was shouted from within, and the sentry silently moved away from the door.

We entered, and that was the beginning of a horrible experience. The Zioud soldiers not only dye their skirts and their turbans in indigo blue, but they smear their bodies also with it, because, as they believe, it protects them from the cold. What they do is to soak a garment in the dye and wear it before it dries. Thus a Zioud soldier always smells of indigo. And he rubs his long hair with melted butter to give it luster and a snap. Indigo and butter! A whole regiment steeped in them is sufferable in the open, but not indoors.

When we had entered the citadel, the concentrated smell almost caused a swoon. And there were other smells and other horrors. A stable was on the bottom floor; and between it and the top floor, where the amir makes his place of audience, is a stone staircase, on the steps and landings of which were more indigo men. I shuddered. I was assailed, in truth, with the thought of being held a prisoner in this gloomy and noisome citadel, with a fierce-looking indigo fanatic as my jailer.

But worse than the fear was the disgust I felt when the guard admitted us into the presence of the amir. Imagine yourself in a 12x8 room with a very low ceiling, whose small windows, except one, are closed; whose floor is covered with grass and straw; and whose walls serve as a background for a score of bearded, turbaned and robed Zioud, all seated, all chewing at something and some smoking the madaah. In the corner of this room, behind a little desk, near which was a madaah amid a heap of papers, sat cross-legged on the cushion a sharp-eyed, high-browed, heavy-turbaned little man, to whom the secretary presented us with a gesture. This was the illustrious Saiyed Ali ibn ul-Wazir, the commander of the army of Taiz. He gave us, Captain Yanni and me, his hand without standing and pointed to a place where we had to squeeze ourselves between two truculent beards. We felt the most miserable of men.

I succeeded in giving utterance to a few words about our journey on a mission that all Arab-speaking people would applaud. And the amir's few words in reply fell with an effort from his lips. I then delivered to him the letter of the Cadi Abdullah Arashi, which he read and folded and placed under the cushion, without changing his impassiveness. Needless to say how glad I was that the interview was brief.

KANSAS NOTES.

Add similes, from the Augusta Gazette: As tiresome as driving a new Ford from Kansas City.

Couldn't-tell-a-lie item from the Altoona Tribune: "Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Butcher attended the circus in Parsons last Friday. The children looked after the printing office during their parents' absence."

The Iola Register prints quite a lengthy review of a biography of George Washington by Shelby Little, but loses no little of its effect by referring to her as Mr. Little, says the Ottawa Herald. Shelby Little is Mrs. Richard Henry Little, wife of the columnist on the Chicago Tribune. She has red hair and if she ever learns that the Register referred to her as Mr. Little she won't like it. And neither will Mr. Little.

An Emporia doctor tells the Gazette that his business is "healing the sick and the lazy."

> A former College of Emporia student, who refused to give in to a bad break, is making good—Roy Bell, who came to Emporia from Arkansas City in 1920 and went to C. of E. half a year, ran out of money and took a job as a window trimmer and floorwalker at the G. W. Newman store. Then he got a chance to drive a bakery wagon at Arkansas City for $5 a day. After a few months the bakery went broke, but a bank finally took it over and Bell kept his job. In a few months the bank went broke and Bell was out of a job. After a few days of argument, he borrowed money from another bank and bought the bakery. Now he has a good business, a wife and two children.—Emporia Gazette.

Well, we hope he keeps going, nevertheless. Maybe he'll get a "break" some day.

WHAT PRICE ULTRANESS.

Cadillac announces a 16-cylinder car designed for "a few motorists willing to pay for the ultra regardless of price." Last week a garage mechanic, working for the Emporia agency of a Detroit concern which offers both a six and an eight, was discussing the excellences of the six. "She'll do anything the eight'll do except burn the gas," he finally summed up.

Owners of 4-cylinder cars who crave an auto which will equal the swank of the new 16-cylinder ultra can achieve approximately the same effect by boring a 1-inch hole in the bottom of the four's gas tank.—Emporia Gazette.

"School was about to start several years ago," relates the editor of the Minneapolis Better Way, "and the writer decided to rebel, run away and see some of the great old earth of ours. However, just as we made up our mind to leave a call was made for candidates for the football team. And we can truthfully say, we without doubt saw more of the earth in the next three months than we would in almost any other way."

Musicians May Yet Gain Membership in University Band.—Headline.

"After all these years perhaps there is hope for the band yet," says the University Kansan.

HERE'S A NEW ONE.

Bonehead plays are still made in baseball and here is one that nearly equals the famous break made by Fred Merkle years ago. At Kenosha, Wis., August 22, with the score tied in the ninth inning, John Smader, third baseman on a local team, reached third. With two out, the next man at bat hit a terrific drive over third. Smader leaped high into the air and caught the ball, when he might easily have run home with the winning score. Decision by umpire: "Runner out; hit by batted ball." Put that one away in your book, as it is the prize bonehead of 1929.—Dr. Battey in Beloit Gazette.

ALIBI.

Drunk with quince blossom and the wine of clover,
You came to me one day when love was over,
And with exquisite irony and splendor
You said, "O now, adorable and tender,
O lovely and incurious and proud,
Unpassionate, illusive as a cloud—
Now, O bewildering and perilous one,
No more forever under the golden sun
Shall I put trust in any woman's kiss;
No more, O white and wonderful. And this—
The last low word of love my lips shall speak—
Is spoken to the languor of your cheek,
To your cool mouth and to your tempered eyes,
Your heart would never listen, O most wise."
Gallant you were, and bravely debonair,
Drunk with wild plum, and with your new love's hair.

STARBEAMS.

A New York man solved the old safety razor blade problem simply and naturally by hauling the blades down and dropping them into the Hudson River. But that, like dropping them into the Grand Canyon, is all right for a few—but suppose everybody tried it?

A Chicago man offers to trade a typewriter for a shotgun. It was merely the pen, you recall, that was mightier than the sword.

Many were the resolutions heard solemnly pronounced yesterday against family partnerships in bridge hereafter, but most of those resolutions have been made before, and have been broken lightly. Our prediction is that for every family that keeps the resolution growing out of the current publicity, there will be five other families that will make engagements with bridge teachers and start learning the game.

The friendly freshman on the front row confided to H. R. H. that he had been terribly bored all through his high school composition work, because his teacher spent the time worrying about spelling, punctuation and such junk as that, when what he really wanted to was study style.

When I consider ways and means
Of fleeing from the daily strife—
Solicitors for magazines—
Young men who would insure my life
Events that I must run and see,
The telephone's incessant bell—
I often wish that I could be
Secluded in a prison cell.

For there the days pass gently by Without accompaniment of din;
All people who have wares to cry
Are on the outside looking in.
Along the corridors of crime
No brisk and snappy salesmen lurk.
And prisoners have loads of time
To sit and think, or even work.

But all the prisons, so I read,
Are quite uncomfortably full;
To get a cell in one you need
A clever politician's pull.
It is too late for me to seek
The haven of the jailhouse door—
I guess my case is not unique,
Others have had the thought before!

SYNOPSIS.

James Dorn, 28-year-old aerial map-maker, with headquarters at Titan Pass, in the Canadian Rockies, is surprised one night when his 27-year-old friend, Kansas Eby, tells him he has seen a frightened girl leave the transcontinental train and run into the bush. Kansas has been attending the dance at Titan Pass and afterward returns by plane to his headquarters at Eagle Nest, 200 miles east. After midnight an old native, Pere Bergelot, brings the girl across Titan Lake in a canoe to Jim's tent. The girl is Aurore McNain. She says her father, a prospector for platinum, is in danger at Lake of the Dawn, 200 miles north, and she wants Jim to let her accompany him in his plane to that point to rescue her father. Jim doubts her story but he consents to take her. Arrived at the lake, Jim finds the girl has lied. Her father is not here. She has told him the story to get him to take her to a little island in this small lake where there is a cabin that has not been used for several years. She admits she lied, in order to escape from someone. She is versed in woodcraft, having formerly lived in the woods with her father, who, Jim understands, was an engineer or field scientist or engaged in some profession which took him to various places throughout the Northwest. She says she fears Jim would not understand if she tried to explain her predicament but will tell him if he insists. He permits her to keep her secret for the present. He returns to Titan Pass and learns that a man is about seeking a clue to Aurore. Old Bergelot hints Dorn has fallen in love with Aurore. He admits it. Following the girl's instructions, he goes to Edmonton and buys supplies for her. After selling the costly barrette she gave him, he is shadowed to his hotel and placed under arrest. The detective offers him $20,000 to reveal the girl's whereabouts. Jim slugs the detective and escapes. He wires his friend Kansas to fly his plane to meet him. Next day Jim lands at Lake of the Dawn and delivers Aurore's supplies. She meets him eagerly and it thrills him to think she is falling in love with him, although he has a twinge of worry whenever he recalls that Bergelot warned him it would be impossible for him to marry her. Returning to Titan Pass, Dorn is confronted by the Edmonton private detective and his employer, Henry Carter-Snowdon. The latter is extremely wealthy and has some sort of hold upon Aurore. When Jim refuses to reveal the girl's whereabouts, a fight ensues and Jim thrashes both men.

CHAPTER XVI—(Continued).

THAT'S her story and his. She's afraid to tell you and he don't want it known. I don't double-cross anybody. But I want to give you some advice if you'll take it. I said once, if you don't pull out of this affair the Dominion isn't big enough to hold you. That's what I mean. You don't know what you're up against. Don't think she knows all she stirred up either. You got a battle right ahead of you, and you're going down and out. D'you know how many men he's got on this job?

"A couple dozen, likely."

"Couple dozen—hell! Fifty! And some of 'em are just as good at this bush-work as you are. How do you expect to hold out against all them? How do you expect to save her—with all them out to get you?

"Now listen. You called me your Christian friend once, and that's what I am now. I want to give you a right steer. There's only one thing Miss McNain can do. I know what it is. I want you to take her a letter from me. She'll understand what I say. Take it to her right off—don't dare waste time—tomorrow at the latest."

Dorn suddenly saw through the detective's scheme. His hands itched to wring the fellow's neck and throw his carcass into the lake. Open hostility he could pardon. But under cover of friendliness Soft-Shoe had tried to stab him. In tones of human sincerity he had masked a fiendish trick.

Dorn did not betray that he guessed the plan. Quite as poker-faced as the detective, he agreed: "All right. I'll take her the message."

Soft-Shoe held out his hand. "You tell her to do just as I say. It's the only way she can save herself. If you've got any doubts about this, between you and me, I'll give you my word of——"

"Don't bother," Dorn bade him. He appeared not to notice the detective's hand. "Go in my tent and write your letter."

He turned away and helped Carter-Snowdon to his feet. It occurred to him that now while he held the power of life and death over his chief enemy, he perhaps should make the man swear he would abandon this hunt for Aurore McNain and never molest her. "But what would an oath mean with him?" Dorn reflected. "He'd break it the minute he's out of gun range."

Soft-Shoe came out and slipped him the letter. Watching his two enemies shuffle down through the spruces to the boat they had come in, Dorn tore the envelope to bits and laughed sardonically. The detective had given himself away; had spiked his own plan. Dorn knew that Soft-Shoe was expecting to trail him to-morrow. Expecting to dog him on his airy path and discover Aurore's hiding place. The letter was a decoy.

His enemies were after him in an airplane.

Late that evening, when Dorn had shaved, and dressed his battered knuckles, and eaten supper—a lonely meal after his breakfast with Aurore—he hailed a meti passing in a canoe and sent word for old Luke to come over and see him.

It was no comfort to remember he had whipped and humiliated those two men that afternoon. His triumph was a barren one, with no consequences except indeed that now Carter-Snowdon bore him a personal enmity. Henry Carter-Snowdon had been knocked down, knocked out, by a man's fist, and the devil would be to pay for that.

Looking at the whole situation Dorn reflected: "At first they were hunting all over two provinces for Aurore; now it's narrowed down to my cartographing territory. For a while at first they hadn't the faintest clue to her; now they know I've got her somewhere and they've tracked me down and it's a question of days or maybe hours till they train their guns on me." He thought grimly, "They're an efficient outfit—nailing me there in Edmonton, waiting for me here." This search reminded him of a hunting eagle spiralling in ever-narrowing circles, closing in relentlessly, till its wings folded and it shot down upon its prey.

Their next step would be an attempt to capture him. He was quite safe from a bullet in the back, because he was the only mortal who knew where Aurore was, and they had to have that information. Soft-Shoe's words, "He'll talk for me," were ominous warning. That alley-wolf probably knew methods to loosen the tongue of any man.

With a threat of torture facing him now, Dorn reasoned in hard, practical fashion: "By day, in the Silver Hawk, I can take care of myself. But I can't fly in the daytime and sit up with a rifle across my knees at night. I've got to sleep, and sleep relaxed. If old Luke is on guard out in the spruce shadows, they won't sneak past him; and I'll be safe at night. With a rifle and automatic apiece he and I could put up a wonderful argument. A dynamite fence—wires strung under the moss, this whole area around camp mined—that would help out wonderful too."

Old Luke came, much the better for a few hours' sleep. In the twilight the two of them sat down on the moss in front of the tent. Dorn was aware that he was taking a decisive step. To no other man on earth, excepting Kansas Eby, would he have entrusted the secret of Aurore McNain's whereabouts.

He said in the Jargon: "Luke, I am in trouble, I have many enemies; I need your help. I tell you everything; then you can say yes or no whether you want to help me. This wawa that I tell you now is precious. It must never be whispered. Before I tell you . . ."

With those glittering black eyes watching him Dorn took out pipe and tobacco, put a mere pinch in the bowl, lighted it and passed the pipe to the old Beaver. Luke took it and puffed smoke solemnly to the four directions, and handed the pipe back. Dorn knocked the ashes into his palm, scooped a tiny hole at his feet and buried them in Mother Earth; and so between him and the old Beaver Indian stood the ancient oath of secrecy, of good faith. As he performed the primitive ritual Dorn thought it a strange commentary on white man's honour that this old Indian, who lived in a shack beneath the railroad grade and possessed little on earth save the blanket he wore, would keep his promise inviolate where one white man spoke with a double tongue and another, the richest man in three provinces, would make and break a pledge in the same breath.

He said: 'Luke, up north two hundred miles on old Carrier trail is lake. Seven islands in that lake, and up above it is meadow where the foolish-bears" (mountain goats) "come to pasture." Drawing an imaginary map on the moss, he pointed out where wilderness lake and island cabin were. "You kumtux place I mean, huh?"

"Before you born," old Luke said gravely, "I pitch teepee on island of big pines; hunt siam-siam the grizzly in those mountains."

"Kloshe, you know. Luke, you once took white man and young white girl to lake of seven islands. You remember girl, huh?"

"What name, her? In Bergelot's wawa it mean sunrise, huh?"

"Yes, Aurore—Aurore McNain."

"Do I remember young squaw-siche and her father? . . . Five summers I go with them north to lake; be hunter, guide. I know her when she only this so-high; when she make pies out of mud and papoose-doll out of pine-cone and rags. Over danger places on trail I carry her in these arms."

Dorn thought that surely the old Indian who had known Aurore so well in years past would know something to light up her present trouble. He asked: "You go north with them five summers, huh? How long ago last time?"

"Four Great Suns."

Four years. The signs at the cabin had told him substantially that. Four years since Aurore had gone Outside. He asked: "You hear, know, anything about her since last trip, huh—where she go, what she do, what happen to her?"

Her father had died, Luke said. Old Bergelot had read that news to him out of a paper; and they had often talked of Aurore. But since that last trip they had lost track of her. Every Christmas time she sent them both a present—from Victoria, from Montreal, from New York. Beyond that she had dropped completely out of sight.

Dorn said: "Luke, this girl Aurore is living up at that lake now."

The old Indian started like a hit buck. "What? Living at lake? Huh!"

Dorn related how Bergelot had brought Aurore across to his tent the night she fled from the Transcontinental, and how he had flown her north to the lake, and about his Edmonton trip, and about her enemies who were closing in upon her.

When he finished, old Luke sat chewing meditatively on a sweet-birch twig. When he finally spoke, he talked at greater length than Dorn had ever before known him to. His former guardianship over Aurore, her return now after these years, seemed to have loosened the strings of his tongue. He ventured an explanation of her flight—an echo of the vague guess Dorn himself had made.

He mused: "She mountain-born. When she very little girl, hair pigtails, she lope bush like Indian and climb trees like lynx kitten and swim like little brown mink; and I teach her see things white man's eyes never see. And I teach her hunt, fish, shoot bow and walk still over forest leaves.

"Then she go away. But always she mountain-born, always love bush. I think Outside in white man's big cities she get caught up like leaf in skookum chuck and whirled along, but always she hear voice of the mountains; and in end, when she get in some terrible trouble, when she not much want to live, when she have sickness no root or herb can cure, then she flee back—home."

More definitely than that old Luke could not even speculate.

Then Dorn asked him: "You know now what my trouble is, why I cannot fight these hiyu enemies alone; will you help me protect her?"

The old Indian deliberated, like one who does not enter a thing lightly. If he promised, the oath would bind him; there would be no drawing back when danger loomed in the days ahead. Finally he made decision, and without reaching his hand to Dorn and with no thought of money payment, he said in croaking guttural:

"I help. What matter I get killed? We are together in this fight."

They sat till late, Dorn and the old Beaver, talking across a handful of fire; and while the wolf howl quavered down from Titan Range and the song of the mountains arose in the night silence, they laid their plans for the struggle that was tightening down to battle.

When he awoke the next morning Dorn found the air too thick and hazy for cartographing. After making old Luke go to sleep, he wrote up his flying log, boxed his precious films for shipment, and went over to the station. There he wired to Edmonton for a machine gun, and procured a box of gelatin dynamite from a meti prospector; and back at camp he fixed brackets in the plane cockpit to mount the gun, and planted a neat dynamite mine around his tent.

At noon he roused old Luke and said: "I fly away now six, seven hours. S'pose you go scouting, find out where enemy camp is, how many men."

After Luke had gone, Dorn made up a bundle of things—the camera Aurore had asked for, a few camp artcles she had overlooked, a moth-eaten bathing suit of his own, a couple of extra blankets for Aurore—and started westward from Titan Pass.

He had a double purpose in his flight that day: to make his enemies believe that Aurore was hiding somewhere in the western ranges; and after he had led them astray, to fly back northeast to her and visit her and learn definitely from her lips whether old Bergelot's "Can never" was true or false.

He thought: "I know her well enough now to ask her that. And she'll tell me. If it's true, she won't let a man go on with her. She'll want me to know."

He knew also that Aurore would tell him something about herself. During the hours of their tramp she had asked him many questions about his babyhood, his wander-years, his flying career. It was her way of deepening and broadening their friendship; and Dorn felt she was preparing to tell him of her trouble.

Sailing along at moderate speed, he noticed, far away in the north, a heavy thunderstorm covering several hundred square miles and creeping eastward. Underneath his ship a lighter cumulus lay in gray lakes and pools, slowly gathering, taking on a darker hue.

Sixty miles west of Titan Pass he let the Silver Hawk fly itself and turned and gazed back along his airy trail. In a moment or two he spotted a small shiny speck hanging in the sky. It grew no bigger, no smaller; but maintained a steady distance. A thousand feet lower than he, it kept dodging in and out of the clouds, taking advantage of them and of the mountains to hide from him.

Reaching out his binoculars, he drew the enemy ship up close. The machine was a big biplane equipped with pontoons—a slow and heavy craft. It might carry a couple of machine guns, but it could never get in range of his swift Silver Hawk.

When Dorn judged he had led his enemy far enough astray, he settled down to the job of shaking them off. Twenty minutes after he pushed the throttle wide open, the shining speck behind him dwindled to a pin-point and vanished.

To make a sure job of it, he cut abruptly north, whipped over a saw-tooth range into a mountain valley, got down under a blanket of cloud stretching from peak-line to peak-line, hummed north thirty miles into the oblivion of the thunderstorm area, and whirled back east.

Two hours later he sighted the huge star-shaped glacier overlooking the Lake of the Dawn.

CHAPTER XVII—"CAN NEVER."

While Dorn was speeding toward his landmark the glacier, Aurore McNain was sitting on a rock at the west side of her island where the wolf-foot moss was soft and velvety beneath her and where the sun beat down warm and golden and life-giving.

With thunderstorms rumbling in the mountains like distant battles drawing near, the afternoon was hot and sultry; and Aurore had gone swimming in the cool waters of the lake. Her hair flowed down from her shoulders and spread on the moss behind her; she was sitting pensive, her arms about her knees, watching out over the lake where a pair of band-tailed pigeons, graceful and rhythmic as a poem of motion, tilted and volleyed in their airy mating dance.

Aurore was thinking very earnestly, not of what lay between her and Henry Carter-Snowdon, for the past was irrevocable now, and she considered herself safe at present from pursuit, but of a new crisis, come upon her all suddenly—her relation with Jim Dorn. Since yesterday, when she saw unmistakably that Dorn wanted her, she had been trying to force herself to a decision which dismayed her and from which she shrank, but which she felt driven to by all Jim Dorn had done for her and by a tender sympathy for his happiness.

She thought: "I must shield Jim. Whatever I do I've got to spare Jim. When he speaks of a terrible wreck he calls it a 'crack-up,' and that's what this will be to him if I let it drift on and he comes to like me—more than he does."

At first Aurore had been afraid of Dorn, because he seemed so very stern and strong. A sword, Dad Bergelot had called him, and probably he was a sword to other people. She still trembled to think how severe his standards were and how terrible his judgment of her would be, but she was no longer afraid of him personally, for she knew that the power was not his, but hers. She was more afraid of herself, and puzzled by her own feelings. It bewildered her, it was a new and startling experience, to remember that yesterday, when she realized he wanted her, she was not frightened, as she should have been, and did not think the less of him for it, and did not want to send him away.

Certain incidents between them lingered in Aurore's memory with an intensity out of all proportion to their significance. She kept reliving those moments when Dorn had lifted her with one arm into the Silver Hawk that first night and had raised her so lightly and easily to peer into a humming bird's nest. She thought: "But it's not just his strength; it's his character. And that's why—because he's got character and would never let himself want a girl unless he loved her—that's why I mustn't allow this to drift."

She accused herself: "I'm a coward. I ought to have told him yesterday. I did hint to him; I said I wanted to keep his respect as long as I could; and he wouldn't believe me."

But Aurore's reluctance did not spring from any cowardice. She reasoned: "He would never come here again. He'd send that partner of his—Kansas—to take care of me." She could not bear to think of living alone there without the prospect of Jim Dorn's company, or of cutting herself off from him and never seeing him again. She would say, "I hope he won't visit me again for three or four weeks;" but while she sat there on the rock she frequently turned her head to look at the south pass, where she expected him to appear out of the clouds when he did come.

Aurore could remember almost the exact words in which he had told her about his life; and that set her to thinking she was altogether a worthless creature compared to Jim Dorn. She thought: "I had every chance, and now see what I've come to; while Jim—Jim didn't have a chance in the world. He was robbed of everything when he was a baby three years old." Last night she had lain awake, watching a star through her window, and remembered about that big man his father and the wild-flower garden and the blue-eyed girl who told him elfin stories, and that autumn day at the first fall of snow; and Aurore had cried a bit about that.

Dorn had spoken carelessly of his early hardships, but she knew what it meant for a boy in his 'teens to work and live with the rough men of a timber crew, and live all winter in a lonely trapping shack. It had been terribly bleak and hard, but it had built character. She could imagine him going out, purposive, with no softness or idleness about him, and joining that picked body of men who flew, and becoming one of them and one of the best of them.

Those early years had built character, but Aurore knew they had been too bleak and too hard. She could see the effects of them on Jim Dorn. At times she did not think of him as a man who could lift her with one arm, but as a person who needed her care. In her thoughts of him at such times there was a good deal of maternal tenderness. She wished: "I'd like to take him and—and see if I could make him happier and make amends for those early years. But instead of that, I've got to . . ." and she went back to her fight with herself whether or not to tell him, and she made no decision when Dorn came.

She first heard a singing whine which seemed to come from nowhere and which grew steadily louder until, high above the glacier, she saw the Silver Hawk wing in between two heavy white clouds and then sail out into the unbroken blue above her.

As the airplane came spiralling down toward the island, Aurore stood up and waved. At three thousand feet the machine levelled off and flew in circles; and after a few moments of wonder Aurore understood that Dorn had seen her, in bathing suit, and was giving her opportunity to change clothes if she wanted to. She hesitated a little till she remembered he had said something about fetching a bathing outfit, and guessed he had brought it this time and might like to go swimming.

Hurrying across the island, she got a blanket at the cabin by way of dressing robe, and ran on to the cove. Dorn dropped down, taxied close in, and paddled ashore with a pack.

As they shook hands Aurore saw Dorn's quick, disciplined glance at her throat and loosened hair, and noticed how he made himself look then at her eyes. He stopped and unbuckled the pack to show her what he had brought. She thought: "He knew I didn't need them so soon. They're an excuse—unless his work took him up near here." She saw his bathing suit and said: "If you'll go up to the cabin, Jim, I'll wait for you."

She watched till he had entered the door; then turning, she looked at the Silver Hawk, wondering just why Jim Dorn had come; and finally, slipping the blanket from her shoulders, she swam out to the airplane. Standing on a pontoon, she peeped into the cockpit. She saw some new brackets which Dorn had lately fixed against the sides for some purpose, but his big aerial camera was not there.

"He wasn't mapping. He came two hundred miles—a four-hundred-mile trip—for an hour with me." She repeated the words, "For an hour with me," and her eyes were frightened. There on the pontoon of his plane Aurore came to her decision. "I've got to tell him—before he leaves. I've got to—got to . . ."

She glanced fearfully at the cabin under the great pines, and she experienced a sudden wild impulse to run away and hide.

Aurore could swim like a young otter and floated so easily that Dorn half believed she could curl up on the water and go to sleep like an otter; and she dived so far that Dorn, with an eye always alert on her, would hold his breath waiting for her to break surface. In a straightway race she could lead him, her arms flashing overhead, for fifty or sixty yards, but then his sturdy breast-stroke overhauled her, and in a hundred yards she invariably called off the race.

The lake water was too chill for comfort, and a cloud came over the sun. Dorn said, "Shall we go in? I noticed a storm coming. If you'll let me be the first to change clothes . . . I've got a chore I must do."

In the cabin he dressed quickly, and taking the rifle he had left with Aurore, he paddled around to one of the tiny islets. A band of grizzly caribou, tame as all unhunted wilderness animals are tame, had been staring fixedly at Aurore and him from a thicket of devil's-club. He shot a yearling, and brought back the choice portions.

He was looking out for Aurore in case of some "accident" to himself.

From the damp, felt-lined box where she kept her tackle, Aurore selected trout lurs to match the colour of shad and mayfly she had seen on the water that morning, and for half an hour she and Dorn fished in a drifting canoe. Rather, Aurore fished. Standing in the prow of the clumsy craft, she whipped the water in and out of the flag lanes, placing her fly to the inch, while Dorn was content to use landing net and watch her and wonder at her magic power over his blue devils and his worries.

On their way back to the cove he doubly anchored the Silver Hawk and covered the cockpit with canvas.

Twilight came an hour early when, over the western range, huge inky masses reared up, streaked with incessant white flashes. A mantle of purple shadow fell across the lake. As Dorn and Aurore walked up the path under the pines, the golden-crowned sparrows were singing their evening song—five low silvery notes of an exquisite, unforgettable cadence.

The supper Aurore prepared was a treat to Dorn, who was about burned out on his own cooking. She knew how to plank trout on cedar slabs. Across on the mainland she had gathered six-inch shoots of the creeping raspberry, succulent as asparagus. Somewhere she had found a bed of bracken fern, whose root-bulbs were quite like potatoes. There was white bread baked in ashes, and a tart of Arctic cranberries, and coffee with cream in tablet form.

Afterward they drew chairs up to the fireplace and Dorn blanketed one for Aurore. She had shaken her hair out loose after their swim and tied it at the back with cord ribbon from one of the packages. He thought it made her look younger, more girlish. As one wants to stroke the satiny breast of a waxwing, he wanted to reach out and run his hand over the silken waves of it. Her lips were slightly parted, her eyelashes heavy and brooding; and she would not look at him.

While the storm lashed the pine-tops and the rain came down in wave-like inundations, they listened to the terrific thunder-crashes that struck against the mountain slopes and rolled bellowing across the lake; and they had little to say until the worst of the storm had passed and the rain settled into a steady downpour.

"Jim"—Aurore's voice broke the silence of half an hour—"you've heard, I know you've heard, of Roger McNain."

Though he had been out of touch with his native province for many years, Dorn had heard the name and knew the reputation of the famour engineer. A man of broad interests, he had risen out of his profession and become leader of a powerful reform party. Guiding spirit in a dozen huge enterprises, he had stood like a rock in a torrent, blocking political graft and exposing scandals and waste; and he had won the trust and the love of that tribunal whom the politician calls "my dear people."

"Roger McNain was my father, Jim," she said quietly.

Her revelation came as a surprise; Dorn had never connected her name with McNain, the engineer, and scientist and fighter. But he scarcely gave it a second thought then, for he knew Aurore had not told him that for its own sake, but as preparation for something to come.

"He was more than a father," she went on. "More than just the cause of my being. Everywhere on all his work he took me with him. I never went to school a day till I was seventeen. He wouldn't let anybody else educate me, but tried to make me his own personal handiwork. I think he disliked the idea of turning his child over to strangers to be taught. He made me study books, and study hard, but he also guided me into the knowledge a person gets out of doors.

"He was a builder, Jim. And I think he tried, with the patience and loving care of an artist, to make me his best piece of work. But there's a danger—looking back now I can see it—a danger in what he tried. If he had lived, he might have completed his work. But he died. He'd been my whole world; I was lost and had no one to turn to. I wasn't altogether to blame for what—what I fell into later. I was young and pliable. My mother meant to do well, according to her ideals . . ."

What kind of teeth is your baby building?

Will they be hard.. sound.. straight ..even.. uncrowded?

OR will they be soft and subject to early decay...menacing his health and detracting from his appearance in later years?

You can help your baby build good teeth for life by seeing now that he gets a plentiful supply of one essential tooth-and-bone-building factor, Vitamin D!

There are two common sources of this protective element. Sunshine and good cod-liver oil.

Sunshine would protect your baby but it is almost impossible to get enough sunshine on the bare skin to be of benefit. Clothing, clouds, fog and smoke prevent it. Even ordinary window glass filters out the protecting ultra-violet rays.

Authorities urge Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—as the surest protection. And many of them insist on Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil.

They prefer Squibb's because they know they can depend on its high vitamin content. It is not only very rich in Vitamin D, which helps to build good bones and teeth, but also in Vitamin A which promotes growth and increases resistance to many infections.

Your physician knows the importance of good cod-liver oil for your baby. Use the vitamin-tested, vitamin-protected oil—Squibb's. All good drug stores have Squibb's Plain and Squibb's Mint-flavored Cod-Liver Oil.

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Oily Scalp Ended Quick, Says Hair Expert

"People who don't know what to do, try for years in vain to end oily scalp," says a hair dresser. "They use alcohol preparations and other solutions, which often injure the hair without ending oil.

"Here's the secret used in my salon and which brings results at once. Just dissolve a tablespoonful of Mu-col, a mildly astringent powder, in a pint of warm water. Rub into scalp for three minutes and dry. Excess oil vanishes and hair takes on new life at once. Mu-col also dissolves dandruff; tones up skin tissues of scalp; makes hair soft, silky and lustrous. It is also the best rinse after a shampoo."

Don't let oily scalp or dandruff choke off hair growth or cause it to thin out. Get Mu-col from your druggist today.
